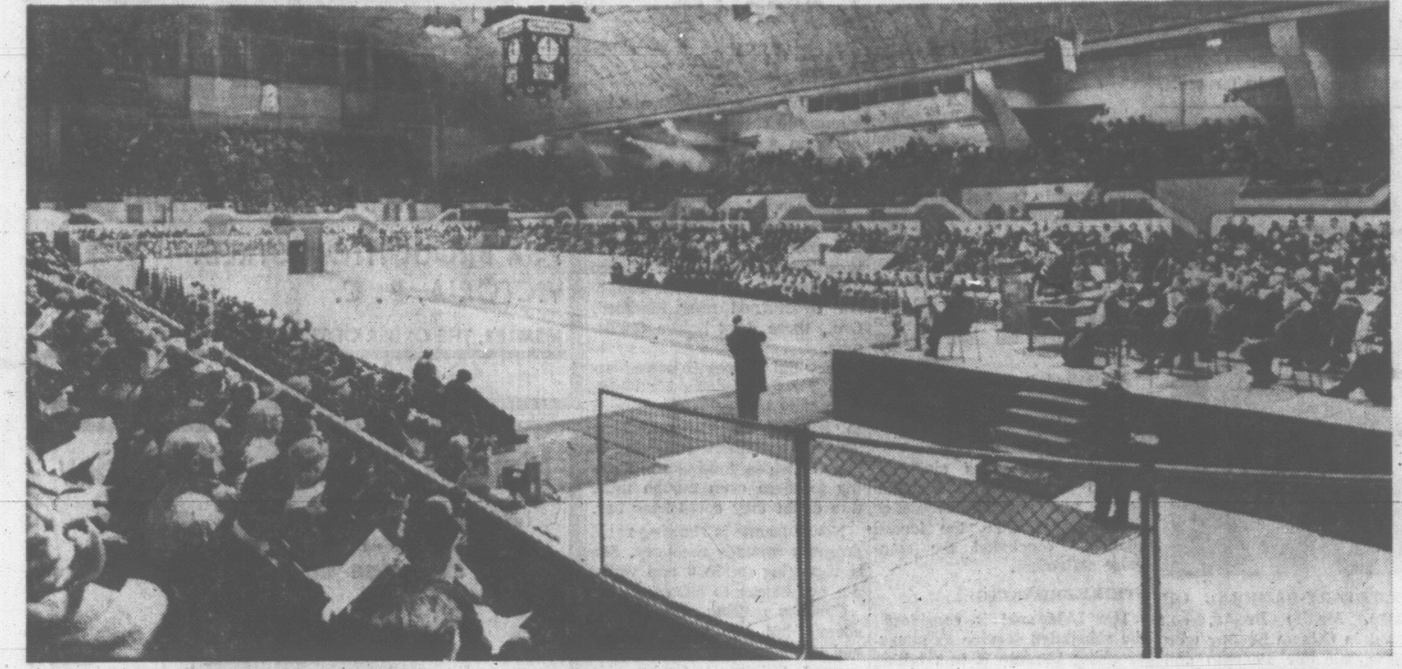
NEGOTIATORS BREAK TO ASSESS POSITIONS

(See Story Page 2)

MONTREAL (CP)—Resumed talks between Air Canada and the International Association of Machinists, aimed at settling a strike that grounded the airline a week ago, broke up shortly before noon today to give both sides a chance to re-examine their positions.

Ease Up Curbs on Economy Ottawa Advised by Experts



ALMOST 5,000 people filed into the Memorial Arena Sunday night for an interdenominational service marking the 100th anniversary of the joining of Vancouver Island with the mainland. With representation from all major segments of the community, Lt.-Governor Georges Pearkes and the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Robert Bellinger, shared the honors in the celebration climax organized by the Greater Victoria Centennial Society. Dock Strike Injunction Verdict Held

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice Kirke Smith today reserved judgment until later today on an application by the B.C. Maritime Employees' Association to halt picketing of British Columbia ports by striking longshore foremen.

The foremen set up picket lines Thursday, demanding certification of their local 514 of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union as a bargaining unit.

Longshoremen refused to cross the picket lines and work was halted on the waterfront in ports from Vancouver to Prince Rupert.

The employers claim the foremen are considered supervisory personnel and should not be members of the union.

Mr. Justice Smith heard submissions from the employers and the striking foremen in a 90-minute session today.

BEHIND STRIKE

The employers charted the ILWU with being behind the strike in a move to get the foremen recognized officially as members.

The foremen maintained they are not represented by any union at present and have the right to withdraw their services if they see fit.

A spokesman for the employers said Sunday plans to seek an ex-parte injunction were dropped, so that both sides might be represented.

Pickets appeared again at Ogden Point this morning and the docks continued idle.

Longshoremen refused to cross the picket lines established by foremen.

Two ships sat silently at the dockside — the Chapel River and Jagona. They are waiting to load lumber.

Victoria business agent Stan Ball said the union here is continuing to dispatch men for work in conformity with the current contract .

However, the contract provides that the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association "does not expect members of the union to pass a picket line."

Long-Term Goals Put in Jeopardy

OTTAWA (CP)—The economy is falling slightly short of its main goals of continuous growth, rising employment and stable prices and the time is near for some easing of the restraints on investment, the Economic Council of Canada said today.

In its third annual review, the advisory body urged greater encouragement for production and productivity and said the federal government must give the lead in smoothing out swings in the important construction industry.

The council said it doubts that an incomes policy or prices and wages guidelines would work in Canada, except for a short period of time and in unusual circumstances. Canada, faced more competition than most countries in both the goods it sells abroad and what it imports.

"The Canadian economy appears to have been in a rather delicately balanced position by mid-1966 in relation to its medium- and longer-term goals and potentialities," the council said.

"In fact, the case might be made that the economy appears to have been moving, or at least threatening to move, slightly away from all of its basic economic and social goals at the same time."

The goals, set by the council in its first annual review of the economy in January, 1965, are full employment, a high rate of economic growth, reasonable stability of prices, a viable balance of international payments and an equitable distribution of rising incomes across Canada.

Unemployment Up Slightly

But the council now finds:

—Unemployment has risen slightly.

—Productivity growth has slowed.

—Demand for goods and services was sharply checked in April, May and June this year.

—Prices and costs have increased rapidly in several categories.

—There is concern about maintaining strength in the balance of payments.

"We have concluded that while it is by no means inconceivable that the economy could move slightly farther away from several of its goals in the near-term future, the underlying situation — both internationally and domestically—still displays indications of sufficient basic strength and balance to make it unlikely that the country faces the danger of a prolonged or major departure from the goals," said the 110,000-word report.

The council was set up by the government, with a board composed of management, labor and consumer representatives and academic economists under J. J. Deutsch as chairman, to report periodically on medium- and long-term trends and goals for the economy.

It said, in brief, that the economy this year needs some dampening down but "it is important not to resort to short-term measures which would be inappropriate for the achievement of longer-term goals."

It noted that tighter credit restrictions and cutbacks in government spending have moderated pressures towards over-expansion, but said there was a long time-lag in these policies becoming really effective.

'Timely Easing of Restraints'

"Special care must be exercised to give consideration to a timely easing of the fiscal restraints on investment—again having regard to the long lags likely to be involved between any such actions and their probable effects on investment outlays."

The council said that in addition to having to compete in the export market and to having much of its domestic economy

Italy Fails to Get Support From Canada

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Italy, with the backing of five other countries, formally presented a motion today for a committee study of the United Nations' Chinese membership issue, a motion for which it tried and failed to get Canadian support.

Reporters were quick to ask "how about Canada?" when Ambassador Piero Vinci showed them the motion at a press conference and gave the names of six co-sponsoring countries. The names did not include Canada.

"I am not entitled to reply for Canada," Vinci said. "But I want to emphasize that the Canadian government has co-operated very closely with us and we are grateful for the work they have done in helping us to reach this stage."

Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile and Trinidad and Tobago co-sponsored the resolution with Italy.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg told the assembly that the United States can vote for the proposal because it "precludes nothing and doesn't suggest the expulsion of the Nationalist Chinese."

The resolution asks the proposed committee to recommend a solution "taking into account the existing situation and the political realities of the area"

ASKS ASSISTANCE

It calls for the committee to explore and study the situation in all its aspects and recommend "an equitable and practical solution" to the 1967 assembly session. It appeals "to all governments concerned to give assistance to the committee in its search for such a solution."

Vinci said its object is to "break the deadlock" on the issue. He criticized a pending resolution to replace Nationalist China with Communist

Wilson 'Ready' To Order Break With Rhodesia

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson is reported ready today to order a complete break with the Ian Smith regime and to call for mandatory United Nations sanctions against Rhodesia.

But first he wants to consult with Commonwealth leaders through diplomatic channels to pave the way for full support on selective sanctions, informants said.

Wilson is understood likely to make his announcement on Rhodesia this week, ignoring Smith's appeals for a man-to-man talk. Wilson's aides consider this just another Smith tactic to win recognition for his illegal regime.

An indication that the British leader is ready to reach a decisive position on the crisis came during the weekend when Judith Hart, junior Commonwealth minister, cancelled a scheduled trip to Kenya because of the Rhodesian issue.

Wilson likely will hold a cabinet meeting Tuesday. One newspaper suggested his announcement will come Thursday.

REPORTED CAUTIOUS

There are reports Wilson plans to move with some caution, feeling he does not carry the country with him on Rhodesia where the minority white regime speaks with a British accent. However, he has pledged to Commonwealth leaders that he will ask for mandatory sanctions before the end of the year if his negotiations fail.

There is no indication that amid all the prolonged negotiations Smith has budged an inch from his determination to keep the country's control out of the hands of the majority 4,000,000 Negroes.

But Britain has big trade with South Africa which has repeatedly warned it will not abide any trade curbs against its friend, Rhodesia. It is therefore a question whether selective UN sanctions would be any more damaging to Rhodesia than the voluntary sanctions which Wilson once hoped would be sufficient to bring down the rebellious government.

Wilson favors caution in the exercise of UN action. He may ask initially only for a complete embargo against such Rhodesian exports as chrome, asbestos and tobacco. The Rhodesian economy also depends on oil imports and Wilson may seek to delay UN sanctions on this product until a later stage.

This delaying action could heighten black African suspicions that Wilson is only paying lip-service to the idea of eliminating the Smith regime. Zambia has already accused Britain of a sell-out to the Rhodesian whites.

'Province to Suffer' If Big Hitter Fans

Premier Bennett today warned the Cariboo voters that both they and the whole province would suffer if they defeat Attorney-General Robert Bonner next week.

"Without Bonner, I don't think our government could do as much for the Cariboo—or the province," he told a press conference this morning.

The premier, back in his office after a week's holiday under the Palm Springs sun, looked his platform-stumping best and said he intends to drive to the Cariboo Tuesday to campaign vigorously for Mr. Bonner.

The premier said he will carry his message that the attorney-general is a "key man on our team" to audiences in Quesnel Wednesday night and in Williams Lake Thursday as the Nov. 28 byelection campaign hits the home stretch.

He said his government would not crumble if Mr. Bonner was defeated but "there would be a void.

"Can you make as many runs if you haven't got your homerun hitter on the team?

"Not only would I suffer, as premier, without him but the government would suffer and the Cariboo would and so would the province."

He said there were many people in the Cariboo under the misapprehension that whoever they elect to the legislature will help shape government policy.

Ultra-Nationalists Win Major Gains

BONN (AP) — Sensational gains by West Germany's new ultra-nationalist party in Sunday's Bavarian state elections increased the chances of a "grand coalition" of the Christian Democrats and Socialists to form a new national government.

Pressure mounted on the two big parties to end the 26-day-long government crisis by agreeing on a new chancellor and to agree on a revised election law that would keep the Nazi - tainted National Democratic party out of the federal parliament's lower house, the Bundestag.

The present system of proportional representation could give the National Democrats 30 or more of the 496 Bundestag seats when a general election is held if they repeat their recent success in two state elections.

In their second success at the polls in two weeks, the National Democrats became the third-strongest party in West Germany's second most populous state by winning 7.4 per cent of a record Bavarian vote and 15 seats in the legislature. They won 7.9 per cent of the vote and eight legislative seats in Hesse state Nov. 6.

CALL FOR ELECTION

As National Democrat leaders celebrated and called for a general election, Party Chairman Friedrich Thielen boasted that they "will be represented in all German parliaments."

The Bavarian results raised new fears that right-wing radicalism is rising again 20 years after the destruction of Hitler's Nazi Reich.

CAR CUTBACKS HIT WALL ST.

NEW YORK (AP) — Cutbacks in production by General Motors announced on the weekend forced prices down sharply on Wall Street today.

Food Prices to Be Pushed By Expanding Population

OTTAWA (CP)—Forces embedded deep in North America and the world are behind the rising cost of food, says the Economic Council of Canada.

It hints that the growth of world population, so far able to draw down food surpluses with little effect on prices, may soon become the most potent force of all.

Other pressures cited today in the council's third annual review: Canada's 1962 dollar devaluation; pushes exerted by North America's current economic boom; the post-war revolution in food processing and marketing.

The council says almost all of the world's cushion of wheat, coarse grains, butter and cheese stocks has disappeared since 1961. In North America, there have been other, subtle effects.

When Canadian wheat stocks were large and backing up on farms, many farmers used to turn to livestock production on a major scale. Today's big, sound markets for wheat tend to keep farmers out of the beef and dairy business.

The continent's economic health has meant individual wealth, and a long, strong effect on food demand, says the council. Shoppers want better, more highly processed foods.

Industry has drained workers from the farm and the agricultural sector has not been able to respond well to demand with higher production.

The share of the retail food cost taken by the farmer now is 40 per cent; in 1949 it was 60 per cent.

Retail food prices last year were 36 per cent above the 1949 level; farm prices were only 10 per cent higher.

The review noted, however, that since early 1965 farm prices have accounted for six to seven per cent of the rate of increase in food prices.

The effect of pegging the Canadian dollar in 1962 has been harder to measure. But the council concluded that much of the increases in prices of imports has been due to the steep decline in the foreign currency value of the dollar, which made it more expensive to buy the foreign exchange that pays for these products.

CLOTHING, SHELTER, FOOD

She Carries a Simple Message . . . HOPE

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova is an eternal messenger.

For the thousands of hungry and homeless she meets every year in the countries she visits, her message is simple — hope.

Hope in the form of barley, milk, biscuits, warm clothing and shelter given out by Unitarian Service Committee workers at overseas centres.

But her message to Canadians back home is a different one and more difficult to put across.

She tries to tell them how it feels to be hungry, to have no food or milk to give a starving child, no clothing to protect a child from winter cold.

In Victoria at the weekend to start The Times' 1966 Share with Asian Children campaign, red-haired Dr. Hitschmanova told Victorians about the work of the USC which she directs.

A world-wide relief organization with headquarters in Ottawa, the USC helps needy people regardless of creed, color, caste or nationality.

About 85 per cent of this Canadian aid goes to children — Korean orphans, hungry refugees in Hong Kong, and youngsters in Indian villages who would die without medical aid provided.

Who supports the USC?

Not the rich; more often people who have read or heard about USC work and will make the effort to contribute something in the course of their busy, comparatively easy lives.

Very often it is people for whom a dollar or two is a real sacrifice.

Through The Times Share with Asian Children fund, Victorians can contribute to the USC's work abroad, and help send Canadian goodwill to the world's needy.

Contributions may be sent to the fund in care of The Victoria Daily Times. A list of contributors will be published daily in the newspaper.

Quick Action On Swim Pool

Open by Early Summer of '67 After Easy Passage at Polls

The joint Centennial committee of Colwood, Langford and Metchosin districts will meet next Monday to draw up a firm timetable for construction of a swimming pool.

The $200,000 Olympic-sized pool was approved by area voters Saturday.

A spokesman said today the committee also will discuss "in general terms" future plans for a recreational complex "in view of the overwhelming vote in favor of the pool."

Tenders for the pool and building will be called by late February.

It will be open by early summer next year.

In an unprecedented turnout, 1,553 residents of Colwood, Metchosin, Langford, Happy Valley and Glen Lake voted in favor of the Centennial project. Only 457 votes against.

By approving the 25-metre pool property-owners were, besides adding one and one-third mills to their 1968 rates, indicating a community spirit not shown before.

'Sleeping Giant Has Awakened'

"A sleeping giant has awakened," said project committee chairman John Williams.

"I want to take this opportunity of serving notice on the rest of Greater Victoria they are going to be hearing a lot more from us in the future."

Pointing out the total population of the area is twice the combined population of Central Saanich, North Saanich and Sidney, Mr. Williams said people "finally found something worth voting for."

He hinted that with such strong support in favor of the initial development of the 18½ acre Colwood race track property, voters might ask for further development "possibly an ice surface" before too long.

During the three and one-half weeks of public meetings held to promote the pool Mr. Williams and fellow committeemen also discussed plans for a full recreational complex on the site.

Preliminary drawings for a skating rink, curling rink, senior citizens' centre, bowling alley, rifle range, picnic area, and games courts have already been made.

"There will be something for everyone," said Mr. Williams.

Other phases of the complex would also be put to a vote.

In Saturday's voting, turnout was heavy from the moment the polls opened at 8 a.m.

Extra polls had to be furnished at Langford and Colwood by mid-afternoon.

More than twice as many voted Saturday as voted on the hospitals question last December.

The building will have an entrance foyer and meeting room, permanent spectator accommodation for 150 and bleachers for large crowds.

The regional board has set a maximum cost for its construction at $250,000.

Admission to the pool will be "in line with other municipal pools," or 25 cents for children, 35 cents for students and 50 cents for adults.

It will be administered by a local commission.

A second facility on the property, which formerly belonged to the Department of National Defence, will soon be ready.

At no cost to the municipality, the South Van Isle Lions Club will set up a Tom Thumb Village where children will learn traffic-safety in scaled-down cars.

It is expected the village will be completed before the pool.

. . . ECONOMY

affected by the cost of imports, Canada's economy is influenced by generally rising prices and interest rates around the world, coupled with food shortages.

Productivity—output per person employed—was the key to rising living standards, and while Canada had moved into the front ranks of industrially advanced nations since 1963, the growth of productivity had lagged with the result that other countries were catching up.

In almost all but two important segments of industry—construction and the services—Canada was exposed to international influences. In construction, there have been wide swings from year to year. The council said this was mainly due to lack of long-range planning by the federal government.

MORE

This year's slump in house and apartment construction could have serious consequences. The labor force was growing more rapidly than expected and the rate of family formation was high. Potentially there was a housing shortage of sufficient proportions to cause major rent increases.

"In the absence of an early upturn in new residential construction, a severe housing shortage could emerge very quickly in Canada, and rent increases could become a powerful new factor accentuating the rising in living costs and in wage demands."

Payments Balance Deficit Wider

The council noted that Canada's current account balance-of-payments deficit had widened from about $500,000,000 in 1963 to $1,000,000,000, or more this year. This might widen further in the next few years. It will be necessary to maintain an adequate new inflow of foreign capital to cover the deficit.

"Prices and costs have, on the whole, been advancing slightly more rapidly in Canada than the United States over the past two or three years," the council said. But these must be kept in perspective.

Some recent jumps in prices and wage rates merely represented catching up on a time lag. This was typical behavior in any free economy after a long upsurge. It might continue.

"In the light of this experience it would appear to be inevitable that further significant increases in many lagging prices and costs are likely to continue in Canada in the near-term future regardless of basic economic conditions."

The annual fall meeting of provincial treasurers with the federal finance minister should be the starting point for public discussion of economic trends and possible budget measures in the spring. The council proposed to make its reports available earlier each fall. Budget background papers and finance department economic outlooks should be made public at the same time.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

The storm off the Washington coast gave extensive cloudiness and showers to B.C. today. It will move eastward across Washington later today with clearing skies and colder temperatures expected in its wake. The Arctic air is moving southward through the central interior and is giving widespread snow to the Cariboo and the Prince George areas. This cold air will spread across the southern interior Tuesday accompanied by snow and lowering temperatures.

House Debate Urged On Finance Firm

OTTAWA (CP) — A proposal was made today that the Commons hold an emergency debate on the financial troubles of Prudential Finance Corporation Ltd., of Toronto.

Colin Cameron (Nanaimo - Cowichan - The Islands) said the Prudential troubles are the third financial crisis, if not collapse, in recent times of a major financial institution.

Domestic and international confidence would be seriously affected if the federal Parliament did not take steps to bring such corporations under control.

Prudential, a large sales finance and loan company, appears to have a deficit of about $3,500,000, the Metropolitan Trust Co. said Sunday.

Metropolitan, acting as trustees for the debenture and note-holders, said in a statement Saturday the claims of the 8,000 Prudential Finance note-holders will be frozen and the company's affairs placed under control of Clarkson Co., trustees and receivers.

Metropolitan said Prudential Finance assets now are about $23,500,000 and its liabilities $27,000,000.

In a letter to note-holders, Clarkson Co. said no payment will be made to Prudential Finance creditors without approval of Clarkson or of a creditors' committee that is to be formed.

China in the UN and suggested that, in the interest of universality and self - determination, both should be here.

A Canadian UN spokesman said the Italian motion does not go far enough and bolder steps are needed at this stage.

While he said Canada definitely would not co-sponsor the motion, he left open the question of whether Canada would vote for it.

MARTIN TO SPEAK

External Affairs Minister Martin is tentatively scheduled to speak in the China debate Wednesday. He had been listed to speak this morning but plans were changed at the last moment.

Canada is understood to want something more specific than the Italian motion

Canada is reported to be aiming at some formula that would seat representatives of both Communist China and the Nationalist Chinese in the UN, with China's permanent security council seat going to the Communist government in Peking.

The Italian proposal would not sidetrack the vote on the seating of Peking at this session. It would be considered only after the vote on a resolution sponsored by Albania, Cambodia and nine other Communist and non-aligned countries to expel Nationalist China and seat Communist China.

SECRETARY-GENERAL OF NATO, Manlio Brosia, conferred in Ottawa Sunday with Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin in preparation for the alliance's mid-December mid-December ministerial meeting in Paris.

Youths Get Jail Terms

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five youths charged with unlawful assembly in connection with Halloween night rioting at a shopping centre in suburban North Vancouver were given jail terms and stiff fines today by Magistrate Harold Mahon.

The magistrate ordered the five, all from North Vancouver, to spend 15 days in jail and fined them $350 each.

In handing down the sentences, the North Vancouver magistrate told Bruce Waite, 19; Allan Langlois, 19; David Schaffer, 21; John Grant Thacker, 18, and Terry Green, 20, he never wants to see them in his courtroom again.

The charges arose from Halloween riots in which several stores and other buildings were damage. Police controlled the crowd with fire hoses.

Speller, Todd File Papers

Two more candidates have filed nomination papers for council seats in the Dec. 12 municipal elections in Saanich.

They are Lionel Speller, 3628 Saanich, a former Saanich police commissioner and a chauffeur at Veterans' Hospital, and Coun. Harold Todd, 1402 Andrews, a letter carrier.

Two others—Douglas Brown and Raymond Hayes—filed nomination papers earlier.

B.C. Airlines Drops Planned City Services

Scheduled air service between Victoria and Vancouver by B.C. Airlines ended today.

The move follows ironing out of a misunderstanding between two unions — the International Association of Machinists, on strike against Air Canada, and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, the union at B.C. Airlines.

The scheduled service began Friday as a partial fill-in for Air Canada.

A company statement said it "regretfully announces the cancellation of the temporarily-scheduled" inter-city service.

"Discontinuation is in accordance with B.C. Airlines' stated policy that the service would be cancelled if the operation was considered to conflict with practices recognized by labor.

"The support of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, which had been given to the operation initially, now has been withdrawn in the light of IAM picketing."

All scheduled flights Sunday and the first two Monday were operated to fulfil prior obligations.

"B.C. Airlines sincerely regrets the necessity for this action and any inconvenience which arises from the forced change," concluded the company statement.

STRIKEBREAKING

The IAM said it considered the scheduled service as strike-breaking because it was taking the place of strike-bound Air Canada.

There was no objection to chartered flights which had existed before the strike.

Scheduled service between Victoria and Vancouver continued today by Victoria Flying Services, which is non-union.

The company is running five flights each way daily airport-to-airport and four flights each way daily between the Inner Harbor and Vancouver harbor.

"We haven't been as busy as expected but we expect it will pick up now," said company president William Sylvester.

Aged Notary Public Jailed for Two Years

VANCOUVER (CP) — Notary public John A. Dowding, 81, today was sentenced to two years for stealing $67,500 from trust accounts.

"I appreciate this man's age and condition, but the law is the same for all men," said Magistrate Bartman.

Defence counsel Tom Berger said Dowding's career and reputation are in ruins and pointed out that his client had suffered a mild heart attack before going to jail on remand a week ago.

Children Catch Up On Life

Two Victoria children are beginning to catch up on life after being in a deep coma for two months following a near - fatal auto accident last December.

Suzanne, 14, and Christopher, 11, children of Wing-Commander and Mrs. J. R. Baker, 3034 Westdowne, suffered severe head injuries when their family car overturned near Medford, Ore., three days before Christmas.

They did not regain consciousness for two months by which time they had been transferred to hospital in Victoria. Mrs. Baker spent hours each day at their bedsides, talking and reading to them even though there was doubt they could hear her.

Now Suzanne is showing rapid progress towards recovery. She is repeating grade 8 and walks the two blocks to school.

Chris is making a slower recovery but he attends school and is treated at the Handicapped Children's Centre. He is now able to ride his bicycle unassisted.

The youngsters are using sports as therapy to restore coordination. Suzanne spends some time throwing a basketball through a hoop and Chris, whose walk is still slow, takes on other youngsters in slot car racing.

Both practise golf in their back yard and have resumed swimming. Suzanne was a prize-winning swimmer before the accident.

REBEL LAWYER HUNTED AFTER TOGO UPRISING

LOME, Togo (UPI)—A coup attempt by dissident soldiers was crushed today by President Nicolas Grunitzky with the backing of most of Togo's small army.

The alleged leader of the revolt, a young lawyer identified only as Kutuklu, was being sought.

There was no report of casualties in the short-lived attempt to topple Grunitzky, who came to power in January, 1963, after an army-led revolt.

Is It Paradise Or Brain-Washing?

LONDON (AP) — Five English youths have returned home from the Mixican headquarters of a cult known as The Process, which their parents say is a form of brainwashing.

Two of them are girls — 19-year-old Sabrina Verney, daughter of the painter Sir John Verney, and 20-year-old Tessa Ventris, daughter of a prominent architect.

The lawyer who brought them home said he found them living in rags in a disused and roofless salt factory in Xtul (pronounced stool), a remote village on the Gulf of Mexico.

The cult was founded in London by an English couple, Robert and Mary Ann De Grimstón, as an amateur group practising psychotherapy.

Im June its 22 members — 15 men and seven women — left their six-storey house in fashionable Mayfair and went first to The Bahamas, then on to Mexico.

The lawyer sent out by the girls' parents said the group believed they had found paradise.

"Almost all were in rags and barefoot," he said.

"There is no gas, electricity, water or sanitation. The group lives on beans.

"But they all seemed reasonably happy."

The mother of one group member said:

"My son's been completely brainwashed. He speaks like an automaton. He keeps ranting about how he's got to expiate the guilt of the whole world. It's horrible, really."

Export Expansion Imperative

OTTAWA (CP) — Maximum efforts to expand exports are imperative, the Economic Council of Canada said today in its third annual review.

"Canadian industry, both in export-oriented and in import-competing lines of production, should explore and exploit every conceivable means to strengthen its international competitive capabilities," the report said.

It said exports have surged ahead to record levels since 1963 when the council was established to keep its eye on general economic trends over the medium- and long-term future.

It was gratified that the increased exports had gone to a broader range of customers and had included a higher proportion of manufactured goods.

But this performance "has occurred in the context of exceptionally favorable external economic circumstances."

"There has been a cyclical business expansion in the U.S. economy which is not sustainable as a long-run trend. United States industrial production in 1963-66 has in fact risen at the extraordinary rate of roughly eight per cent per year, over half again as high as the indicated medium-term potentialities for the U.S. to 1970.

"This kind of U.S. expansion has always generated an unsustainably high rate of rise of Canadian exports to that country."

The U.S. market accounted for about 70 per cent of the total increase in exports of manufactured goods in the first half of this decade, and an even higher proportion this year.

FOREIGN BILLS HIGH

But Canada's big import bill, its high interest and dividend payments abroad, travel expenditures, insurance payments and transportation costs create a big deficit in international balance of payments.

The 1962 devaluation of the Canadian dollar to 92½ cents in U.S. funds under rules of the International Monetary Fund has had "a strong and prolonged impact on the Canadian economy," with the effect of making Canadian goods cheaper on foreign markets. But a large part of this effect has since been eroded away by higher costs and prices in Canada.

The council reviewed the pros and cons of fixed exchange rates, periodically adjusted, and the floating rate that prevailed before 1962. It did not recommend any change at present.

IN WAGE, PRICE CONTROLS

Avoid 'Guidelines' Experts Tell Ottawa

By DENNIS ORCHARD

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government should steer clear of so-called "guidelines" in efforts to control wage and price increases, says the Economic Council of Canada.

Voluntary guidelines won't work and the government hasn't the power to make them compulsory, says the council in its third annual review, issued today.

The report suggests better use of other levers, old and new, to keep the cost of living in order.

It says:

—Use of taxation and credit controls to regulate the economy have been short-sighted, or at least "too closely geared to relatively minor, short-term fluctuations."

—Economic bottlenecks must be spotted quickly and eased before they shove up prices.

—The federal and provincial governments must make their construction programs an important regulator of economic activity.

—Policies to build up productivity have been good, but must be much better.

—The federal government's performance as employer and collective bargainer could stand considerable improvement.

The council makes these points in a special section on wages, prices and productivity which takes up more than half of the 110,000-word annual review. It worked feverishly to complete this complex study, requested by the federal government March 22, 1965.

NO EASY REMEDY

It concluded there are no easy remedies for inflationary pressures, no ready substitutes for free collective bargaining and flexible determination of wages and prices.

The council said Canada faces mild inflation which cannot be blamed on anyone in particular. The economy is close to full employment and it cannot in all cases meet the heavy demands of consumers, business and government for its goods and services.

The remedy prescribed is not a doctoring of the demand as much as improving the supply. As a kicker, the council begs for vast increases in federal-provincial consultation about policy and in economic research.

Wage - and - prices guidelines are rejected after study of their use in the United States, Britain, France, Sweden and The Netherlands.

The report says guidelines treat symptoms but not the causes of price and cost increases, which are deep-lying demand pressures. A guideline may be easy to understand in its general application, but "at the level of individual decisions, the economy proves to be virtually a collection of special cases."

Again, a policy simple enough to be persuasive may be too simple to make economic sense.

"In such instances, it will either be ignored or will become an economic strait jacket which imposes new inequities and rigidities."

'THREATS' NEEDED

In other countries, threats and sanctions have generally been needed to back up the "voluntary" controls. Only in war would the federal government be able to impose direct price and wage controls.

Nor would a general incomes policy be good for Canada since prices may be steady in the Maritimes while they are shooting up in Ontario.

These regional differences, taken with the vital dependence Canada has on its international trading partners, stand as the main economic characteristics challenging action on price stability.

The council says Canadian and American price levels tend to line up with each other, just as the entire Canadian economy tends to follow the ups and downs of the U.S.

OTTAWA SPY CASE

No Plea Taken As Charges Read

FEATHERSTONE ... remanded one week

OTTAWA (CP) — Bower Edward Featherstone, 27, a printing craftsman in the federal mapping branch, appeared in magistrate's court today and was remanded for one week without plea on two charges under the Official Secrets Act.

Property bail of $12,500 was set, but there was no indication whether Featherstone would be able to raise it. He was kept in custody for the time being.

He was arrested early Saturday in his apartment on charges of obtaining and retaining a classified chart relating to "maritime defences" for a purpose prejudical to the safety of the state.

Today, he stood quietly in the prisoner's dock, wearing a light fawn topcoat and no tie, while his lawyer Roydon Hughes asked for bail.

Mr. Hughes said Featherstone deserved a light bail because of his circumstances. A civil servant for 10 years, he is supporting four children.

STAYED ON JOB

Mr. Hughes noted that while the RCMP investigation was under way Featherstone neither tried to leave his home nor his job.

Mr. Hughes suggested cash bail from $2,000 to $5,000 and $10,000 property bail.

Pat Galligan, the special Crown prosecutor for the case, said he does not oppose bail, but termed the case "very serious" and suggested a figure of $25,000.

Magistrate Glenn Strike said he needed more information and would consider the bail question later today.

Featherstone rocked slightly from side to side with his hands clasped low in front of him during the brief hearing. It was the first close look the public had of Featherstone, a handsome youthful man with close-cropped dark hair. He is an assistant lithographer in the mapping and survey branch of the mines department.

Five Candidates Seek Cariboo Seat

QUESNEL (CP) — Five candidates filed nomination papers Saturday for the Nov. 28 Cariboo byelection.

They were Attorney-General Robert Bonner, Social Credit; Hartley Dent, New Democratic Party; Lee Skipp, Liberal; Gerrard Goeujon, Free Trade Party; and Reginald Mullins, Independent.

Mullins, 45, is a Williams Lake teacher. He filed after trying unsuccessfully to convince Liberal and NDP officials that they should withdraw their candidates and back him as an independent.

Mr. Bonner is attempting to gain a legislative seat after being defeated Sept. 12 in Vancouver-Point Grey.

Dent, 37, gave up his Anglican Church ministry in Forest Grove to run.

Skipp is a Williams Lake lawyer, and Goeujon is a lawyer-farmer from Ladner.

More than 900 names have been added to the voters' list electoral officials report.

They said the increase in the number of voters indicated Cariboo residents are taking the byelection seriously.

The byelection was called after William Speare, the Social Credit MLA elected Sept. 12, stepped down to make way for Attorney-General Bonner, the only Social Credit cabinet minister defeated in the general election.

Social Credit won Cariboo by a 1,300-vote margin Sept. 12.

The political parties fielding candidates in the byelection have taken a poll-by-poll analysis of the general election voting from the electoral office to concentrate their campaigns on various weak spots.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 21,

For the Possible Future

WHEN FRANCE VETOED THE British application to become a member of the European Common Market, President de Gaulle was reported to have told Prime Minister Harold Macmillan that there was little point in trying to reach an agreement with a government which was about to lose office. "After that," was the substance of his remarks, "we will have a Labor government in Britain with which nothing can be done. And then will come the young Conservatives. With them we can do business."

President de Gaulle's observation is worth recalling in the context of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's latest attempt to negotiate Britain into the ECM. In a statement to the House of Commons some days ago, Mr. Wilson declared his government's "clear intention and determination to enter" the ECM. But, he added, Britain's entry would be conditional on obtaining certain "essential safeguards" such as exemption from the ECM's farm price system, continuation of Commonwealth preference in trade, and maintenance of the sterling bloc with Britain as its leader.

As Mr. Edward Heath, leader of the Conservative party observed, Mr. Wilson proposes to take into the Common Market the very things which the Common Market countries, and particularly France, are determined must be dropped by Britain. This gives Mr. Wilson's "clear intention and determination" an element of political fantasy.

A growing number of Britons see ECM membership as offering the most promising future for their country. Mr. Wilson must give them the shadow of ECM membership even though he seems unable to give them the substance.

According to reports from French political and financial circles, Mr. Wilson's speech to the Commons was not taken very seriously as a genuine desire to become part of Europe. And when he goes to Paris to inquire about entry terms, he will possibly be faced with yet another condition—a demand that Britain not only give up leadership of the sterling bloc but also cut the pound loose from the American dollar and align British monetary policy with that of the ECM.

The French argue that maintenance of the pound as a reserve currency does not correspond with reality; it is accomplished only because the pound is propped up by the dollar. Britain, they say, must choose "independence" if it wants to join the ECM—it cannot expect to lean on the dollar and have ECM support for the pound as well.

The likelihood of Mr. Wilson attempting to cut loose from the dollar, which would mean among other things drastic devaluation, seems extremely remote. British membership in the Common Market is not likely, therefore, for some time to come.

Across the River Kwai

MOST BUSINESS EDITORS, discussing the current cooperative arrangements between moving picture studios and television producers, have devoted attention largely to the economics of the industries.

In earlier days, as competitors in the entertainment field, television cut deeply into moving picture box office returns. A little more than 10 years ago, it has been pointed out, 56 per cent of American homes had television sets and their owners were staying home to see the programs they delivered instead of going to the movies.

After the Second World War about 90 million Americans went to picture shows once a week. By 1958 the total had dropped to less than 40 millions. Last year it had risen to 44 millions in spite of the fact that television ownership had spread to about 94 per cent of the nation's homes.

The television public became more demanding. Its appetite was partially satisfied by the development of a section of the moving picture industry geared to TV production. However, the viewing public wanted quality as well as quantity.

Then came the highly successful showing of the "Bridge on the River Kwai" for which a network paid $2 million. Its reception—with high rating—has encouraged the trend toward purchase of top-line films, with the prospect of some appearing first on the small screen rather than in the theatre.

Apparently through this merging of interests, both Hollywood and television expect, and with some reason, to gain financially.

But a question emerges for Canadian as well as American television watchers: Is the end result to be the higher quality production for which the public hopes? The new joint approach will have to fight against the tendency to apply the lowest-common-denominator appeal which has produced some of the worst in moving pictures and some of the worst in television.

A Good Step Forward

THE LARGE AND FAVORABLE vote in the Colwood-Langford-Metchosin area, where an extensive Centennial sports and recreation centre was approved last Saturday, has two implications.

One is that a new, cohesive community is rising in that part of the Greater Victoria region, with a population greater than that of the north and central areas of the Saanich Peninsula. The other is that this community, feeling the impetus of a common purpose and a new-found strength, appears determined to achieve importance in the life of the region.

The swimming pool which has received the ratepayers' emphatic support will provide a useful and needed facility for young and old in the area. But it is only one feature of a recreation complex which ultimately will include curling and skating surfaces, bowling alleys, a rifle range, provision for the very young, and a senior citizens' centre.

This will be a great asset to the people of the district. It will also show the way for other parts of the southern Island area to provide similar recreational facilities. Those responsible for the Colwood-Langford-Metchosin effort deserve congratulations.

Wilderness for Its Own Sake

HISTORIANS, DRAWING DISTINCTIONS between the westward flow of United States citizens last century and the simultaneous movement of the white man into Canada's west, have emphasized the fact that below the 49th parallel, the overlanders moved into new territory to settle and make their farms, while the fur-traders had little sympathy for settlement which interfered with their industry in Canada.

The pressure of population doubtless played its part in the different approaches to the west in the two countries. But at this date, conservationists in the United States find that there is little land between the Allegheny and Rocky Mountains which has been left untouched by man. Private agencies among the conservationists, notably the Nature conservationists are now engaged in a program of acquiring what virgin territory remains. They hope to leave it unmarked except by footpaths.

Here, surely, is a message for Canadians, particularly those of British Columbia. At present we are rich in wilderness acreage. But the wilderness cannot withstand incessant commercial intrusion—a point of particular concern in this province where returns from exploitation of our resources seem to blind those entrusted with its protection.

"... but this is an emergency ...!"

To the Editor

Another View

The storekeeper in question in the article printed in Thursday evening's Times has evidently been given a rough time, but he, like many adults today could have avoided a lot of trouble had the problem been tackled from the very beginning.

If his store is like many other small stores, congested, untidy, piled high with merchandise inviting shoplifting, who can be blamed but himself? He had several alternatives such as restricting the number of students allowed in at any one time as do many stores in the Vancouver area, he could move smaller packaged goods beyond reach or have hired extra help for the busy lunch period. Failing this he could have closed for a short while.

But to continue business under those conditions was only aiding and abetting borderline or future delinquents.

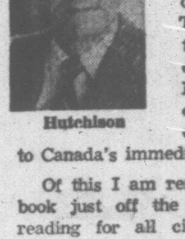
Victoria School Board regulations forbid students congregating outside school grounds and detentions are frequently given for those so doing, irrespective of behavior.

Boys will be boys. We all know this, but as we own a store very close to Victoria High we must also commend the vast majority of the 1,500 odd students who keep to the straight and narrow and we think the principals of this school are very fortunate in being as popular with the students as they are. — Mrs. D. Fairburn, 1608 Camosun.

THE THEOREM OF A PLUS B . . . AND X

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Every Thrifty Man Is Paying the Price of That Illusion



Hutchison

NOT many Canadians know what Mr. Robert Thompson meant the other day when, at Vancouver, he uttered a faint, despairing battle cry and urged Social Credit to revive the sacred A plus B Theorem. Probably poor Mr. Thompson didn't know, either. This is too bad. For the good old doctrine of Major C. H. Douglas, though factually erroneous, has become highly relevant to Canada's immediate situation.

Of this I am reminded by a notable book just off the press and required reading for all citizens who wish to understand what is really going on around them. The book will not be reviewed here but all students of the nation's secret history (often so different from the public record) will find some surprising gems in Mr. Charles A. Bowman's "Ottawa Editor" (Gray's Publishing Ltd., Sidney, B.C.).

Intimate of Giants

The author was more intimate with Mackenzie King, Arthur Meighen, R. B. Bennett and other giants than most of his contemporaries. As editor of the Ottawa Citizen, and a man of infinite compassion, Mr. Bowman crusaded for numerous good causes (also some doubtful ones as he confesses) and was the spiritual father of Social Credit in Canada.

From his intellectual and moral viewpoint everything went wrong with Social Credit, not because it was wrong in itself but because its political agents, the Aberharts, Mannings, Bennetts and Thompsons betrayed it.

"Socred politics," says Mr. Bowman in a final verdict, "has misrepresented Social Credit and misled the public . . . No single step has been taken toward Social Credit in any Canadian legislature . . . People were persuaded to vote for the party label without understanding it. Nor were many of the candidates capable of explaining it. They might as well have been voting for Social Discredit. In political ignorance, they were."

Brutal Words

These are improbably brutal words from the gentle Mr. Bowman, though doubtless accurate. But why is this long-delayed post mortem on a lost dream still relevant today? Because, of course, the A plus B Theorem, stood on its head by recent events, still manages somehow to beguile a large part of the nation which never heard of it. And thence comes much of our current confusion.

Yet there was much to be said for the Theorem when Major Douglas invented it in Britain and Mr. Bowman brought it to Canada. In a word, they both argued, quite rightly at the time, that the money then being distributed to the public as it produced goods was not sufficient to purchase them. As we know now, that was true in the nineteen-thirties and was the basic cause of the great depression.

The Social Crediters got off the rails, however, in supposing that this shortage of purchasing power was inherent, permanent and fatal in the economic system. Obviously our present troubles come from the opposite evil of excessive purchasing power and resulting inflation.

What Mr. Bowman and the other good men of his sort could not foresee in the depression years was a revolution more realistic, more powerful and more successful than their own—the revolution launched by Maynard Keynes.

Once his heresy had become the orthodoxy of democratic politics there was no need or room for Social Credit. Once Keynes had persuaded governments the world over that they must equate purchasing power with production there was no reason to worry about lack of money in circulation.

But as Keynes realized near his end, there was good reason to worry about an excess of money and its effects on prices.

We are now living in the Keynesian backwash, which the master foresaw but could not prevent: the failure of timid politicians to manage the money system sensibly after they had unloosed the inflationary tide. That is why Social Credit, discredited as it is by its agents and long since abandoned by practical administrators like Mr. E. C. Manning and Mr. W. A. C. Bennett, remains relevant to our problem, not as an easy solution but as a harsh warning.

Slide Rule Controls

To be sure, the mathematically-minded Major Douglas had a solution for our problems, as for all problems, since he could figure them out with a slide rule. If inflation threatened to get out of hand, he proposed to enforce a "just price." Thus the enemy of socialism and friend of individual liberty was driven step by step toward a system of tight state control over prices, wages and, in fact, all aspects of economic life, disguised by fancy automatic formulae.

My esteemed old friend Mr. Bowman, I suspect, will deny all this but my only purpose in writing it is to argue that neither he nor any of his fellows has ever made a proper defence of Social Credit. Which is a pity.

A perfectly sound defence can be made, not for the Theorem, the just price and Major Douglas' assorted bag of tricks, but for a proposition unquestionably as valid as it was daring when first laid down almost half a century ago — the proposition, namely, that what is physically possible should be financially possible. It was true then. It is true now. But the opposite is equally true — namely, that what is physically impossible is financially impossible.

Corollary Ignored

The economy of Canada, with that of most western nations, has strained itself to the bursting point because the first proposition has been accepted, the second largely disregarded. Reversing the economic insanity of the depression, we have operated for years on the theory that sufficient money floated out by the state can give us unlimited wealth even if we lack the physical resources to produce it.

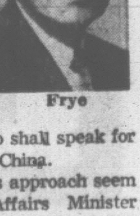
Every old pensioner in the land, every thrifty man who saved a dollar from his life's toil, is now paying the price of that illusion.

Nevertheless, in essentials, though not in details, Social Credit, like socialism, its enemy, has won a curious victory in our time. The state is managing the money system, as Social Credit desired. It also manages a large and growing segment of so-called free enterprise, as socialism desires. So, on the whole, I would guess that Mr. Bowman, in his Vancouver Island hermitage, is pretty well satisfied with his work even if he feels betrayed by the Social Credit party, his erring spiritual offspring.

FROM THE UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

By WILLIAM R. FRYE

Incompatible With a World of Nuclear Weapons



Frye

CANADA has been busily attempting to breach the "great wall" which has encompassed United States China policy since the days of the Dulles Dynasty. Ottawa is trying to persuade the UN General Assembly to undertake a study of the seating of both Red China and Nationalist China in a world organization — that is, of a two-Chinas compromise in the 16-year-old dispute over who shall speak for the 700,000,000 people of China.

The advantages of this approach seem obvious to External Affairs Minister Paul Martin and his colleagues. For example:

1. It would preserve a place in the world community for Nationalist China.

If the UN is forced to go on choosing between Taipeh and Peking very much longer, it clearly is going to choose Peking — if not this year, then next. The way to keep Taipeh from being ousted, the Canadians argue, is to seat them both.

Would Improve U.S. Position

2. Two Chinas — or an offer to seat two Chinas — would greatly improve the posture of the United States and its supporters.

If, as expected, Red China refused to sit down with Formosa, her isolation from the UN would be clearly seen to be self-imposed. Washington would no longer be blamed.

3. If and when Peking eventually did take the proffered seat, a long-range process of adjustment, accommodation and constructive influence could begin — including, if still relevant, an attempted settlement of the Viet Nam war.

The disadvantages are also obvious, and readily acknowledged.

Red China in the UN would be a dragon in a china shop, a troop of rampaging Red Guards at a garden party.

Its veto in the Security Council would unquestionably increase the frustration and paralysis of that body, adding a dimension of difficulty to the problem already presented by the Soviet veto.

China's presence at close range might tend to harden Soviet diplomacy, just as the Soviets, lashing on the Africans, often make them more extreme than they otherwise would be.

But these results, it is confidently expected, would be temporary, just as the period of virulent Soviet hostility to the West and habitual obstructionism in the UN has to some extent passed.

Moreover, the world community and Red China must one day learn to deal with each other at close hand. The UN cannot forever put off that evil day; some time, it must face up to the problems of the world, notably Asia, as it is.

The UN's inability to deal effectively with Viet Nam is in large part a result of its unwillingness to make this adjustment to the real world.

Similarly, China must awaken from its ideological nightmares and begin to deal with facts. Her extremes of militancy and xenophobia are utterly incompatible with a world of nuclear weapons.

These extremes must erode as more moderate elements come to the surface in Peking. Increased contact with the outside world could hasten the process.

Thus although the offer of a seat to Peking, if accepted, would involve serious new challenges for the UN, it is a risk that Canada and other thoughtful delegations are prepared to take. They believe its long-range advantages would clearly outweigh its risks.

If, in addition, the precipitation of a close-quarters confrontation between Moscow and Peking helped to produce additional strain, or even a final break between the two, it would be well worth the cost.

United States delegate Arthur J. Goldberg is said to be impressed with these arguments. Indeed, he himself came independently to much the same conclusion last summer — and then, according to reliable informants, was overruled by his superiors in Washington.

The official American position is simply to resist the seating of Red China. Washington confidently believes it has the votes to do so at least one more year.

The tactic is to hold this Maginot line as long as possible. If and when it seems about to be overrun, but only then, would Washington retreat to a fall-back position.

Canada fears this plan of battle could eventually result in a disorderly rout — even perhaps, a total defeat. Ottawa would offer to negotiate an orderly and agreed withdrawal.

Preferable Position

It would prefer to occupy the new ground, in any event; it regards that ground as more congenial. But even if the present ground were to be considered preferable, Canada would still feel safer with a permanent posture than a temporary—and imperilled—one.

It is difficult for some observers here fully to credit ostensible American resistance to the Canadian approach. There is widespread belief that Uncle Sam would secretly like to have his arm twisted.

"Defeat" on the issue would leave undamaged Washington's relationship with Formosa (to which two Chinas is an anathema) and at the same time gain international recognition for the partition of China (thus helping to keep the air and submarine bases on Formosa permanently out of hostile hands).

With or without covert American acquiescence, Canada seems likely to press ahead with the scheme. The "great wall" has outlived its historic usefulness.

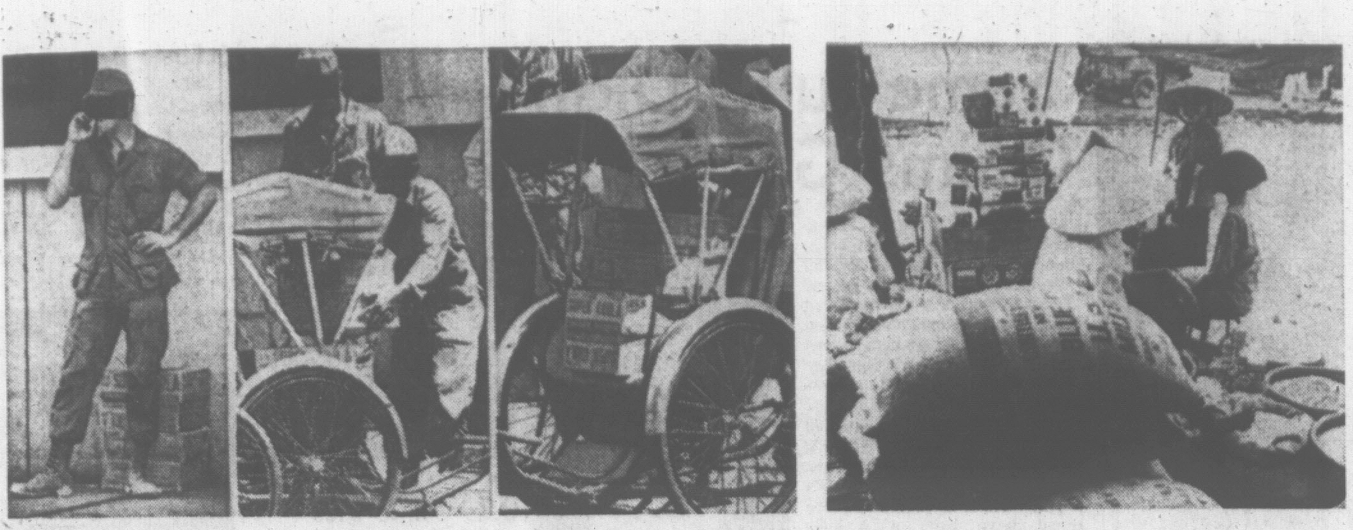
Looking Back

From The Times of Nov. 21, 1906:

So far this week the real estate market has been active for the autumn season. The two large lots on Fort St. adjoining Eaton & Co. were sold yesterday for the sum of $25,000. Property around Market Alley went for $8,500. The McCulloch property at the head of Victoria arm was sold recently to a visitor from Edmonton. It contains about 107 acres, the purchase price being $16,000.



Saigon is full of mysterious transactions such as the one shown in the first three photos: A U.S. serviceman stands on a corner with four cases of soft drinks; a pedicab driver cycles up, loads his vehicle with the cases which probably came from an American PX and drives away. Considerable amounts of goods enter the black markets this way and end up for sale to the public. Photo at right shows a typical black market operation with huge bags of U.S. aid rice in the foreground and a variety of other U.S. articles in the background.

Millions of Dollars in American Goods Wind Up in Saigon's Black Markets

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
and
HUGH A. MULLIGAN

While United States and South Vietnamese soldiers fight to the death in the jungles, a small minority of South Vietnamese and Americans are making a profit out of the war of at least $500,000 daily. A team of Associated Press reporters has uncovered numerous cases of graft, theft and bribery. This article relates some of their findings.

SAIGON — Among the traditional byproducts of war are theft, bribery, black marketeering, currency manipulation and waste.

In the Vietnamese conflict these corrosive influences on the conscience and economy of a nation have developed on an unprecedented scale for the size of the war.

A two-month study by a team of Associated Press reporters found that unquestionably hundreds of millions of U.S. taxpayer dollars have gone, and are going, down the drain.

Despite several investigations and many lesser studies, no official measure of such losses has so far emerged.

However, knowledgeable people in Viet Nam cite percentages ranging up to 40 per cent.

Economic Imports

On just economic imports and supplies for the U.S. post exchanged canteens for American personnel and dependents, the loss figure which crops up most often is 20 per cent. The figure of five per cent is cited consistently as the probable loss in straight military aid items.

Based on the $715,000,000 annual economic aid and surplus food programs and a post-exchange inflow of nearly $150,000,000 a year, a 20-per-cent loss in those areas alone would mean a U.S. taxpayer bill of nearly $175,000,000 in the fiscal year that ended in June, or nearly $500,000 daily.

A five-per-cent loss on U.S. military aid would translate into even more colossal sums.

During the last 10 years, the United States has spent more than $5,000,000,000 in direct economic and military aid to South Viet Nam. That does not include the billions now being spent on the massive American involvement in the fighting.

Within the last fiscal year, U.S. aid to keep the South Vietnamese army in the field and to prop up the civilian economy has drawn about $1,200,000,000 from the U.S. treasury.

An Associated Press team found a wide range of open theft, currency manipulation, black marketing, bribery, profiteering, payoffs, scrounging and similar machinations both petty and vast.

Members of the team ranged the field and backwaters of Viet Nam, worked in Saigon and Washington, interviewed a large array of sources including generals and admirals, construction bosses, Vietnamese officials and policemen, province aid representatives, post-exchange clerks—even the girls in conical hats peddling U.S. goods in Saigon's streets.

A few examples of what the reporters found:

1. A stolen U.S. Army generator lighting a Saigon nightclub.
2. U.S. irrigation pumps intended for the rice-growing delta in use by privately-owned car wash stations.
3. An entire boatload of beer stolen.
4. A truck piled high with post-exchange goods wending its way through a narrow alley, where a wire strung overhead lops off the top packing cases.
5. Counterfeit U.S. military scrip and bogus post-exchange cards appearing almost as fast as the real thing.
6. A minority of unscrupulous Americans, both civilians and soldiers, skimming off millions wheeling and dealing in U.S. dollars and Vietnamese piastres while the majority of American soldiers fought and died in jungles and rice paddies.
7. Pilferage — by both Vietnamese and Americans — adding millions to the cost of projects undertaken by private U.S. construction firms.

High and Low

8. Persons in high places and low places in the South Vietnamese military structure feathering their nests by siphoning off U.S. aid funds.
9. One small ship loaded with cement and other building materials simply disappeared somewhere off Viet Nam. Whether it was boarded and seized by thieves, deliberately diverted from its Saigon destination or went to the bottom accidentally is still officially unknown.
10. Across the river from Saigon is a pirate peninsula called An Khanh which provides an open base for receiving stolen and smuggled goods free of intervention by customs agents.

No matter how many controls and safeguards the defence department and the U.S. agency for international development apply, the South Vietnamese government, military and business structures likely will continue to be sieves through which millions of American dollars will leak out of sight.

James A. Lilly, general manager of a U.S. construction consortium in Viet Nam, blamed the U.S. Military for some of the headaches.

"The military," said Lilly, "has flatly refused to assume security obligations. . . .

"Our 30-odd construction sites are patrolled by a security force of 1,200 Vietnamese armed with nothing more than an arm band. We are not allowed to shoot at looters.

"A U.S. soldier can drive up to a supply yard in his six-by-six truck, wave a carbine at the Vietnamese guards, order them to open the gates and load up with everything he wants.

"Scrounging is a fine art here. Every soldier wants to improve his lot and get out of the mud."

American soldiers also support and sustain the black market on post-exchange goods and C-ration commodities. Some construction workers have been sent home for currency manipulation and smuggling. So have other U.S. civilians.

By fall of this year, there were at least 400 servicemen and civilians facing official action for some kind of profiteering or black market operations.

Explorers May Discover Lots of Water on Moon

By JOHN DAVY

LONDON — There should be enough water locked up inside the moon to form an ocean 900 feet deep over the whole surface if it were driven out from the interior.

This is one of the conclusions of a recent joint paper on "Lunar Research on the Moon" by an astronomer, Professor Zdenek Kopal, and a geologist, W. A. Roberts, published in Astronautica Acta.

Some of this water may exist as ice very near to the surface of the moon, and the authors recommend that a search for such sites should be a top priority task for future expeditions. It could enormously ease the problems of establishing manned lunar laboratories.

The water, they say, was probably trapped when the moon was formed. The most favored theory for the origin of the moon at present is that it gradually accumulated as an agglomeration of small solid particles, a dust cloud which gradually compacted under its own gravitational field. The process would have taken many million years.

Bound in Crystals

The dust would have included water bound in tiny crystals consisting especially of silica, oxygen and other relatively light elements. But small amounts of radio-active substances — uranium, thorium, and potassium-40, would have been trapped as well. The heat from their radioactivity would be released inside the body of the moon faster than it could escape, causing a gradual heating up. In fact, say Kopal and Roberts, the moon may still be getting hotter. This heating could produce a small core of molten material, and would also gradually "dessicate" the lunar substances, driving water out of the crystals.

The heat would drive the water as high pressure steam towards the surface. But because the moon has no shrouding atmosphere to retain heat, the temperature of the rocks near the surface falls to well below freezing. So the escaping water would freeze, too.

Some water might be driven out faster along cracks and fissures, and might get very near the surface before freezing. It is here that lunar explorers should seek for water. And at greater depths, probes sunk into boreholes might find considerable quantities of ice, forming a kind of lunar "permafrost."

By the same argument, the moon may contain quantities of oily and tarry substances like asphalt. There is probably enough to form a 60-ft. deep layer over the lunar surface.

But lunar oil would not be nearly as valuable as lunar water, which, the scientists say, "is considered to be the most important mineral that can be located and extracted locally on the moon."

The cost of shipping a gallon of water to the moon, in the early stages of lunar exploration, is reckoned to be well over $450,000. Astronauts must have water, and although much can be done by purifying body wastes, or using water from fuel cells which produce electricity by combining oxygen and hydrogen, a local lunar ice supply could transform the amenities of moon life.

Fuel Source

Furthermore, the water might be the source of rocket fuel for the return journey. Potentially, the moon is an ideal place for exploiting solar energy, since there are never any clouds, and sunlight is continuous during the lunar day. Large lightweight reflectors could gather immense amounts of heat, and focus it to drive electric generators. The latter might be "thermo-electric packs" made of substances which produce current when heated on one side and cooled on the other. Or the energy could drive various forms of heat engines. These would generate electricity, some of which could be used to split lunar water into hydrogen and oxygen, which can be burned in rocket engines.

Assuming a lunar laboratory can be set up, there are some very curious scientific problems to be tackled. For example, the moon is considerably lighter than the earth. This can be accounted for by assuming that it contains a similar mixure of materials to that thought to make up the outer atmosphere of the sun, which may preserve the primordial gas-mixture out of which the solar system condensed. In this case, about 12 per cent of the moon's mass is due to iron.

But the proportion of iron in the earth is double this. Some explanation is then needed of how the earth acquired unusual amounts of iron (the same applies to Mars and Venus). Alternatively, the moon may have the same proportion of iron as the earth, but its remaining material may contain unusual amounts of lightweight substances like water and carbon. This will be one of the central problems for lunar explorers to investigate.

Associated with it are questions about the moon's internal structure — whether it has a molten core, and so on. Here the most promising technique will be to listen for "moonquakes." One American scientist has suggested that the question could be settled most conveniently by generating artificial moonquakes with the help of suitable nuclear explosions. A 10 kiloton explosion (equivalent to 10,000 tons of TNT) would do, it is said.

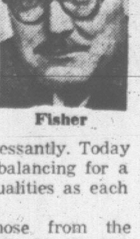
Two Views of Diefenbaker, A Renegade or a Hero?

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

(Mr. Crowe is associate professor of history at Atkinson College, York University. Mr. Fisher, a former NDP MP, lectures in Canadian government at Carleton University.)

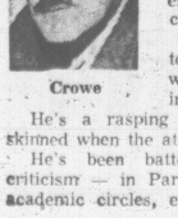
OTTAWA — One of us (Fisher) is much more fascinated in a favorable way with John Diefenbaker than the other (Crowe). But each of us can appreciate the reasoning and the emotional factors which influences the other, so in our own micro-world we represent the duality and conflict pulling the Tories apart last week, although neither of us carries the burden — what Alvin Hamilton calls "the need of Conservatives for the grace of loyalty."



Fisher

John Diefenbaker: Renegade or hero; genuine or phony?

All this has been argued incessantly. Today we'll forego the weighing and balancing for a double listing of Diefenbaker qualities as each of us sees them.



Crowe

First, those from the one who favors Mr. Diefenbaker more than he rejects him.

The Opposition leader believes supremely in the will of all the people and thus is anti-elite, anti-establishment, anti-bureaucrat.

He has that magnificent toughness of never knowing when he's beaten, of refusing to give up or give in.

He's a rasping antagonist but not thin-skinned when the attacks come his way.

He's been battered longer with more criticism — in Parliament, in the press, in academic circles, even in his own party — without wilting or exploding into rage than any other politician of our history. Courage, confidence, strength, resilience—he's got it!

He is amazingly modern and North American despite old touchstones like the coat of arms and the flag in his direct, very open appeal to the people. Similarly, this super-democracy has been proven in Parliament — as prime minister and as opposition leader — in an insistence and practice that the House of Commons is supreme, not the ministry.

Even in the enormously strong antipathies he has aroused there has been a positive gain for the country in that our politics have become emotional, taut with feeling, and shifting away from that dull, gray tone of smug complacency.

* * *

On the other hand, as columnist part two puts it, Mr. Diefenbaker has never recognized or admitted two essentials to any enlightened Canadian leader.

First, that our primary antithesis — French vs English — must never be down-graded from the prime place in a leader's concern.

Second, both faith in and constant recourse to the people — plain folk, populist confidence — is blindly, tragically inadequate if it is not coupled with a recognition of the complicated, difficult nature of government today.

In other words, simplicity in politics reneges on the responsibility to lead because leadership must have expertise, sophistication in policy, and flexibility in operation.

You can't govern, you can't understand and interpret Canada, if your faith rests mainly on the little people, the old folks, the average Canadian.

So there's our duality on John Diefenbaker. It's quite typical as chats around the Conservative conference have shown us.

Despite Tough Problems, Mexico Is Moving Ahead

By A. D. HORNE
The Washington Post

Canadians become so wrapped up in their problem of living as a neighbor with the most powerful country in the world that they can forget another North American country shares a boundary with the United States. Here is how Mexico is meeting its economic challenges.

MEXICO CITY — Fifty-six years after the Mexican revolution, this country has one foot firmly in the industrial future and the other still in its rural past.

The Mexican economy is booming. A succession of stable governments, with many key officials serving in two or more presidential administrations, has established the conditions for confident business expansion. The yearly growth of the gross national product has averaged more than 6 per cent over the past decade.

But Mexico's population is increasing at 3.6 per cent, one of the world's highest rates. There now are more than 43 million Mexicans; 46 per cent are under age 15. Thus the economy is racing against time; it must generate work for this growing labor force.

The biggest question facing Mexico today is whether its rapid economic development can be spread sufficiently to benefit all its people. Two gaps exist: one between the urban and rural economies, the other between the rich and the poor within each sector.

In the 1960 census, 49.4 per cent of the population was classed as rural. Official figures give the average per capita income in rural areas as $100 to $125 a year. These figures, however, include many prosperous farmers. A truer measure of the lot of the Mexican "campesino" is that whole families often subsist on such annual incomes.

Another measure of the urban-rural gap is that the cities — Mexico City, Monterrey and Guadalajara are the three biggest examples — are gaining population at nearly double the national rate. In the cities, too, the gaps in income are glaring. Domestic critics charge that the rich get richer and the poor get poorer.

But the administration of President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz points to rising wages (an official figure of 13.5 per cent gained in industrial union contracts) and stable prices (a 1.9 per cent rise in the consumer index in 1965, 1.1 per cent the first nine months this year) as proof that the gap is narrowing.

Few doubt that the long-range trend is toward the development of an urban middle class. But those dissatisfied with the rate of progress can point to 1960 census figures that showed 51.2 per cent of the people still living in one-room houses, 71.5 per cent without sewage and 68.4 per cent without water. A commerce and industry department survey of 10.9 million wage-earners in 1964 found 32.7 per cent drawing less than $24 a month and 71.6 per cent less than $60.

●

Unemployment is low: the 1960 census listed only 167,500 as job seekers. The problem here is one of under-employment. Shoeshine boys, sellers of lottery tickets and one-day-a-week farmhands — perhaps 3 million underemployed in all — do not show up in the unemployment figures.

Thus Mexico still has far to travel. But travelling it is. The gross national product stood at $3 billion at the end of last year, a 5.4 per cent increase over the boom year of 1964. This year's gain, Treasury Secretary Antonio Ortiz Mena forecast in an interview, will be "no less than 7 per cent." Farm production is up and total exports are running 15 per cent above 1965 levels.

This growth has been achieved under a mixed private and governmental system, without formalized economic plans. The government has been able to encourage needed industries by offering tariff protection and tax incentives. It has made investments in key industries through Nacional Financiera, an investment corporation in which it holds 51 per cent of the stock.

This combination of protectionism, investment and incentives has taken many forms. When private steel production lagged behind the nation's needs, a government-controlled producer, Altos Hornos of Monclova, was established and now has the industry's highest output.

Another device is called "Mexicanization." Under a much-expanded 1944 law, specific industries are required to be at least 51 per cent Mexican-owned. Mexicanization, and a separate 51 per cent requirement for firms to qualify for tariff protection and tax incentives, are among the reasons for more than 100 "joint ventures" uniting United States and Mexican firms.

Although foreign businessmen complain of government red tape, slow-paced business methods and official bribery (the local word is "mordida" — literally "bite"), direct annual foreign investment in Mexican business has more than doubled in five years, form $78 million in 1960 to $198 million in 1965.

As United States Ambassador Fulton Freeman noted in a speech this year, however, "the bulk of Mexican investment comes from its own resources" — almost $3.7 billion last year.

Because one of the greatest charges against the 26-year-old dictatorship of Porfirio Diaz which ended in the revolution of 1910 was that it had delivered the nation's wealth into the hand of foreign capitalists, Mexican policy since then has stressed economic self-sufficiency as a basic tenet.

In large part because of irrigated farming, Mexico in 1965 became for the first time a wheat-exporting nation. In spite of an annual population growth of 1.7 million, it also found itself with an unwanted corn surplus.

●

To Armando Fernandez, an outspoken businessman who is president of the Confederation of Chambers of Commerce, these food surpluses are not a sign of victory over the population spiral. They are, instead, a warning that Mexico must move fast to develop its domestic consumer markets to spread purchasing power among more of its people.

To Dr. Alfredo Navarrete, director of Nacional Financiera, this purchasing power already exists but needs more aggressive sales promotion.

To Treasury Secretary Ortiz Mena, the consumer market is increasing. "For instance," he says, "the provisions that we made for electricity in 1963 are absolutely obsolete."

Guillermo Martinez Dominguez, director general of the Federal Electricity Commission, estimates that 23 million Mexicans still lack electric service in their homes. That is another measure of the challenge facing this expanding nation.

JFK Death Probe: Was It Thorough?

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly three years have passed since President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, Tex.

A special commission headed by U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren, after months of investigation involving hundreds of witnesses and a towering mass of subjective and objective evidence, named Lee Harvey Oswald as the man who fatally shot the president Nov. 22, 1963. The commission said Oswald acted alone, without accomplices.

So far as the federal government was concerned, this closed the case.

Yet today, books and magazine articles challenging the findings of the commission roll off the presses in a steady stream.

Panels, some including lawyers who assisted the Warren Commission, debate the multifarious details of the assassination on television and radio programs.

Studied by Many

Ramparts Magazine reported that "hundreds of Americans, nagged by doubts about the completeness of the investigation," have bought the 26 volumes of the Warren Commission report and that, for them, studying the assassination has become an "all-consuming avocation."

A rebuttal to the critics of the commission was published recently in Saturday Review, written by Judge Arnold L. Fein of the civil court of the City of New York. Discussing the various books, Judge Fein wrote:

"Each implies or states that the commission assumed at the outset that Oswald alone was guilty and then set out to prove it. Perhaps this is so, but these gentlemen have not made the case. It is more easily demonstrable that it is they who have sought to prove their own predispositions."

Generally, the debate pivots on these points:

● Was Oswald in fact the assassin?

The Warren Commission report said: "The shots which killed President Kennedy and wounded Governor (John) Connally (of Texas) were fired by Lee Harvey Oswald. On the basis of the evidence before the commission, it concludes that Oswald acted alone."

No Conviction

Lawyer Mark Lane, who was asked by Oswald's mother to represent her son's interests before the commission, and who has written a book critical of the commission's findings, said on a TV panel discussion recently: "I say had Oswald faced trial, he would not have been convicted."

● What was Oswald's motive?

This probably can never be ascertained. He denied that he shot the President and even that he owned a rifle. The Warren report quotes him as saying, when first questioned by a secret service officer: I have a right to express my views but because of the charges I do not think I should comment further."

That was on Nov. 23. On the following day, Oswald was shot to death by Jack Ruby, operator of a Dallas night club.

● Was there a conspiracy in which Oswald had accomplices?

Wesley J. Liebler, a Warren Commission lawyer and now professor of law at the University of California at Los Angeles, said in a recent TV panel discussion: "as far as development of evidence of conspiracy . . . a lot of time, a lot of effort and a lot of investigation was put into this question, and I think the only thing you can conclude is if there was any substantial kind of conspiracy here, some kind of indication would have come out at some place along the line."

This question leads to another.

● Did all the shots come from the Texas School Book Depository?

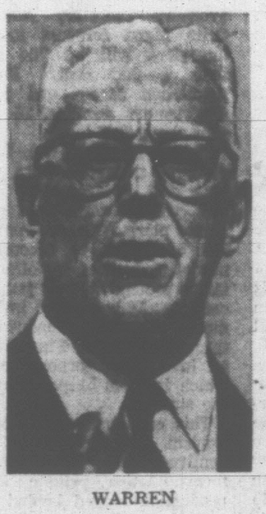
Lane has asserted that "almost two-thirds of those in the Dealey Plaza area" said the shots came from behind a wooden fence which the President's car was about to pass. He said seven men said they saw "a puff, or puffs, of white smoke."

If shots also were fired from the area of the fence, then obviously, Oswald had one or more accomplices and they caught the President's car in a cross-fire, bullets striking it from the right-front and the right-rear.

The Warren Report said on this point: "In contrast to the testimony of witnesses who heard and observed shots fired from the depository, the Commission's investigation has disclosed no credible evidence that shots were fired from anywhere else."

● Did the wound in the President's throat indicate the direction from which the fatal shots came?

Again, if all the bullets came from the Book Depository building, one must have struck Kennedy in the back and exited through his throat. Critics have asserted that an exit wound would be larger and more ragged than the wound at the point of entry. On the contrary, if it was an entrance wound, it could not have come from the depository.



WARREN

The doctors at Parkland Hospital in Dallas, working feverishly to save Kennedy's life, performed a tracheotomy, enlarging the wound in his throat. Dr. Malcolm O. Perry, who performed the tracheotomy is quoted in the Warren Report as testifying:

"A full jacketed bullet without deformation passing through the skin would leave a similar wound for an exit and entrance wound and with the facts which you have made available and with these assumptions, I believe that it was an exit wound."

X-Rays Ignored

● Why did the Warren Commission decide not to examine the photographs and X-rays taken before and during the autopsy?

It was performed by two navy pathologists, Cmdr. James J. Humes and Cmdr. J. Thornton Boswell. Humes said commission members had asked whether the X-rays and pictures were needed in connection with his and Boswell's testimony. "We felt they were not."

The record shows this exchange:

Chief Justice Warren: "If we had the pictures here and you could look them over again and re-state your opinion, would it cause you to change any of the testimony you have given here?"

Humes: "To the best of my recollection, Mr. Chief Justice, it would not."

The Kennedy family turned over to the national archives here Nov. 2 the 14 X-rays, 25 black-and-white negatives and 26 color transparencies taken of the autopsy. A justice department spokesman said he did not know how they came into the possession of the late President's family.

Under conditions laid down by the family, non-official access to them will not be granted without the consent of the family for the next five years. Official government investigators may see the pictures at any time.

Sewing Circles

Replying to a question about the pictures in his Nov. 4 press conference, President Johnson said: "I think that any American can understand the reasons why we wouldn't want to have the garments and the records and everything paraded out in every sewing circle in the country to be exploited and used without serving any good or official purpose."

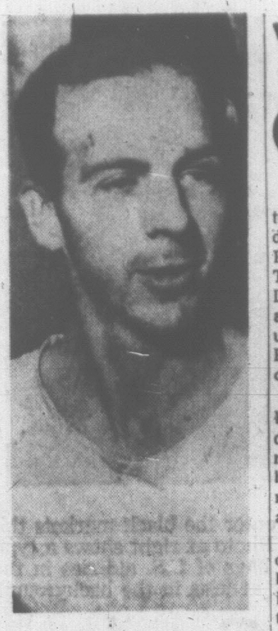
● What about the capability of the Mannlicher-Carcano rifle which the commission found to be the death weapon?

It had been called "crudely made, poorly designed, dangerous and inaccurate." The Warren report said:

"The various tests showed that the Mannlicher-Carcano was an accurate rifle and that the use of a four-power scope was a substantial aid to rapid and accurate firing."

● Did Oswald have time to get off three shots at the moving Kennedy motorcade?

Referring to tests of the rifle, set up to stimulate conditions which the commission said Oswald would have encountered, the report said: "All three of the firers in these tests were able to fire the rounds within the time period which would have been available to the assassin under those conditions."



OSWALD

RUBY

Questions raised by the critics go on and on. Books and other presentations of them have proved profitable for some critics.

In a sense, they all relate to a central question. Did the Warren Commission do a thorough and adequate job?

Johnson set forth his opinion in the Nov. 4 press conference. He said:

". . . And I think they made a very thorough study. I know of no evidence that would in any way cause any reasonable person to have a doubt about the Warren Commission, but if there is any evidence that's brought forth, I'm sure that the commission and the appropriate authorities will take action that may be justified."

'Same Bullet Didn't Hit Me,' Claims Governor of Texas

NEW YORK (UPI) — Contending there was a "reasonable doubt" that the same bullet hit President John F. Kennedy and Texas Governor John Connally, Life Magazine today urged that a new investigating body be set up to determine whether Lee Harvey Oswald had a co-conspirator.

The question of the number of bullets is significant, for if different bullets struck Kennedy's neck and Connally's back, then, it is reasoned, there must have been another assassin.

"The case should be reopened," concluded Life, which based its doubts on a recent interview with Connally after the governor had painstakingly examined, frame by frame, a motion picture film of the assassination.

CONNALLY

. . . viewed films

SAME BULLET

The Warren Commission concluded that the same bullet struck Kennedy and Connally. Others, including Connally himself, maintain that the two men were shot almost simultaneously by two bullets.

"If so," the magazine says in its current issue, "there must have been two assassins."

The Life article is accompanied by a number of frames of the film made by Abraham Zapruder, who was watching the presidential motorcade pass by that day in Dallas three years ago Tuesday.

The question posed by the Life article apparently hinges on whether Connally, by viewing the film, is correct in pinpointing at which frame he was struck by the assassin's bullet

'TURNED TO LEFT'

Connally is quoted as saying while viewing the film: "I know that I made that turn to the left before I was hit. You can see the grimace in the president's face. You cannot see it in mine. There is no question about it. I haven't been hit yet."

Nine frames later — or about 1.3 seconds after the president was believed to have been hit in the neck — Connally says he was struck.

"I knew it," he had told the Warren Commission, "when I looked down and I was covered with blood; and the thought immediately passed through my mind that there were either two or three people involved."

Connally's wife, Nellie, agrees with her husband that two shots were fired before the fatal bullet struck Kennedy in the head.

"They talk about the 'one bullet or two-bullet theory'," Connally is quoted as saying, "but as far as I'm concerned, there is no 'theory.' There is my absolute knowledge, and Nellie's too, that one bullet caused the president's first wound, and that an entirely separate shot struck me."

Real Issues Are Between Rich, Poor

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, co - chairman of the British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority, said today the fundamental world issues are not between communism and capitalism but between the rich and the poor.

Dr. Keenleyside, former director-general of the United Nations' technical assistance program, delivered the keynote address today to the third world conference on medical education.

The conference, co-sponsored by the World Health Organization and the Pan American Health Organization, opened Sunday.

He devoted a major part of his speech to the problem of ever-increasing population and suggested that doctors of the world have the responsibility and competence to contribute to the solution.

"Increased production is not the answer to the population problem; at best it can be only a most temporary palliative," Dr. Keenleyside said.

WON'T SOLVE PROBLEM

"No conceivable increase in production will solve the problem of proliferating humanity as long as unrestricted procreation continues to add to the sum of human needs and to impede all efforts to meet them.

For the last six years total world food consumption has exceeded production."

Dr. Keenleyside said that not only is population increasing at a phenomenal rate, but the rate of increase itself is also rising sharply—to 2.1 per cent in 1964 from 1.7 per cent in 1961.

Dr. Keenleyside said that if things go on as they now are, the maximum world population that can conceivably be tolerated will be reached long before the year 2100.

He said that it is apparent that the choice will be birth control or genocide.

IS BOMB THE ANSWER?

"Let us hope that the hydrogen bomb is not the only answer to the over-active womb."

Dr. Keenleyside said the tragedy of today is the fact that so much time and money is devoted to ideological issues that should be resolved by debate instead of by threats of universal war—while a large part of humanity lives in fear and hunger and disease.

"The fundamental issues in the world today are not between communism and capitalism but between the rich and the poor. . . ."

He said that for every dollar in the world on international aid programs, $30 is spent in preparation for mutual extermination.

Man Must Repay Insurance Fund

Roy Jones, 320 Burnside, was given three weeks to make arrangements for repaying $106 he bilked from the Unemployment Insurance Commission when he appeared in central court Saturday.

He pleaded guilty to two counts of making false statements about his earnings earlier this year.

Magistrate Byers remanded him three weeks for sentence.

Minister's Resignation Demanded

TORONTO (CP) — Some 250 postal workers Sunday demanded the resignation of Revenue Minister E. J. Benson and adopted a motion of non-confidence in their national negotiators.

The group, part of the 1,800-member Toronto local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, was protesting Mr. Benson's 25-cent-an-hour wage proposal and its acceptance by the negotiating committee.

The union's national negotiating committee last week accepted a government offer of 25 cents an hour on an 8½-months interim agreement. The increase is retroactive to Oct. 1.

The members' vote of non-confidence followed a similar move Friday by the Toronto local of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada.

Mr. Benson was attacked Sunday for bullying and frightening the "inexperienced" negotiating committee into accepting what the local feels is a bad offer.

Members at the meeting wanted all future agreements between the government and the postal unions to be ratified by the entire membership.

Seat Belts in Car But Few Wear Them

TORONTO (CP) — Too many drivers who have seat belts don't use them says the executive director of the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

Philip J. Farmer said in an interview that the latest estimate, made in 1964, showed about 30 per cent of Canadian cars are equipped with seat belts. But only 11 per cent of the drivers wore them.

Mr. Farmer said Saturday that 2,130 Canadians killed in automobile accidents in 1965 would have lived if they had been wearing seat belts and shoulder harness.

He based his estimate on a recent survey in the United States, saying experience showed Canadian statistics to be almost identical.

Forty per cent of those who died would have survived if they had been wearing only seat belts, he said, and another 13 per cent if they had been wearing shoulder harness.

Logging's New Frontiers Boast Powerful, Sophisticated Machines

By DON VIPOND

LAKE COWICHAN — The fir had crept up toward the sun for 500 years, straight as a needle.

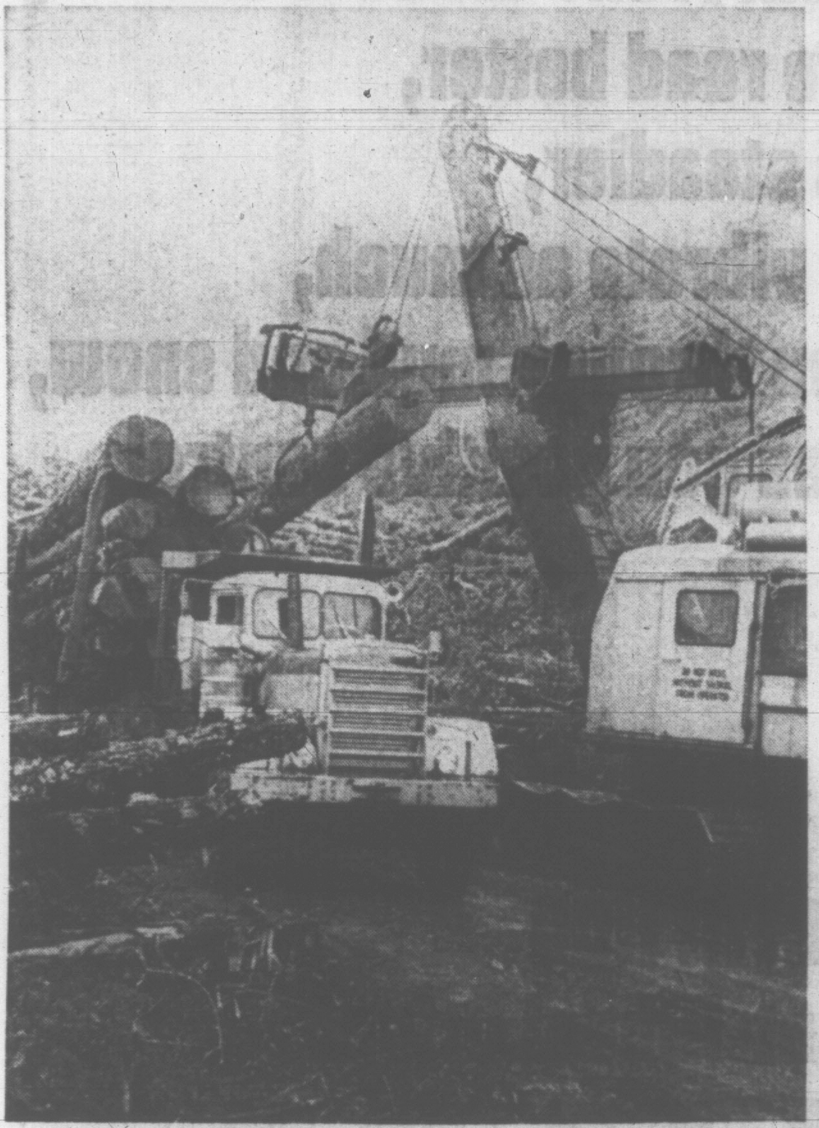
Now it stood mute in the afternoon mist, better than four feet thick at the butt, maybe 150 feet tall.

Henry Lundgren brought it back to earth with a whistling thunderous crash in just three minutes flat!

To watch the lofty fir topple a dozen miles south of Lake Cowichan was a short course in modern logging, a glimpse at the new frontier in an industry which has galloped from the stone age to the space age in just a handful of years.

No forest can frustrate today's logger and the host of machines he brings with him.

For Henry Lundgren is no superman. He is 54 years old, lives in Lake Cowichan, sweats when he works and sometimes looks tired.



—Don Dingwall Photo.

WHEELS INSTEAD OF RAILS in the modern logging operation give it a freedom and flexibility never known in the not-so-old days. Here a mobile loader lifts logs on to truck where once steam engine would have loaded rail cars. Powerful deisel engines and features such as the truck's special braking system have helped change the face of logging in just 30 years.

A thousand flakes of sawdust clung to his face as he took a moment to rest. One chip, ignored, was tangled in his eyelashes. Henry dropped his first tree in 1929, too long ago perhaps to be bothered by such trifles.

He is one of the paradoxes in the logging industry, one of the many men who can remember the old ways while adept at the new.

So fast has it progressed, the "ancient" history of logging is being recalled and written now by people who were there.

Ask the people in the midst of it and they will tell you that the new world has been brought about by three big changes.

Where once there was rail steel, now there are roads.

Where once the steam engine hooted, now there are diesels.

Where once the timber was cut by hand, now there are power saws.

"Put a logger from 30 years ago down in the woods now and all he'd recognize are the trees," is the way Hector Stone puts it.

Mr. Stone is president of the Hillcrest Lumber Co. Ltd. at Mesachie Lake hard by Cowichan Lake. The business started by his father and now operated by him and his four brothers has been at work in the Cowichan Valley for 56 years.

★

Logging begins with the faller and his saw. It was only three decades ago, says Mr. Stone, when dropping a mammoth tree could take a pair of fallers zinging away with their seven-foot crosscuts an entire day.

Two-man power saws, brutes weighing over 100 pounds and up to 10 feet long, appeared with the Second World War. They didn't last a decade.

In the early days of one-man saws, not much more than a decade ago, a faller was lucky if his mechanical helper would stay at work for a full day.

Now Henry Lundgren and his partner Nels Olson swear by German-made saws which squeeze the strength of 12 horses into 30 pounds or so and are worth $400. These saws just don't quit, they say.

Henry calculates he can fall the wood it took five men to drop in the old days.

"But the vibration takes it out of you. It's just go, go, go too."

Fallers have always been the elite among loggers and once they got little more than fame too.

★

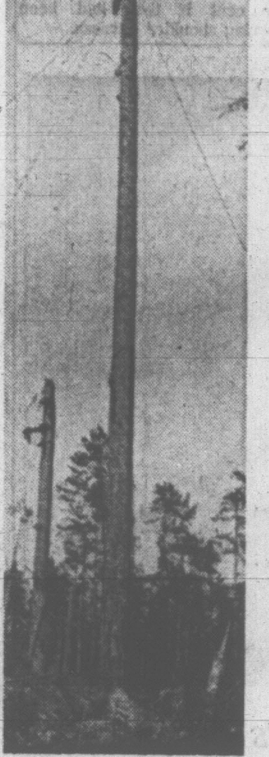
Now they earn from $12,000 to $15,000 a year — "damn good money for damn good nerves."

Shackled by slash or on steep-pitched ground they have plenty of chances for slips and tumbles. Falling trees can jump and bounce too and even a log on the ground can't be counted out.

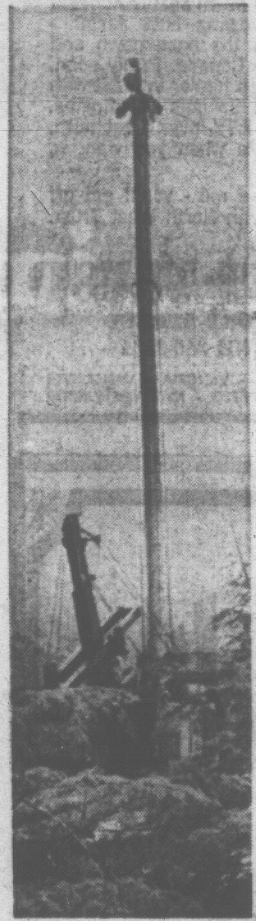
"It might be lying just on the teeter. Look at it and away it goes," Henry says.

He doesn't know a faller with five years work behind him who hasnt' got some broken bones.

"I figure we get paid 60 per cent for the work and 40 per cent for the risk . . . it's a 100 per cent safer now than it used to be."



LOOK MA! NO HANDS! And if you look closely too at the old-time spar tree (above) maybe you can make out the daring young man standing atop it arms outstretched. It took three days to rig old spar tree. Modern 90-foot steel tower (below) is highly momile, can be at work in an hour.



Once it was the black steam "donkey" under a wooden spar that yarded the logs up to the railway siding. From there the locie hauled it flatcars bulging with logs over many a trestle to the mill.

It was all very painful, looking back anyway.

For one thing, the locie could only go where men had laid the steel. And rolling hills don't amuse the gandy dancers, the men who scraped the roadbed and tamped the ties, drove the spikes.

The donkey was like a snail It took three days to rig a spar tree, Mr. Stone recalls.

In 1931 there were 105 private railways on Vancouver Island, Now there are two.

Some of the trestles which straddled the valleys, while masterpieces of engineering, were trellisworks that were real fire traps.

When one of these rail bridges burned, a company was out of business for a good long time, he remembers.

The bulldozer has built the roads and the roads have opened the woods wide.

Over the roads now come big powerful trucks and the locies are gone. They bring diesel yarders and the donkey is gone. Sometimes the yarders bring their own steel masts and the spar tree is gone.

★

"It's an age of machinery," says Mr. Stone, "and much more sophisticated machinery too."

Cal Traer, Hillscrest's woods superintendent, is the man who keeps an eye on the company's sprawling forest operation.

To help him, all the company's vehicles have radios and he talks over problems with his men as his own truck rumbles over the private lumber roads. Empty and loaded trucks report their progress. There's no way of adding up the hours those radios have saved.

Cal explains how the diesel yarders have turned donkeys into museum pieces. No more loader and second loader, the men who handled the tongs lifting the logs to the rail cars.

No more whistle punk either, the man with the long line back among the logs who hooted orders to the donkey. Now the rigging slinger carries a tiny radio on his belt which does the signalling.

The spark chaser is gone with the steam engine too. For a diesel engine doesn't need a boy to guard against fire.

★

The trucks that have replaced the trains are custom jobs, Cal explains. They have to be for with 50 tons of logs aboard they creep down roads which at times rival any roller coaster.

The clouds of steam hiding the $75,000 machines are from special water cooled brake systems.

They are faster than any locie and can go places it could never go. Just like the big diesels on the landing can harvest the wood better and the fallers can drop it more swiftly.

Some say there never was a Paul Bunyan. But the modern logger is making some of those Paul Bunyan stories come true.

DEFEATED IN MAPLE BAY

New Vote Sought On Water Bylaw

By DON DINGWALL

NORTH COWICHAN—Municipal council may seek ways to circumvent the Saturday defeat of the $515,000 water bylaw.

The bylaw was voted on separately in three sections and Maple Bay residents failed by three vots to give it the necessary 60 per cent majority.

The bylaw was given handsome majorities in the South End and Somenos districts.

Reeve Donald Morton said today an approach will be made to the Department of Municipal Affairs.

He said it is possible the bylaw can be put again only to the Maple Bay ratepayers.

The reeve explained it was necessary to put the bylaw to the three districts separately because Maple Bay is already an incorporated water area.

The overall vote in favor was 72 per cent.

Ratepayers in the South End voted 88 per cent for the bylaw, and Somenos polled 78 per cent "Yes".

Reeve Morton said: "I'm disappointed as I expected the bylaw to pass."

Walkers Win Sports Final

Jacquie and Bob Walker drove off with the trials car class competition in Victoria Motor Sports Club's first trial Sunday at old Colwood racetrack.

Tied for second with 58 points, six more than the winners, were Jim Jones-Rick Powell, and Roy and John Boldock. Next came John Addicott and Paul Whitworth (64), Harry Pillar and John Maceachern (65) and Doug Turner and Yvonne Baldock (66).

Jean and John Baldock won the ladies' class with 66 points; Yvonne Baldock and Doug Turner were second with 75. Brian Wing, driving a Thames panel, was the sedan class winner with 72.6 points.

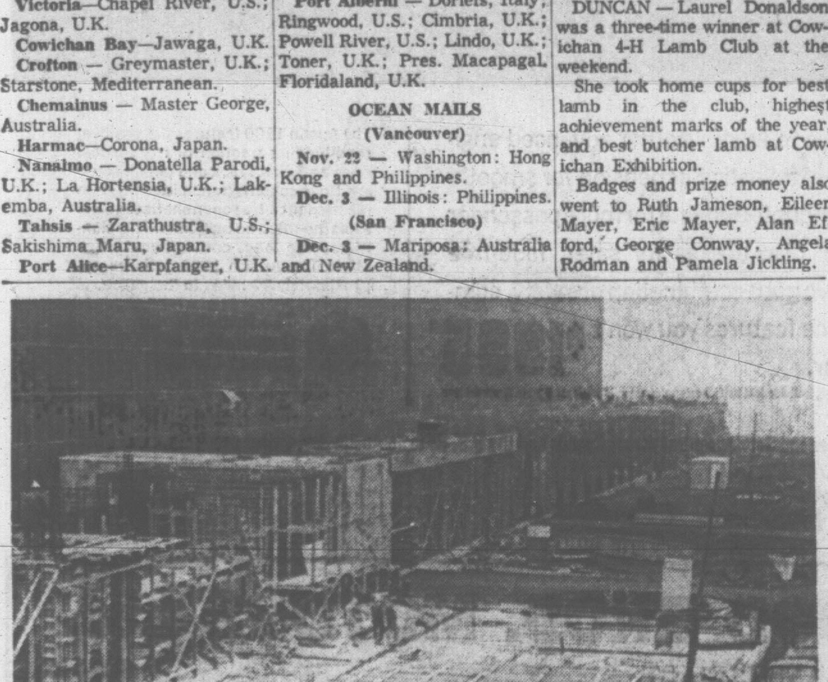
DUNCAN — Laurel Donaldson was a three-time winner at Cowichan 4-H Lamb Club at the weekend.

She took home cups for best lamb in the club, highest achievement marks of the year, and best butcher lamb at Cowichan Exhibition.

Badges and prize money also went to Ruth Jameson, Eileen Mayer, Eric Mayer, Alan Efford, George Conway, Angela Rodman and Pamela Jickling.



SECOND NEWSPRINT - MAKING machine will be housed in this addition, now under construction, at B.C. Forest Products mill at Crofton. Expansion will cost $25,000,000 and double newsprint capacity to 700 tons daily. At the moment the single newsprint machine and two pulp machines produce 1,300 tons of pulp and newsprint daily. With addition mill will represent an investment of $117,000,000 on 50-acre site.

SQUEEZE COMING FROM INTERNATIONAL

Target: Older Pulp Employees

NANAIMO—The international union at the Harmac pulp mill will seek soon to enforce a union shop clause on older employees who have joined the Canadian union.

The clause would make it mandatory for all new workers at the mill to join the international union within 31 days of their employment. Later it would be applied to present employees.

Asking for application of the clause is local 695 of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

It is aimed at preventing men joining the rival union, local 8 of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

Speaking at a Jaycee meeting in Nanaimo, Ken Ward, president of local 695, said:

"We have sat back long enough. We're only getting the new employees right now. We're going after the older fellows pretty soon."

Although the local is official bargaining agent for mill employees, most of them have gone over to the Canadian union.

In reply, Gordon Wickham, president of local 8, said his men, who broke away from the international last year, will fight enforcement of the clause.

It would be a mockery, he said, since according to his figures the international union represented only five per cent of Harmac mill workers.

Kickoff by Pearson

Timbermen Eyeing Bantams, Peewees

DUNCAN — Mel Massey, president of Cowichan Timbermen, said between four and six bantam and pee wee football teams will be organized in the district next year.

Speaking at the annual father and son banquet Saturday, he said next year will see a fund drive to wipe out the club's operating deficit of $1,400.

Head coach Tom Yano said the team had just finished a fine season pulling itself from fifth position to second in the Island league and making the playoff finals.

He said the spirit of the team was typified by Doug Robertson who hitch-hiked from Victoria two and three times a week to train with and play for the Timbermen.

Robertson received the Most Inspirational Player award.

Mark Stone, quarterback, won the Most Valuable Player award.

Other award winners were: Larry Thibodeau, most sportsmanlike player; Jim Dias, best backfielder; Chuck Troger, best lineman; and Greg McMartin, rookie of the year.

Alderman Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — Alderman Aeneas Bell-Irving, 68, died Sunday following surgery for a brain tumor. Ald. Bell-Irving, first elected to office in 1961, had planned to seek another term in the Dec. 14 election and was endorsed by the Civic Non-Partisan Association, but he withdrew due to poor health. Funeral services will be held Wednesday.

N. Zealand Votes Saturday

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND (CP) — The major political parties in New Zealand now have drawn their battle lines for the general election Saturday. On most matters the lines are not far apart.

The present National party government, in office since 1960, is seeking re-election for a third term. It holds 45 seats in the House of Representatives, the single chamber of the New Zealand Parliament, against 35 held by the Labor party opposition.

National is going into the campaign under Prime Minister Keith J. Holyoake, 62, who has led the party to victory at the last two elections. Labor is fighting under a new young leader, Norman E. Kirk, 43, chosen by the party a year ago.

National is fighting largely on its record and has made few election-year promises of benefits to come.

For the first time in many years it is making a foreign policy a central campaign plank — it seeks endorsement of its policy of taking a combatant role in Viet Nam. It is confident it has election-winning support on the point in the country.

DECRIES ECONOMY

Labor is pinning its faith on a wholesale assault on what it calls the "economic mess" created by the government. It is handicapped in its attack by the fact that the country still is enjoying prosperity internally. But it finds support for its criticism in the precarious state of New Zealand foreign-exchange balances despite several years of high export earnings.

Of the traditional distinction between National, as the champion of private enterprise, and Labor, as advocate of state socialism, there now is much less evidence than in the past. Party lines have become blurred as both groups have moved toward the centre.

Labor still shows greater attachment to public rather than private activity. Evidence of this appears in the policies over radio control, spurred by the efforts of "pirate" radio stations to break the government monopoly.

National has responded by undertaking to establish an independent authority to consider applications for licences for radio and television stations, whether public or private. But Labor, even at the cost of electoral disadvantage, has not been willing to offer more than a second publicly-owned chain of stations.

EMPHASIZES STATE

Labor still places a good deal of emphasis on state controls in many branches of the economy. It also favors a state-owned shipping line and offers further extensions of the already comprehensive social security system.

National lays more emphasis on production incentives and has undertaken to reduce tax rates "which affect incentives to greater effort and economic progress."

The third party to contest all 80 seats is the Social Credit Political League. It has obtained a creditable number of votes in several successive elections but has not won a seat in Parliament. Its policy includes abolition of compulsory military training, voting at 18, and interest-free loans for local authorities.

NIGHTINGALE—
. . . wins medal

Demolay Honors City Youth

The Order of DeMolay — an international character building organization for young men aged 14 to 21 — has chosen a Victoria man as its most outstanding member in British Columbia.

Jim Nightingagle, 20-year-ol son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Nightingale, 1330 Blue Ridge, will receive the Order's Distinguished Service Medal for good citizenship.

The award was announced Saturday from headquarters of the DeMolay organization in Kansas City.

"It is presented each four months to one DeMolay member in a jurisdiction in recognition of outstanding service to others in his home, school, church, community, country and DeMolay chapter," the announcement said.

Mr. Nightingale is a member and past master councillor of the Goldstream chapter of DeMolay. He already holds the Chevalier Degree — the highest honor that can be conferred on an active DeMolay.

Born in Victoria, he was educated at Strawberry Vale elementary, Colquits junior secondary and Mount View secondary schools, and formerly belonged to the 6th Douglas Scout Troop.

He is now an apprentice auto mechanic with Peter Pollen Ford Sales.

The Distinguished Service Medal of DeMolay was won by Rond Sudlow of Victoria in 1963.

Elephant Herds Invading India Villages

By RAM SUNDAR

BOMBAY (CP)—Thousands of rampaging wild elephants are reported invading farmlands in five Indian states and eating valuable grain crops at a time when the country is facing an acute food shortage.

The giant tuskers, travelling in big herds, have moved into paddy fields and threatened scores of villages in Assam, West Bengal, Uttar Pradesh, Orissa and Kerala. Press reports say at least a dozen hamlets in Orissa state have had to be evacuated.

Estimates of the number of elephants on the rampage vary from 3,000 to 10,000. A former game warden put the figure at 8,000.

As the Bombay Times of India noted editorially, elephants are not only great eaters but also great wasters. For every pound of rice eaten, they destroy another nine pounds.

Wild elephants in Darjeeling, West Bengal, stopped a freight train and looted food grains and sugar cane.

LIKE LIQUOR

Thirsty elephants also have raided hamlets with an eye on illicit liquor stills. One herd of six is reported to have consumed 10 gallons of the heady brew before stumbling back into the forests.

Villagers say the government has done little to solve the elephant problem. Officials report that a massive elephant-hunting operation would require huge funds which the country can ill afford.

Under government prodding, provincial administrations are reported to have promised to resume elephant-catching operations on a big scale. Kerala forest officials hope to catch at least 100 tuskers in the next six months, while Assam has promised to budget for 50.

The state trading corporation has offered to organize an export trade in captured elephants, saying North American zoos can easily take two dozen.

Meanwhile, villagers in Kerala plan to kill as many elephants as possible by any means. One report said 36 tuskers have been poisoned by use of insecticides mixed with bananas.

'Irrational' Concern Over Drug Use Hit

TORONTO (CP) — Irrational fear about LSD and marijuana is distracting attention from alcoholism, a far greater problem in Canadian society, says the senior psychiatrist with the Ontario Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation.

Alcoholism creates more social disorder and involves more people than all drugs combined, Dr. Jack Holmes said in an interview.

"Taking LSD is no different than taking a stiff drink of liquor, but a lot of people are trying it for the experience because publicity is making them curious about it."

He said LSD and all habit-forming drugs should be taken out of the realm of the Criminal Code. Illegal distribution of such drugs should remain a crime, but users should not be charged.

Instead, he said, they should come under public health legislation.

DON'T SQUEEZE PIMPLES

Squeezing pimples bruises the skin and leaves dark disfiguring marks. It's easy now to combat pimples and blackheads by clearing the skin with NIXODERM Soap and using antiseptic NIXODERM ointment at night while you sleep. Quickly dries and cleans out pimples and helps heal the skin softer, smoother, clearer. Ask druggist. Look better fast. Advt.

Some people think imported economy cars don't look too hot.

The new Toyota Corona looks devilishly cool.

As you're reading these words, a lot of thinking people are buying a lot of economy cars because they're built like finely-crafted Swiss watches and they don't cost the earth to drive.

And we'd be the last to complain, because we believe in fine imported quality and economy too.

But we think there's much more to a car than quality and economy.

We believe a car should look good too.

That's why our new Toyota Corona doesn't have a fly in the ointment when it comes to styling.

Starting at the front (which is a logical place to start because that's where we put the engine), you'll see a beautifully uncluttered grille mounting four headlights.

Then, moving back, you'll come to a big, but handsomely-contoured windshield. This gives you an exceptional view of the road because the hood-line is styled with an Italian-influenced downward curve.

Four big doors let you stay cool no matter how many times you have to get in and out.

And when you do get inside, you'll find the same sophisticated beauty. A padded dash with a clean simplicity of design that lets you read the instruments and operate the controls so easily you'll never get heated (unless you turn the Corona's massive heater on). Fresh air vents on both sides. A big, lockable, glove compartment. A parcel-sized parcel shelf. And luxury carpeting matched to the upholstery.

And the Toyota Corona finishes as beautifully as it starts.

When you look at it from the back you'll see the same cool Italian influence in the rear deck styling. And sophisticated safety extras like oversized stop lights, turn signals, and back-up lights.

The only thing that isn't exactly cool about our new Toyota Corona is its engine. With 90 horsepower, it's so hot it leaves others cold.

You can get a Toyota Corona for $2298*, and if you wish to be real cool, an automatic transmission for a little more.

Aside from the best looks in its class, the Corona's price includes 32 luxury features including electric washers, seat belts, and safety glass all around.

When you see what the cool Toyota Corona looks like, we don't think it'll take too long before you get hot to drive one.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices were firm to higher in moderately active trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Oilseed prices were stimulated by a report that the United States will contribute a substantial quantity of edible oil for famine relief in India.

There was evidence of overseas support, particularly in rapeseed, but hedging sales in oilseeds were light.

There was light trade in feed grains, mostly on a domestic basis connected with feed supply. There was a report of the disposal of parcel lots of Canadian malting barley to the United Kingdom.

Indications of small export business and firm Chicago prices stimulated Winnipeg rye.

Woolworth's to Open Department Store

By AB KENT
Times Business Writer

When Woolworth's open a $1 million branch in downtown Victoria Thursday the city can claim its fourth major department store.

The new premises, with new manager, represent an abrupt change from the traditional Woolworth's store here and will bid boodbye forever to the five-and-dime concept that mde Woolworth's a world-wide name.

Gone are the waist-high counters of dark, stained wood, polished by generations of little hands straining up to toys and household goods.

In their place, set on tiled and broadloomed floors amid bright fluorescent lighing and feature walls are low shelves and counters in white laminated finish, divided into 58 departments on two floors . . . street level and a lower level.

RED CARPET

A vivid red carpet leads from the main entrance on Douglas at View, where Woolworth's abandoned its home of 44 years a little more than a year ago.

The rug takes customers to a massive escalator-staircase in the centre of the main floor.

The escalator cost $95,000 and has taken more than a month to install. To the right of the staircase is the down escalator, to the left the up side.

GIFT SHOP

Main floor departments cover such things as gift shop, camera shop, Mount Douglas luncheonette, men's wear and shoe department, watches and cosmetics.

On the lower level, covering the same square footage, are the women's department, children's wear, sporting goods, music, household goods and pet shop.

The second storey above street level is closed to the public and is occupied by offices, stockrooms and commissary.

DEMOLITION

The general contract, carried out by G. H. Wheaton Ltd., included demolition of the previous two-storey building which Woolworth's opened July 15, 1922.

Prior to that the store was located in another building and had been operating 10 years.

New manager is K. J. Firth, who has worked for Woolworth's in Nova Scotia and Ontario, then spent 15 months at Woolworth's in Calgary before coming here in October.

He has four divisional managers under him including assistant manager Barry Skinner, Kenneth Sweet, Douglas Laidlaw and Wayne Wright.

There will be about 175 employees, 17 of whom have had five years or more service with Woolworth's.

Those with longest service are Florence Cosman, 26 years; Hilda McLaughlin, 20; Tess Mason, 17; Marguerite McIntyre, 16; Rose Sinclair, 15; Mamie Collingridge, 14; Gladys Hawes, 13, and Grace Taylor, 10.

They will work in an area of 35,308 square feet, more than double the previous size, and will be responsible for nearly a mile of counters — 4,903 feet.

MARKET SUMMARIES

GM Cutbacks Slug Wall St.

General Motors was sold heavily as Wall Street recorded a sharp loss late this afternoon. Other trading was fairly active.

Key stocks lost from fractions to about 2 points while high-flying glamor issues were down several points in some cases.

GM, opening late under accumulated sell orders, sold on a block of 30,400 shares and sank a point or more as the most actively traded issue. News of its production cutbacks brought it under pressures.

Some items of economic news were discouraging and doubt over the possibility of a tax increase created uncertainty.

Canadian Pacific dropped 1⅛, International Nickel ⅞ and Alcan, Hudson Bay and McIntyre Porcupine ½ in Canadians. Massey and Walker Gooderham were down ¼ and Granby mining ⅜. Dome mines gained 1¼ and Distillers Seagrams 1¼.

AT VANCOUVER the stock exchange followed the New York trend and prices dipped sharply lower in pre-noon trading today.

All sections of the board suffered with Home A and Pacific Pete falling in the industrials and Royal American dropping in the oils.

Mining losses went to Atlas, Bethlehem, Granisle, Dynasty, Highmont and Madrona.

New Imperial was a standout, however. It traded nearly 120,000 shares and reached a 1966 high of $2.24, up .41 on the morning.

Reason for its strength was favorable drill results from the company's property near Whitehorse.

Silbak Premier, which on Friday reported promising development news, was unusually active and rose .03 to .30 on 29,900 shares.

AT TORONTO the stock market continued its tumble at mid-afternoon with industrials and western oils sharing the brunt of the decline.

Issues that showed the heaviest losses were those also listed at New York.

They included Alcan off ⅝ to 28 on 58,941 shares, 52,000 of which were involved in a special size transaction and Alcan prefered 1 to 36⅛ on 50,715 shares, 50,000 of which were also involved in a special size transaction.

Distillers dropped ⅜ to 31½, Bell Telephone ½ to 45¼ while Moore Corp. gained 1 to 86.

Western oils ran into heavy profit taking and the oil index plunged. Dome retreated 1¼ to 29, Canadian Superior 1¼ to 26⅞ and Scurry Rainbow 1 to 19½.

New Imperial jumped 42 cents to 2.27 in speculative mines on 334,000 shares.

AT MONTREAL most sections moved lower in moderately active trading following the trend in Toronto and New York.

Among the utilities Brinco fell 15 cents to $4.25 and Bell Telephone ½ to 45¼. Quebec Natural Gas was off ⅛ at 24½. Hawker-Siddeley dropped five cents to $4.00 and Dominion Bridge ¼ to 17. Moore Corp. was down one point at 86.

Banks were lower with Nova Scotia and Toronto-Dominion each losing ⅛ to 61¾ and 57¾ respectively. Imperial Commerce was down ⅛ at 68.

AT LONDON gilts declined on the stock market today. Friday's sharp rise on the treasury bill rate continued to depress gilt-edged stocks and a South African ministerial warning to Britain about Rhodesia was an unhelpful factor.

War Loan was ¾ down and losses elsewhere ranged to ⅝.

Dollar stocks were usually lower with Wall Street, although in Canadians, firm spots included Canadian Husky and Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas. Other Canadian stocks were usually easier. International Nickel, however, recouped an initial loss.

$ EXCHANGE

VICTORIA—Banks buying cheques at 7⅞ premium, notes 7⅞ premium and buying silver at 5¾. Selling cheques at 8¾ premium, notes 8¾ premium.

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar was up 1/64 at 92 27/64 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling was up 7/64 at $2.79 11/64.

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar down 1/16 at $1.08 3/16 in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Montreal reported near noon today. Sterling was down ⅛ at $3.02.

Pay Parity With U.S. Not Yet in the Cards

OTTAWA (CP)—The economic facts of life in Canada today are not consistent with a general pattern of wage parity with the United States, the Economic Council of Canada says in its third annual review.

It concedes that there are a limited number of special cases in Canada where wages can be equal to or even higher than in the United States, but added that a great deal has to be done before the Canadian economy as a whole can afford parity.

* * *

Any attempt to leapfrog essential growth needed to lift the Canadian economy to the level of the United States is bound to lead to an offsetting adjustment in domestic prices or in the balance of external payments, it says.

Nevertheless, management should not be upset if labor presents parity demands at the bargaining table. They could represent only a long-term objective.

GOVERNMENT TOLD:

'Stop Violent Housing Swing'

By KEN SMITH

OTAWA (CP)—Canada's $16,000,000,000 construction industry has a special potential for disturbing the economy and government has been a major contributor to its problems, says the third annual review of the Economic Council of Canada.

It calls for both public and private spending in the construction field to be planned over a longer term so that the violent ups and downs the industry has seen in recent years will be moderated.

More than half of all new construction in Canada falls within the public sector, either through direct government spending on new building or through its influence on housing starts, the report says.

"Given these circumstances, it would appear that a large degree of the instability in construction demand, with its accompanying price and cost distortions, could be moderated through effectively co-ordinated government programs aimed more deliberately at achieving a stable advance in new construction."

This meant that better procedures had to be developed for longer-term planning and co-ordination on government capital outlays and that the federal government had to set an example in handling both its own capital spending and its grants or its shared-cost programs with the provinces.

The report paints a rough picture of the influence construction has on the over - all economy.

PRESSURE HEAVY

After a period of strong growth develops, demand for new construction gathers momentum quickly, resulting in sharply higher wages in the industry, strong increases in prices of materials, fewer and higher bids on new projects and growing costs and prices on projects already under way.

At the same time, the rapid expansion creates bottlenecks in supplies within the economy, especially for skilled labor and materials since these cannot be increased quickly enough to meet the booming demand.

"In such a situation, with supplies unable to adjust quickly enough to meet strongly rising levels of demand, a spillover into cost - and - price increases occurs across a broad front of labor and material resources."

Conversely, the report says, when the boom slackens the construction industry feels it significantly more than almost any other area.

Levelling-out these peaks and troughs would simplify many of the industry's problems—developing and maintaining a supply of skilled labor, wide swings in profits and waves of bankruptcies, adapting to new technologies and coping with the inefficiencies and strains of alternating boom and slack.

INDUSTRY MUST IMPROVE

But the report also warns that, to tackle the construction industry's problems effectively, it will be necessary to improve the economy's over-all performance to achieve a steadier growth in the volume of final demand.

The report lists three major reasons why construction is so dominant in the Canadian economy.

First is its size. Construction spending now accounted for 16 per cent of the gross national product—total value of all goods and services produced in Canada—compared with 11 per cent in the United States.

Second is the way the industry fluctuated from riches to rags. Residential construction since 1951 had swung from an increase of 25 per cent one year to a decrease of 17 per cent only two years later. Non-residential spending has swung from a 40-per-cent gain to a nine-per-cent drop in two years while government spending varied over 24 months from a 32-per-cent increase to a seven-per-cent decline.

Third is that government "must clearly be assigned a major contributing role as a destabilizing element in the over-all construction situation."

PUBLIC OUTLAY A FACTOR

Generally since 1950, the report says, government construction outlays "have reinforced and aggravated" the excessive demand pressures on the industry during periods of major expansion, while spending has declined during each of the three periods of recession since then, "adding to the weakness of demand in other sectors of the economy."

Given the way the construction industry booms faster than most other sectors of the economy in growth periods, it is not surprising that it experiences greater-than-average cost and price increases, the report says.

"This raises the danger that it may sometimes act, at least partially, as a pattern-setter for other industries."

The report suggests, however, that it will not do simply to dampen the industry to try to bring demand under control.

"It is not always sufficiently recognized that while business construction outlays add to the pressure of demand in the current period, they provide the means through which future sources of enlarged supply are secured.

"Thus, business investment spending, while potentially a source of instability on the demand side, is also closely linked to the growth of the economy's total supply capabilities."

Policies which limit investment altered the economy's capacity to produce in the future.

"It follows from this that it would be appropriate to press for the development of attitudes within the business community which would encourage longer-term planning of business investment outlays."

POINTS TO GOVERNMENT

After saying this, however, the report returns to its theme that governments have the power to moderate substantially the instability of the industry.

"Moreover, it is at the federal and provincial government levels that such instability has been most pronounced.

"The longer-term rise in municipal government construction has been relatively steady. These conclusions apply to new construction both by government departments and by government-owned enterprises."

Pacific Pete Profits Jump

CALGARY (CP) — Pacific Petroleums Ltd. says its net profit in the nine months ended Sept. 30 increased to $4,299,000 from $3,558,000 in the same period last year.

Company president Kelly H. Gibson said in an interim report to shareholders a 10 per cent increase in natural gas sales was a significant factor in the rise in profits.

Sales revenue increased to $45,163,000 from $39,735,000 and operating expenses to $30,408,000 from $26,311,000, the report said.

Sherritt Gordon Seeks Coin Trade

TORONTO (CP) — Sherritt Gordon Mines Ltd. has announced it is negotiating to mint coins for three foreign countries on a contract basis.

A company spokesman declined to identify the countries, but said the firm's rolling mill at Fort Saskatchewan, Alta., about 25 miles east of Edmonton, has already made more than 200 nickel medallions for sales samples.

Maple Leaf Gardens Pays Extra Dividend

TORONTO (CP) — Directors of Maple Leafe Gardens Ltd. have declared a $1-per-share extra dividend—on top of the 60-cents-a-year regular rate.

The dividend was declared at the annual meeting and was the largest in the company's 35-year history.

The extra payment of $735,000 exceeds the largest annual total dividends of the company.

INVESTMENTS

Germans Fear French Less

FRANKFURT (AP) — French investment in West German industry is far less known and less feared than American investment, the Frankfurter Allgemeine reports in a study of French industry in West Germany.

The newspaper credits greater French acceptability to the fact that French companies are more publicity-shy, call less attention to themselves and try to fit into the local scene unobtrusively. It added:

"One thing is certain, however. Numerous French concerns have so far been no less successful here than their American competitors."

The paper compared the differing attitude toward American and French competition:

"If a company from the United States announces it will enter the German market or even produce its products here, a strong reaction is easy to predict. In the industry concerned over-anxious firms will be pessimistic and forecast the end of their company. Buyers will be delighted at the idea of sharper competition. Soon the trade associations and political groups will start warning about a sell-out of local industry and the danger of excessive foreign investment.

ENTER QUIETLY

"But if a French company announces it is coming into the German market—and probably this announcement wouldn't even be made because of shyness about publicity—the reaction in West Germany would not be half as strong."

The newspaper reported that American firms usually open their branches here, whether an assembly plant or only a sales office, with "fanfare and trumpets." The president of the company comes from America and all local dignitaries are invited.

"In contrast, when a French company settles here, the picture is just the opposite. Without much fuss, the company just starts to work."

The newspaper also commented, "In contrast to many of the American managers sent to Germany, the French executives usually speak fluent German. Also the tone in a French-operated enterprise is more friendly and more polite than in an American one. Perhaps this is a reason why there is no aversion to French capital in West Germany."

The newspaper estimated that French investment in West Germany amounts to a good 800,000,000 marks (about $200,000,000), or easily seven per cent of all foreign investment. American investment was given as 4,000,000,000 marks ($1,000,000,000), about 34 per cent of all foreign investment.

Big Saving Eyed In New Gas Line

TORONTO (CP)—Building a proposed new west-east natural gas pipeline south of the Great Lakes instead of through Northern Ontario will save Canadian gas consumers $75,000,000 in 10 years, James W. Kerr, president of Trans - Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., says.

He told the Canadian Club of Toronto that if his company abandoned its plan for a new pipeline through the United States it would have "great difficulty" in competing with gas from U.S. sources in eastern Canadian markets.

"Many U.S. pipelines are extremely anxious to capture the Ontario and Quebec markets," he said.

"If we ever did lose the large market in southern Ontario where we sell 80 per cent of the gas that moves through Northern Ontario, our volume would not be large enough to justify large-diameter pipelining.

"This in turn would eliminate the economic advantages of big - inch pipelining and costs would go up. As a result prices to consumers would rise and everyone, including Northern Ontario, would lose the advantage of low-cost energy."

U.S. CONSIDERING

Plans for the proposed line south of the Great Lakes were vetoed by the federal cabinet in August but later approved after Trans-Canada promised that the existing northern Ontario line would remain the main one and that a twin line through the north would be started in 1970. The proposal now is being considered by U.S. government officials.

Mr. Kerr said building the Great Lakes line would not affect gas supplies in Northern Ontario.

It would actually result in making more gas available in the north, since supplies for southern Ontario could be carried partly south of the Great Lakes.

Consortium Rejects Oil Demand

TEHRAN (AP)—The Shah of Iran is skirmishing with the Western oil companies that produce his nation's wealth, in what financial sources say could become a major Middle Eastern crisis.

Oil officials are silent in preparation for secret negotiations due to re-open soon in London.

Iran demands that the consortium—owned 40 per cent by U.S. firms, 40 per cent by the British Petroleum Co. and 20 per cent by French and Dutch interests—increase oil exports immediately by 17½ per cent to provide funds for Iranian development—and also, it is reported, for arms purchases.

The consortium so far has refused, arguing that the world market cannot handle the extra quantity (approximately 104,000,000 barrels) of Iranian oil. Increasing Iran's exports would mean cutting oil production in neighboring Arab countries.

Jobs Needed To Prevent Recession

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada will have to find 750,000 new jobs for people entering the labor force by 1970, the third annual review of the Economic Council of Canada said today.

If the jobs aren't found, it warned, unemployment could build up rapidly — much more rapidly than in the 1950s when it rose as high as seven per cent.

The present labor picture has changed the twin employment objective outlined in the council's first review, the report says. Then the aims were to create enough new jobs to take care of emerging workers and to find other work to cut down excessive unemployment.

Now, however, with unemployment down to 3.5 per cent from 5.5 in 1963, the task of creating jobs for people entering the work force should have clear precedence over trying to reduce over-all unemployment.

In its first review, the council set an over-all target of three per cent as maximum allowable unemployment.

Despite the creation of almost 1,000,000 new jobs in the last four years, effective retraining, mobility and other manpower programs have increased in relative importance, the report says.

Ottawa Rides West On Winning Script

Cats Humiliated In Eastern Final

MONTREAL (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders changed the script and as a result are on their way to Saturday's Grey Cup game in Vancouver with a couple of Canadian Football League records under their belt.

Since 1963, the Roughies always managed to bow out of the Eastern Football Conference's two-game, total-point final series when they met Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

That year they were clobbered 45-0 by Hamilton in the first game and fell short with a 35-18 victory in the second. The following year they were up 23 points, 36-13, in the first quarter of the second game, only to lose the round 39-38. Last year they lost both games and the round ended 35-20.

This year they waltzed away with a 30-1 win in the first game in Hamilton.

Saturday at Montreal's Expo Stadium, they repeated their fine effort and beat the Ticats 42-16.

MARGIN GREATEST

The Riders' margin on the round is the greatest in CFL history—72-17.

In addition to their record 55-point bulge, the Rough Riders' alert backfield set a one-game CFL record for interceptions by picking off eight Hamilton passes—five in the first half.

Frank Clair, the veteran Ottawa coach, will be gunning for his fourth Grey Cup win. He has one previous victory with the Ottawa club, when they beat Edmonton Eskimos 16-6 in 1960, and two while coaching Toronto Argonauts.

Saskatchewan Roughriders, Ottawa's opponents next weekend, have never won a Grey Cup game and remain the lone CFL entry in this category. Ottawa previously beat the western Roughies 21-14 in 1951.

In Saturday's game, fullback Bo Scott, flanker Whit Tucker and Bill Cline scored one each. Moe Racine, this season's EFC scoring leader, picked up six points on four converts and two singles.

GRANT SCORES TWO

Tommy Grant scored both Hamilton touchdowns, Don Sutherin added the converts on each, and Ottawa conceded a safety touch to round out the Ticats' scoring.

Cline, linebacker Mike Blum and Don Gilbert each intercepted two Hamilton passes while Bob O'Billovich and Larry DeGrew picked off one each.

Quarterback Russ Jackson, voted the top player in Canadian football this season, combined with Tucker on a 61-yard pass-and-run play for a touchdown the first time Ottawa got the ball. Later in the quarter, he threw to Scott and the lanky halfback romped home free from 30 yards out after being halted temporarily in a pileup near mid-field.

Joe Zuger, the Hamilton quarterback, had two passes intercepted and a personal fumble which Ottawa recovered in the Ticats' three opening sequences.

In addition to his three touchdowns through the air, Dillard had 69 yards on 16 carries. Zuger carried the ball three times himself and gained 21 yards for the Ticats.

Playing conditions became chaotic after the half as boisterous fans continued to hold up the ball game by invading the field and pushing to the sidelines and into the end zones.

KNUDSON FALTERS

Palmer Grabs Houston Purse

HOUSTON (AP) — Arnie Palmer had his army rooting for him to win the $110,000 Houston Champions International golf tournament Sunday, and he obliged by sinking a pressure-packed 12-foot putt for a birdie-three on the 18th hole to win by a stroke over Gardner Dickinson, Jr.

An estimated crowd of 30,000 swarmed over the grounds of the 7,118-yard par 36-35 layout and most of the spectators tried to follow Palmer.

Palmer was sitting in the press room Sunday after his final round of 34-35—275, nine strokes under par, when Dickinson, 130-pounder who hadn't won a regular pro tournament since 1962, stroked to the 18th needing a par-four to tie Palmer and force a sudden-death playoff.

Dickinson, 39, got off a good drive on the 428-yard hole. He flubbed his second shot, however, sending it to the right.

He chipped weakly and was short of the green on his third. Then he chipped boldly from about 30 feet out. The ball slid about three inches past the hole.

COLLECTS $21,000

The difference was $8,000 for Palmer, who collected $21,000 first - prize money. Dickinson collected $13,000 for second place.

Dickinson, the co-leader at the halfway mark with George Knudson of Toronto and leader by one stroke over Palmer after three rounds, finished with an even par 36-36—71 for 276, eight under par.

Knudson shot a two-over-par 73 Saturday and four-over 75 Sunday to finish sharing 284 and 19th place with nine other golfers, including Billy Casper and Jack Nicklaus. He won $1,197.

Casper, winner of the U.S. Open and the PGA's Player of the Year, clinched the official money - winnings title for the first time in an anti-climax. He finished with a final 72 and Nicklaus with a 74.

Thus Casper dethroned Nicklaus, money champion the last two years, with $121,944 to Jack's $111,148. Palmer, winner in 1962 and 1963, was third with $110,467.

275—Arnold Palmer ($21,000).
276—G. Dickinson ($13,000).
277—George Archer ($8,000).
278—Lionel Hebert and Julius Boros ($5,150).
279—Doug Sanders ($4,300).
280—Bert Yancey, Jacky Cupit, Al Geiberger and Tommy Bolt ($3,375).
281—Gene Littler, Frank Beard and Dick Crawford $2,425).
282—Rex Baxter, Dale Douglas, Bobby Nichols ($2,000).
283—Babe Hiskey ($1,800).
284—Butch Baird, Gay Brewer, Jim Ferree, Jack Burke, Paul Bondeson, Billy Casper, Jack Nicklaus, Tommy Jacobs and George Knudson ($1,197).

Brentwood Rugby Skein Unbroken

Rugby was king Saturday at Brentwood College and Shawnigan Lake Boys' School.

The schools tangled in seven matches with Shawnigan winning four of them but losing the day's biggest game.

In the feature at Shawnigan Lake, the unbeaten Brentwood first team downed the Lakers 14-8 in a well-played contest. Dai Wiliams was the Brentwood hero as he collected eight points on two penalty goals and a convert.

Lakers won the other three matches on Shawnigan pitches. The colts took a 17-0 decision, the seconds won 6-3 and the Shawnigan juniors earned an 11-3 triumph.

At Brentwood, the home school's third and fourth sides posted 8-6 and 6-3 victories and the Shawnigan junior colts prevailed 9-0.

Chinooks Tripped By Poor Shooting

When a dynasty falls, the rebuilding process can be slow and painful.

That's the way it is with Victoria Chinooks, once rulers of the Intercity Junior Men's Basketball League.

Bereft of experience through ineligibility and transfers, the baby Chinooks took it on the chops again Saturday.

Vancouver CYO applied the knockout drops, 52-42, at Central Junior High.

Defeat kept Chinooks in seventh place. For the first time in their history they do not look like a team with playoff capabilities.

Chinooks set out to thwart CYO's high-scoring Brent McLain. They did. He scored only two points. But others took up the slack.

Clair Wakefield pumped in 14 points, Bob Kelsh added a dozen and Tony Herbert checked in with 11.

Only Rod Fields (14) managed double figures for Chinooks. This pointed up their basic weakness — shooting. Their game percentage was 19, well below the required norm for success.

With regular centre Mike O'Connor out with a sprained ankle, coach Moe Turner had to play musical chairs with his lineup.

Bantam ace Tommy Holmers, leg-weary after leading (bantam) Chinooks to a 50-18 preliminary win over Oak Bay's "B" team, tried mightily to organize the big team and even added four points.

But the overall savvy isn't there yet. And it shows.

Vikings Lose Pair to UBC

VANCOUVER — University of B.C. teams handed University of Victoria Vikings a pair of defeats in exhibition contests here Saturday.

Rick Inrig fired 21 points and Sam Vandermulen added 20 as UBC Jayvees whipped the basketball Vikings 68 - 47. Tom Childs was high man for Victoria with eight points.

In a hockey clash, Kevin McGladdery and Wayne Hunter each scored twice to pace UBC Thunderbirds to a 6-4 win over the invaders. Scoring for Vikings were Glyn Harper, with two goals, Ted Sarkissian and Mike McAvoy.

IT PAYS TO HITCH A RIDE

When you can't stop them any other way, grab a fistfull of pants and hold on. That was the method used by UCLA safetyman Sandy Green to haul down Southern California halfback Jim Lawrence at Los Angeles Saturday. Green's quick thinking halted a Southern California 31-yard advance on UCLA's 15-yard line and helped team to 14-7 victory.

'Half-Pint' Helps Self, Chicago to Prominence

By The Canadian Press

Paced by a small centre who takes giant steps, Chicago Black Hawks are taking tiny steps towards a cushion between them and the rest of the National Hockey League.

Stan Mikita, at five-foot-nine almost a half-pint by NHL standards, is zooming ahead in the league scoring race.

Tagging along with him are his Chicago team-mates, who know they'll be in first place in the middle of this week.

The Hawks picked up three points on a win and a tie during the weekend—7-2 over Detroit Red Wings Saturday and 2-2 with Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday—to keep a three-point lead over second-place Toronto. A week ago Chicago's lead was two points.

Mikita scored one goal and assisted on one by Kenny Wharram against Toronto. Frank Mahovlich and Bob Pulford scored for the Leafs.

Against Detroit, Mikita assisted on goals by Ken Hodge, Bobby Hull and Kenny Wharram. Bobby Hull picked up a second goal and Chico Maki, Dennis Hull and Eric Nesterenko managed to score without his help. Dean Prentice and Bruce MacGregor scored for the Red Wings.

ULLMAN MISSES

Mikita's big weekend gave him 21 points in 12 games and a five-point lead over Norm Ullman of Detroit.

Besides losing to Chicago, the Wings were also blasted 5-2 by Boston Bruins Sunday to drop into last place. In other Saturday games, Toronto defeated Montreal Canadiens 5-1 and New York Rangers and Boston, for third place, fought to a 3-3 draw. Sunday, Montreal edged New York 2-1.

Right winger Ron Ellis scored two goals and assisted on one by Larry Jeffrey to pace Toronto's attack against Canadiens. Red Kelly and Jim Pappin were the other Toronto scorers and Dave Balon scored for Montreal.

Jean Beliveau, who scored 29 goals last season but none so far this year, sat out the last two periods with a groin injury picked up a week ago.

With a change of goaltenders, the Canadiens fared better against New York Sunday night. Charlie Hodge, playing his fourth game of the season, turned away 41 shots in posting his first victory and ending a five-game Montreal losing streak and a five-game New York unbeaten streak.

CANADIENS MOVE UP

Gilles Tremblay and Balon scored for the Canadiens, who vacated last place and moved into fifth. Harry Howell scored for Rangers.

Saturday, the Rangers kept their unbeaten streak alive by tying the Bruins 3-3. They got goals from Earl Ingarfield, Vic Hadfield and Orland Kurtenbach while John McKenzie, Ron Stewart and Johnny Bucyk scored for the Bruins.

LIONS CAN STRIKE RED OFF CANDIDATES' LIST

MONTREAL (CP)—General manager Red O'Quinn was named to the board of directors of the Ottawa Rough Riders football club Saturday, ending rumors that he might leave the team to take a job with the British Columbia Lions.

The announcement was made at a celebration following the Riders' Eastern Football Conference playoff victory over Hamilton Tiger-Cats, by Ottawa president Sam Berger.

O'Quinn had been reported interested in the vacant general manager's job with the Lions of the Western Conference, after earlier refusals to his requests for stock in the Ottawa team.

Tall Grocers Win Twice at Alberni

ALBERNI — Vancouver Grocers made good use of their superior height on the boards here Sunday to defeat Alberni Athletics 64-54 for their third straight Inter - City Basketball League victory.

Grocers had more trouble with the Athletics Saturday night and were forced to come behind to nip the home club 69 - 66.

Athletics lost the Saturday decision through a rash of fouls that enabled the Grocers to erase a four-point deficit in the final four minutes. Vancouver dropped 12 foul shots and a single field basket in the closing surge.

Vince Knight paced Grocers with 24 points and Neil Dirom fired 19 for Athletics.

Gene Rizak potted 16 points and Al Birtles dunked 12 Sunday for Grocers, who were in front all the way. Dirom and Larry Lehtonen each notched 12 for Athletics.

CHICAGO (AP) — Purdue officially was designated by vote of athletic directors Saturday as the Big Ten's representative in the Rose Bowl.

GREY CUP FEVER . . . . . . HASN'T HIT YET

Calm Before the Storm

VANCOUVER (CP) — Grey Cup Week dawned today with scarcely a ripple of excitement from Vancouverites, but plenty of gusto from the organizers.

Visions of watching a color-packed night-time parade, or chomping on a chunk of beef barbecued on a downtown street, or gazing at nine beautiful girs didn't seem to produce much initial excitement.

But not a soul expects that to last long. And that includes the police.

Inspector Bud Errington said the 700-man force will be on duty Grey Cup eve, the night of the big parade and other festivities, and on the day of the game, Saturday.

For some of the policemen — and the city's 15-dog canine corps — there won't be much sleep. At least 50 constables and many of the dogs who will work Friday night until 3 a.m. on downtown crowd control will be back on duty at Empire Stadium by 11 a.m.

Inspector Errington said his men will take a tolerant view of the celebrations — he didn't mention liquor specifically — and will concentrate on rowdies who use Grey Cup Week as an excuse to cause trouble.

"People are here to see a football game and to have fun. It's really our only national celebration all rolled up into two nights."

Grey Cup Week organizers stolen a leaf from the Calgary Stampede book and plan to barbecue half a steer over open coals in front of a nightclub on downtown Hornby Street Wednesday night. The idea is to attract people to the Miss Grey Cup contest inside.

The Friday night parade will start with a giant fireworks display over the harbor. The parade, to be televised nationally in color by the CBC, will include more than 75 units.

Grey Cup Week organizers expect the influx of 'Rider fans from both East and West to spread the excitement of festivities.

They said the machinists' strike against Air Canada has resulted in some eastern cancellations for hotel accommodation, but this has been offset by a flood of bookings from Saskatchewan fans.

Seals Claim Second Place With 6-3 Win

Victoria Maple Leafs enjoyed a rare weekend "holiday", but while they marked time, Oakland Seals moved up to take over sole possession of second place in the Western Hockey League standings.

Rudy Pilous' Seals slipped ahead Sunday, scoring three first-period goals and then hanging on to dump Los Angeles Blades 6-3 in Los Angeles.

The Blades had scored a 3-1 victory over the Seals Saturday night.

In other Saturday games, Portland Buckaroos moved 10 points ahead of the pack after walloping Vancouver Canucks 8-1. San Diego Gulls downed Seattle Totems 4-3 in the only other weekend game.

HUCUL SIDELINED

It was "back to work" again for the Leafs this morning. Coach Frank Mario, decidedly unhappy over the fact Leafs had been beaten for 14 goals in their last two games, planned stiff workouts today and Tuesday.

Leafs play in Seattle Wednesday, visit Vancouver on Friday, and then return to Memorial Arena — against the Canucks — on Saturday night.

Leafs will have to go without the services of defenceman Fred Hucul for at least two weeks. Hucul, who suffered a recurrent back injury last Wednesday, has been ordered to take a rest.

However, Leafs expect winger Mike Labadie back this week.

LABADIE READY

Labadie, who underwent an elbow operation just before the season open, "will surely play Saturday if he doesn't get into the lineup on the road," said manager Buck Houle.

Sunday at Los Angeles, Charlie Burns paced the Seals with two first-period goals. Other Seals tallies went to Doug Senior, Al Langlois, Wayne Maxner and Gerry Odrowski.

Tommy McVie tried in vain to rally the Blades with a pair of markers, but Willie O'Ree was the only other Los Angeles player to find the mark.

In clobbering Vancouver Saturday at Portland, the Bucks stretched their win streak to eight games. Art Jones and Cliff Schmautz led the winners with two goals each.

Larry Leach, Bill Saunders, Len Lunde and Alain Caron scored the other Portland goals while Larry Popein came up with the lone Vancouver tally.

O'Malley's Goal Wins for Canada

WINNIPEG (CP) — A last minute goal gave Canada's national team a 4-3 decision Sunday over their united States counterparts in an exhibition hockey game played before 7,000 fans.

Terry O'Malley got the winner with a blistering shot from the point with 46 seconds remaining in the contest. Other goals for Canada came from Roger Bourbonnais, Marshall Johnston, and Jean Cusson.

College Grid Giants Battle to 10-10 Tie

By The Associated Press

The long-awaited battle between Notre Dame and Michigan State for the national college football championship ended in anti-climactic frustration for both teams Saturday as they fought to a 10-10 tie.

The Irish were crippled when their starting quarterback, Terry Hanratty, left the game with a shoulder injury in the first quarter and halfback Nick Eddy stayed on the sidelines, also with a shoulder injury.

But Coley O'Brien, Hanratty's sophomore substitute, moved Notre Dame to the tying points after Michigan State had taken a 10-0 lead in the first half. He hit Bob Gladeiux, Eddy's replacement, with a 34-yard scoring pass in the second period, and Joe Azzaro's 28-yard field goal on the first play of the final quarter tied the game.

Michigan State's touchdown came in the second quarter when Regis Cavender, playing for injured fullback Bob Apisa, ran for four yards after quarterback Jimmy Raye had moved the Spartans up close with a 42-yard pass to Gene Washington.

Dick Kenney kicked a 47-yard field goal for Michigan State in the second period.

The bitter defensive struggle ended strangely, with Notre Dame running out the clock on the ground instead of trying for a long gainer, and with Michigan State calling time out after every play, hoping to regain the ball.

In another top game, UCLA hurt Southern California's Rose Bowl hopes by beating the Trojans 14-7.

The Rose Bowl representatives will be chosen by conference officials Monday.

Texas Tech surprised Arkansas 21-16, hurting the Razorbacks' hopes for a third consecutive Southwest Conference title and a Cotton Bowl bid. Southern Methodist, which beat Baylor 24-22, can clinch both honors by beating Texas Christian next Saturday.

Purdue, No. 10, was named the Big Ten's Rose Bowl representative after thrashing Indiana 51-6. Bob Griese hit on 11 of 21 passes for 255 yards and three touchdowns and also scored two touchdowns of his own and kicked a field goal and six extra points.

Canada Wins Horse Show

TORONTO (CP) — Canada won the team championship Saturday in the international horse show at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

It was Canada's first over-all win since the team championship was officially started in 1958.

After 11 events Canada had 111 points compared with 105 for the United States, which has won the championship every year except 1963 when the team pulled out because of the assassination of President Kennedy.

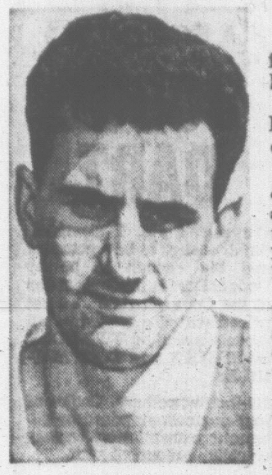
Off-Color O'Keefes Keep Record Clean



JIM MENZIES
. . . looked sharp

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Victoria O'Keefes are pounding along in unbeaten fashion, so this seems to be an illogical time to ask a logical question:

How good will Victoria's Pacific Coast Soccer League team be when it begins to perform to its capabilities?

The undefeated record was extended Saturday at Madconald Park when O'Keefes rallied to nip Vancouver Firefighters 2-1 on a late goal by diminutive Dunc McCaig.

As has been the case in at least two other home stands this season, the O'Keefes didn't look overpowering on Saturday. But they played well enough when they had to, and their position in the standings fans hopes of an invitation to the 1967 Kennedy Cup tournament.

The four-country affair will be held in Vancouver in May. The Pacific Coast League champions pick up Canada's invitation along with teams from the U.S., Mexico and Guatemala.

O'Keefes, coming now sporting a record of five victories and three draws in eight games, are hell bent for invitation. Victoria shares the leadership but enjoys two games in hand over North Shore and three on UBC Thunderbirds, the other co-leaders.

The games in hand are significant, but of more importance is the fact that O'Keefes have moved merrily along despite a nominal share of injuries and only mediocre performances from some players, notably David Stothard and Ike MacKay.

Fullback Stothard and MacKay, the sophomore who plays best at an inside position, haven't yet hit their best form.

Stothard has been steady and dependable, but lacking that consistent brilliancy that is expected from an all-star. MacKay has scored only one goal so far, a decided contrast to his efforts in his rookie year last season.

FULTON FOOLED HIM

Stothard was the fall guy on the Vancouver goal Saturday. He displayed an uanccustomed hesitation on a tackle, and Firefighter Bruce Fulton sifted around the veteran fullback to move in and beat Victoria goaltender Barry Sadler on a sharp-angled shot.

The point is not being made in order to criticize Stothard and MacKay. Even at half-speed, mediocre Stothards and MacKays are still better men than most.

Instead, the intended observation is this: When Stothard and MacKay — among others — start to shine, and the O'Keefes begin to pull together as a team for 90 minutes rather than just for 30 or 40, the Victorians could become something to behold.

Even coach Frak Grealy admits he hasn't been getting the desired general performance.

"We started out well, but I haven't been satisfied with the play of the team in the last two games," he said.

PROBLEMS FOR BOTH

Certainly, 650 fans found little to cheer about for the first half of Saturday's match. Admittedly, a stiff cross-wind and the rough park turf created some problems. But the problems were there for both sides.

As the fates would have it, O'Keefes shone brightest after Grealy made substitutions. Both Victoria goals were scored moments after Victoria changes.

Firefighters took the lead when Fulton scored at 19 minutes. O'Keefes bogged down noticeably but perked up when winger Marty Taylor came on as a substitute for MacKay at 25 minutes. Only moments after coming on, Taylor figured prominently in the play that led to Victoria's first goal, by Jim Menzies.

McCaig was taken off in the second half but returned with about 15 minutes remaining. And before you could spell s-u-b-s-t-i-t-u-t-i-o-n, Dunc hammered in the winner after taking a pass from Menzies.

* * *

CORNER KICKS: Menzies, Bert Soutar and Jim Schulz played best for O'Keefes . . . Much of the sting in Victoria's attacks was nullified by failure of players to run off the ball . . . The game was delayed 25 minutes because the ferry carrying Firefighters to Victoria had to return to Tssawassen when a passenger suffered a heart attack . . . Referee Keith Bickmore called 13 fouls against Firefighters and seven against O'Keefes . . . The alertness of Victoria's defence, notably Stothard and Don McIntosh, was pointed out by the fact that Firemen were called offside on 10 occasions . . . All PCSL matches for Saturday have been postponed because of the Grey Cup game.

Columbus Side Blanks Shores

VANCOUVER—Vancouver Columbus remained in the running for Pacific Coast Soccer League honors here Sunday and extended a helping hand to Victoria O'Keefs and University of British Columbia Thunderbirds.

Beaten only once in seven outings, Columbus blanked North Shore Luckies 3-0 to climb into fourth place and leave the Shores in a three-way deadlock for first place with O'Keefes and Thunderbirds.

Unbeaten Victoria, however, has two games in hand over Luckies and three over the Birds.

In handing North Shore its second successive defeat, Columbus got a first-half goal from Sergio Zanatta and second-half tallies from Peter Simpson and Bob Smith.

On Saturday, New Westminster Royals played in New Westminister for the first time since 1959 and celebrated the occasion by blasting Burnaby Villa 3-0 on goals by Metro Gerala, Jack James and Fred Hildrech.

Ash Valdal scored twice as UBC coasted to a 3-0 win over St. Andrews in another Saturday match.

Oak Bay Girls Take Field Hockey Title

Superb defensive work has carried Oak Bay girls to the Vancouver Island high school field hockey championship.

The Oaks scored shutouts in three of four games as they blazed an unbeaten trail through the Island tournament Saturday at Landsowne Junior High School.

Two of the shutouts came in their last two games. Oak Bay defeated Nanaimo 1-0 in the championship final on a goal by Lynn Jones after a tally by Sharon Cullin had produced a 1-0 triumph over Courtenay in the semi-final round.

Oak Bay and Nanaimo earned berths in the B.C. tournament and were later joined by Cowichan when the Duncan school downed Courtenay 2-0 in a consolation final. The provincial meet will be played at the University of Victoria Nov. 25 and 26.

Saturday's Island tourney was reduced to eight teams by the withdrawal of Qualicum and only three clubs competed in round-robin play for semi-final positions in "A" section. Oak Bay played a scoreless draw with Mount Douglas and then trimmed Nanaimo 6-2 to top the section. Nanaimo reached the semis by downing Mount Douglas 3-1.

Cowichan, the defending champion, and Courtenay topped "B" section and Cowichan bowed 1-0 to Nanaimo in the semis.

Also representing the Island in the B.C. tourney will be Norfolk House, St. Margaret's and Strathcona Lodge. Completing the 16-team entry list will be five clubs from Vancouver, two from the Okanagan and one each from the Cariboo, the Kootenays and Fraser valley.

Saturday's scores:

"A" section—Oak Bay 0, Mount Douglas 0; Oak Bay 6, Nanaimo 2; Nanaimo 3, Mount Douglas 1.

"B" Section—Cowichan 1, Courtenay 1; Esquimalt 3, Mount View 0; Cowichan 1, Esquimalt 0; Courtenay 1, Mount View 0; Cowichan 0, Mount View 0; Courtenay 0, Esquimalt 0.

Semifinals—Oak Bay 1, Courtenay 0; Nanaimo 1, Cowichan 0.

Final—Oak Bay 1, Nanaimo 0.

Consolation final—Cowichan 2, Courtenay 0.

Detroit Lions Really on Ball

By The Canadian Press

Detroit Lions intercepted five Johnny Unitas passes before the Baltimore Colts quarterback went to the bench Sunday and the Lions went on to a 20-14 National Football League victory.

In the clubs' previous meeting Oct. 16, Unitas fired four touchdown passes in a 45-14 Baltimore romp.

It was a different story Sunday, the Lion defenders blanking Baltimore until quarterback Cary Cuozzo replaced Unitas in the final period and hit John Mackey with a 64-yard touchdown pass. Unitas connected on only nine of 19 pass attempts for a total of 93 yards.

Garo Ypremian, Lions' soccer-style place kicker from Cyprus, kicked field goals of 17 and 21 yards while Karl Sweetan, former quarterback for Toronto Argonauts in the Canadian Football League, threw a nine-yard touchdown pass to Pat Studstill. Bobby Felts plunged a yard for another Detroit touchdown.

The loss, coupled with Green Bay Packers' 13-6 victory over Chicago Bears, dropped the Colts one game behind the Packers in the league's Western Division title race.

COWBOYS ADVANCE

Dallas Cowboys trimmed Pittsburgh Steelers 20-7 and tied St. Louis Cardinals, who were idle, for the Eastern-Division lead; Cleveland Browns remained in the eastern race by beating Washington Red Skins 14-3; Atlanta Falcons drubbed New York Giants 27-16 for their first NFL victory; Philadelphia Eagles nipped San Francisco '49ers 35-34 and Los Angeles Rams downed Minnesota Vikings 21-6 in other games.

Sweetan, a rookie who took over the Lions' quarterback job when Milt Plum was sidelined with a knee injury last month, hit on 16 of 32 passes for 152 yards.

Zeke Bratkowski, filling in for injured Bart Starr, fired two touchdown passes to Carroll Dale, leading Green Bay past the Bears. Bratkowski and Dale connected on a 33-yard scoring play after Chicago's Roger Leclerc missed the extra-point attempt following Gale Sayers' two-yard touchdown dive.

Don Meredith ran for one touchdown and passed 38 yards to Bob Hayes for another and Danny Villaneuva kicked two field goals as Dallas thwarted the Steelers' bid for a third straight upset.

President's Boys Romp Past City Rugby Stars

Superior speed and teamwork carried the Canadian Rugby Union president's all-stars from Vancouver to a 19-0 victory over the Victoria all-stars Sunday in an exhibition match at Macdonald Park.

Playing before about 200 fans, the mainlanders displayed more cohesion among their forwards and more decisive running by their fleet backs as they grabbed an 8-0 lead in the first half and added three more trys in the second session.

Bob Sandilands, Doug Sturrock, Al Binaco, Brian Whightman and Gary Fumano went over for tries and Bob Payne booted two converts.

WANDERERS WIN

In the Victoria Rugby Union's first division Saturday, Oak Bay Wanderers collected their first triumph of the season by upsetting University of Victoria Vikings 24-8 at Gordon Head.

Don Burgess accounted for 12 of the Oak Bay points with a try, three converts and a penalty goal. Darrell Noullette, Gary Johnson, Eric Druce and Gary Dillabaugh added trys for Wanderers.

Viking points came on trys by Bob Panton and Bruce White and a convert by Dan Evans.

STUDENTS GET REVENGE

In second division contests, Norsemen carved out revenge for University as Norsemen tripped Oak Bay 13-8 and knocked the Wanderers out of a first-place tie with James Bay Athletic Association.

James Bay moved out in front by clipping Canadian Forces Base 9-8 in a rough game and Cowichan downed Naval Technical School 11-9.

Oak Bay bombed James Bay 21-0 in a junior match and whipped Queen's Own Rifles 30-3 in the midget division. In another midget battle, James Bay drubbed Fifth Battery 48-0.

Canadian Scottish has learned it doesn't pay to take a rest in the First Division of the Victoria and District Soccer League.

With their turn for a break in the schedule coming up, the Scots were out in front by two points as other teams embarked on weekend battles.

By Sunday night the kilties found themselves forced to share the top berth with Hourigan's Kickers and Tally-Ho.

Kickers climbed to the top as Otto Ossege broke loose for three goals to produce a 3-2 triumph over Luckies at Heywood Avenue. Alex Stewart did his best for Luckies by firing two goals.

One goal was all Tally-Ho needed. Tom Corbett did the honors at Central Park to subdue the luckless Gorge Molsons 1-0.

In the other first division struggles, Doug Hill scored twice to pace Victoria West to a 3-2 victory over Navy at Topaz Park and Rick Whyler was a two-goal contributor at Gordon Head as Red Lion tripped University of Victoria Vikings 5-2

Traffic also became more congested Sunday in the second division.

Sidney Hotel tumbled to its first defeat of the season, taking a 4-0 thumping from Colony Inn as Albert Lima sparked the upset with two tallies.

Island Tug, getting three goals from Bill James, steamed up into a first-place tie with the Sidney crew by drubbing Gorge Molsons 6-1.

Sunday's other two games ended in shutout victories. University Norsemen blanked London Boxing Club 4-0 and Victoria West subdued the winless Falcoms 7-0 as John Yankoski erupted for five goals.

Uvic Rowers Place Fourth

SEATTLE — University of Victoria rowing coach Lorne Loomer brought only eight oarsmen and a coxwain to Seattle University's regatta on Green Lake Saturday but the Victorians earned fourth place in team standings.

University of B.C. and Oregon State shared top honors with 28 points. Seattle University was third with 27 and Victoria followed with 18.

The Uvic eight won its heat in the freshman event by two lengths over UBC. Oregon State was third. Rowing for Victoria were stroke Jim McRae, Don Braden, Rory Morahan, Craig Delahunt, John Neville, Hans Garsch, Hamar Foster and Dave Crampton.

Rich Wright was the Uvic cox.

In the junior fours with coxwain, McRae, Morahan, Delahunt and Garsch were nipped at the finish by the Oregon State crew while finishing ahead of Seattle University and Washington Rowing Club.

Port Alberni Rink Collects Top Prize

ALBERNI — Eleanor Gulstine captured the major prize in the Alberni Valley Curling Club's annual women's bonspiel Sunday as she skipped her Port Alberni rink to a 13-2 victory over the Marg Inglis quartet from Victoria in the "A" event final.

Another Port Alberni skip, Sybil Magnusson, earned third place, while Flora Martin's Victoria rink took fourth prize.

In "B", event, Elva Lentz defeated Marg Cook in a final between two Vancouver rinks, Pat Buglas of Courtenay was third and Helen Hoffman, Port Alberni, finished fourth.

Dorothy Lindsay of Nanaimo took the "C" event final with a win over the Squamish quartet piloted by Susie Currie. Another Squamish squad, skipped by Rene McIntosh, was third, and Edna Souther, Port Alberni, finished fourth.

Dorothy Fukuyama gave Victoria its only major prize as she guided her rink to a triumph over Courtenay's Rita Carse in the "D" event final. Marg Sturrock, Victoria, beat out Emily Kincaid, Qualicum, for third place.

The three-day bonspiel attracted entries from 32 rinks.

JUNIOR SOCCER

Shores End Win Streak

Victoria's undefeated streak in the Inter-City Junior Soccer League has finally ended.

After scoring five shutouts while winning five and drawing two of their first seven games, Doug Day's Victoria club went tumbling Sunday at Carnarvon Park. The Victorians were blanked 2-0 by North Shore, which got goals from Greg Carey and Ken Ralfs.

About the only difference between the clubs in the well-played match was superior shooting accuracy by the Shores, who led 1-0 at half time.

Press Stops Rawlings After Champs Tripped

Victoria Rawlings buckled under an full-court press Sunday at Oak Bay Junior High School and failed in their bid for a double victory over Vancouver Molsons, the reigning Canadian senior women's basketball champions.

Coach Howie Tooby's crew had ignored pressure and prestige Saturday to upset Molsons 29-27 in the first part of their Inter-City Women's Basketball League series and was hoping to make it two in a row over the champs Sunday on the same court.

Molsons had different ideas and they parlayed better ball-handling and experience into a 23-10 lead at half time.

After giving up the first basket of the second half, Rawlings settled down to play a ball-control game and began to whittle away at the deficit. By the time they had trimmed the margin to 25-20 it appeared they might be on their way to another upset.

SUDDEN SWITCH

However, the champs suddenly switched to an all-court press and the roof fell in on the Victorians. Checked in all parts of the floor, Rawlings failed to move into position for passes or to set blocks for teammates and failed to hit the hoop while the Vancouver club breezed to 44-20 lead and then coasted to a 47-28 victory.

Saturday's game was a thriller all the way. Victoria took an early six-point lead and then dropped behind, 10-8, at the half. Molsons stretched the margin to 19-14 and then faltered as Rawlings launched a comeback.

Slicing the deficit to a single point with six minutes remaining, Rawlings moved ahead in the hectic final minutes and wrapped up the victory in the dying seconds when Gail Bonner dropped two foul shots.

Mary Coutts paced Victoria in both games.

'SPECIAL CONTRIBUTION OF HIS OWN'

Year-Long Goal: Boost U.K. Exports

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes; Sir Robert Bellinger

Sir Robert Bellinger, 639th Lord Mayor of the City of London, is hoping for a new era of co-operation between Britain and Canada during his year of office, which began Nov. 11.

"I shall do all possible to promote trade and good relations between the two countries," said Sir Robert, interviewed on his arrival at Government House Sunday.

The newly-elected lord mayor flew from London Friday night especially to take part in British Columbia's centennial celebrations in New Westminster, Fort Langley and Victoria.

"On my return to London, I shall hold a press conference to explain the significance of these celebrations," he said. "And during my year of office I shall do all I can to promote trade between Britain, B.C. and Canada.

CORRECT IMBALANCE

"Our big aim in 1967 should be to correct the imbalance of trade between Britain and Canada, which at present amounts to nearly £200 million."

Sir Robert also said he will conduct a personal campaign to improve understanding, at home and abroad, of Britain's contribution to the peace of the world and to emergent nations.

"For instance, our grants to India over the past six years amount to more than £170 million. Too many people are unaware of the contribution Britain is making to world needs.

"There is a misconception in many places that Britain isn't paying her way. The truth is we are not only paying our way as a trading nation, we are making a very substantial contribution to international welfare."

HEAVY BURDEN

Sir Robert said the people of Britain are well aware that the United States has shouldered a heavy burden in the relief of poverty among under-privileged nations.

"There was at one time a certain prejudice against the United States. That prejudice is now minimal. The people of Britain really appreciate what the U.S. is trying to accomplish on the world scene.

"They know, too, that Canada's contribution to such organizations as NATO is much greater than her population would suggest."

On his arrival at Government House, the lord mayor was presented with a specially-bound copy of British Columbia: Challenge in Abundance, the official publication of the B.C. Centennial Committee.

The presentation was made by deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace, who is chairman of the committee.

SECOND VISIT

Sir Robert visited Victoria for the second time. He came here in 1963 as alderman and sheriff of the City of London in company with the then lord mayor, Sir Ralph Perring.

At that time he did not know he would succeed Sir Ralph as Lord Mayor. He was officially elected to the office on Sept. 29 last.

Born at Tetbury, Gloucestershire 56 years ago, Sir Ralph was brought to London by his parents when he was four years old. He received most of his limited formal education at a Church of England (Anglican) school.

He left school at 14 and became office boy in a food provision firm at 15 shillings a week.

"I went to evening classes at the Regent Street Polytechnic to complete my education," he said. "I made one-year plans and five-year plans, and at the end of them I would ask myself what I had achieved."

COST ACCOUNTANT

By the end of the first five-year plan he was appointed cost accountant with the provision firm he serves to this day.

By 1938 he was the firm's managing director, and by 1946, when the position was created he became chairman. In 1958 he was elected alderman, and in 1962, a sheriff of the City of London. It was at the end of that term that he received a knighthood from the Queen.

Sir Robert is a director and avid supporter of the Arsenal soccer football club. He used to be an enthusiastic footballer, swimmer, ice skater, skier and tennis player.

Five years ago he married an attractive Belgian-born girl and their family life now revolves about their two children — Louise, 2½, and Ian, 1½.

They moved into the Mansion House, official residence of London's Lord Mayor, on Nov. 11, and the following day Sir Robert was the central figure in the famous Lord Mayor's parade through the streets of London.

HOUSE HAS NURSERY

"For the first time in many years, the Mansion House now has a nursery," he said. "The reason is that most Lord Mayor's have grown-up families by the time they are elected to office."

Sir Robert if frankly proud of his new office, which calls for almost daily receptions and the making of between 800 and 1,000 speeches.

"I find the prospect both challenging and stimulating," he said. "I believe each successive Lord Mayor should make a special contribution of his own, not just follow the established pattern.

"My own particular ambition is to improve international relations wherever possible."

Modestly, he says anyone can become Lord Mayor providing he is "averagely successful" and is able to maintain the dignity of the office.

Sir R;bert was the guest of Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes at Government House until this morning when he returned to Vancouver for the flight back to London.

Before attending the centennial inter-church service in the Memorial Arena, he was guest of honor at a reception given to city dignitaries.

After viewing the Centennial fireworks display from Government House, he attended a private dinner at 10 p.m.

FEW 'FORTUNATES' HEARD A NEW MASTER

By AUDREY JOHNSON

In the Gordon Head gymnasium Sunday night, University of Victoria provided an electrifying experience for several hundred students and some Victorians who were fortunate enough to get in on an event which made musical history for Uvic.

Through university presiedent, Dr. Malcolm G. Taylor, a series of free Victoria Symphony concerts for students will be given through the winter and spring semesters.

Sunday night's was the second and as guest artist, Dr. Taylor had arranged to have the young Soviet violinist, Vladimir Lancman, appear.

Lancman is the 24-year-old artist who was winner of the International Violin Competition at Montreal this summer. He is at present on a concert tour of Canada.

Coducted by Ott-Werner Mueller, the entire program consisted of two violin cncertos — the Mendelssohn E minor and Sibelius D minor.

This was the first time, Mr. Lancman told me later in an interview conducted through an interpreter, that he had ever played two concertos on one program.

STANDING OVATIONS

It was undoubtedly the first time anyone in the audience had heard two concertos at the same concert played with such fire and artistry as to inspire two unanimous standing ovations.

Not only that. As an encore, he chose to play in duet with Victoria Symphony violinist Trudi Conrad, the first movement of a Bach Double Violin Concerto.

It is certain that few people outside the world's major capitals, would hear more than once or twice in and entire lifetime, such a performance as Lancman's.

Nor would many have the opportunity of acclaiming an artist almost certainly destined to be one of the world's masters.

His phenomenal technique — the dazzling virtuosity of bow and his superb left hand dexterity — give him the complete freedom and authority to exploit his marvellously mature musical insight.

He produces a silken tone that also has character and textural beauty and adapts itself as well to the romantic-poignant poetry of Mendélssohn as to the darker coloration and more epic structure of Sibelius.

Passsages of crystalline harmonics, fluent double-stopping and shining cantabile flow from beneath his bow. But while his virtuosity is breathtaking, artistry is always in command

COMPLIMENTS MUELLER

Mr. Lancman was eager to record his debt of gratitude to Otto Mueller, who conducted the orchestra in Montreal through the two weeks of the international contest.

He has worked with few conductors in his life, he says, as understanding both of the music and the soloist. He looks forward to playing with Mr. Mueller again when the conductor visits Russia for concert engagements in April.

Mr. Lancman, possessor of an engaging personality and simple manner, expects to speak English on his next visit to Canada.

However, judging by the interest Victoria Symphony officials are showing in bringing him back for a regular series appearance, that visit might come quite soon.

Mr. Lancman hopes that an event like the Canadian competition and interchange of artists will "build a bridge across the ocean."

He told me that he had never played a double concerto before and wanted to thank Miss Conrad — "a talented young lady" — for playing with him.

As a last word, if you want to know how well an orchestra has played a concerto, ask the soloist. Mr. Lancman told me that "it has been a great pleasure to play with an orchestra that, considering it is only partly professional, is so excellent."

ROBIN SUED FOR DIVORCE

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Batman's sidekick Robin, actor Burt Ward, has been sued for divorce by his 19-year-old wife.

Mrs. Bonney Lou Ward charged in a Superior Court complaint that Ward, 20, treated her with extreme cruelty and inflicted grievous mental suffering and grievous bodily injury on her.

Afternoon of Contrasts In Musical Art's Concert

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Music sung and music danced entertained a large Sunday afternoon audience at McPherson Playhouse when Victoria Musical Art Society presented the second in this season's concert series.

Eleanor Duff, contralto, was the voal artist, a singer whom it is always a pleasure to hear, not only because of her exceptional voice but because of the intuitive musicianship with which she sings.

Of Miss Duff's three groups of songs, the two Brahms and two Schubert numbers were particularly happy choices. Her musical intelligence and taste, ideally complimented by her partner at the piano, Mary Wood, formed a combination eminently suited to the performance of lieder.

Brahms' Wie Melódien was especially fine in mood and phrasing and Schubert's Das Fischermadchen, in color and delicate whimsy.

STYLE IMPECCABLE

The singer warmed up with an Italian group which included an aria from the first opera — Peri's Eurydice. A slight fogginess, the result of a touch of laryngitis, cooled the sunny vistas of tonal quality here, but the style was impeccable.

In her final group, Hamilton Harty's Irish Song, Sea Wrack, and Stanford's My Love's an Arbutus had the warm, persuasive quality of a Kathleen Ferrier folksong.

Dancers from the Wynne Shaw Studio provided a contrast in their presentation of classical and modern interpretive ballet, jazz and folk dance.

The black and white "Moments of Jazz" and the Dance of the Mexican Bridesmaids were two of the most effective numbers.

Discipline and smoothly developing technique were noticeable in the Swan Lake Pas de Trois. This was performed with considerable verve and revealed Paul Blakey as an especially gifted dancer who could conceivably develop into a genuine Danseur Noble.

The inclusion of an original ballet was an interesting feature of the afternoon. Paul Blakey was the choreographer of Tout le Monde with music by the studio accompanist, Hans Van Gijn.

FORM, GRACE

While no great originality was revealed, the work had form and grace and the choreography was quite successful in expressing the music.

Girls featured in the Pas de Trois were Maureen Lawson and Madeline Ponich.

Others were Irene King, Susan McFadden, Wendy Tebo, Nancy Watt, Elizabeth Andrews, Dana Hajnal, Leslie Olson, Robin Porteous, Gillian Regehr, Tina Bacon, Colleen De Corte, Ina Disbrow, Linda Poulton, Janet Ross, Marina Alexis, Janet Andreae, Muriel Angus Diane Fisher, Kathy Maddock Marguerite Matthews, Delcie McLellan, Rosalind Napier, Melinda-Belle Price, Kerry Senior, Barbara Hallberg and Janet Smith

Course To Deal With Problems Of Elderly

The special problems of the elderly will be dealt with this week in a regional institute sponsored by the Registered Nurses' Association at Holyrood House.

It opens today and closes Thursday.

The program is organized so that a person attending any four consecutive sessions — such as the four afternoon sessions or the four evening sessions — will have the full course. Alternatively, the entire program can be got by attending the two sessions on the first day or the two sessions on the last day.

Psychiatrists, social workers, therapists, doctors and dietitians will take part in the short course, primarily intended for those who work with the aged.

Elderly persons and their relatives may attend as well as professional nurses. Cost of registration will be $5.

Subjects covered in the institute will include such matters as the emotional and psychiatric problems of older persons, their abilities and needs, and means to strengthen their independence and individuality.

Strike Forces Uvic To Cancel '99' Seminar

One of the biggest events ever scheduled at the University of Victoria, the Canada 99 seminar, has been cancelled because of the Air Canada strike.

The seminar to discuss national affairs had such speakers at T. C. Douglas, Alvin Hamilton, Paul Helyer, Claude Ryan and Pierre-Elliott Trudeau. It was due to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Student organizers said the air strike made it impossible for speakers to attend. It is hoped to re-schedule the conference in late January.

The strike has also forced cancellation of a speech by Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker at the university Nov. 26. He was to have appeared in the political science forum series.

CAMERA inside mouth of a hippopotamus clicks away as Tokyo zookeeper opens jaws of mammoth-molared beast. Photographer Atsuo Hirosawa didn't climb inside the mouth, but placed remote controlled 33 mm. camera inside, waiting outside to make the photo. Hirosawa used a "fish-eye" lens on camera to get this back of the throat view.

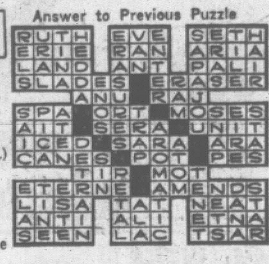
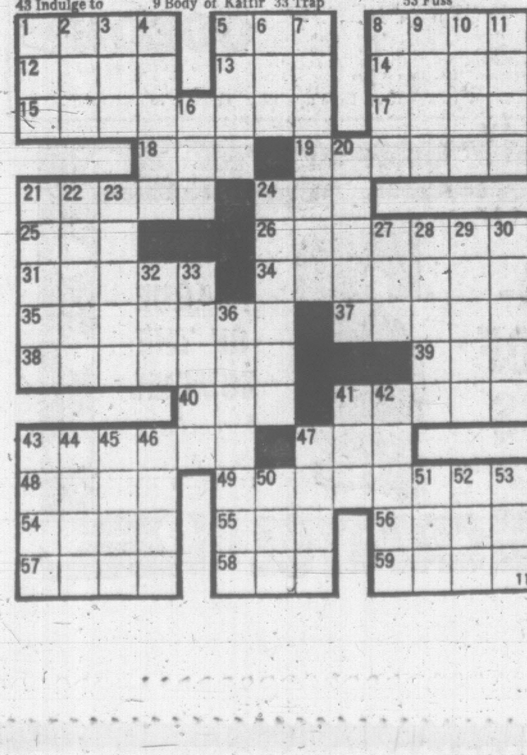
Answer to Previous Puzzle





HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 02-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Deborah Rau, age 11, of Durham, Conn., for her question:

Why does the cold make us shiver?

The real you lives inside a miraculous human body. If you had to keep it going, you would be overworked day and night. But your body does most of its chores itself automatically, and you do not have to think about them. One of these automatic operations is shivering.

Your body must remain warm, but not too warm. Its billions of assorted cells can operate only within a limited temperature range. It has a built-in thermostatic system that works constantly. Most of this work is done automatically without bothering your conscious mind—but sometimes you are expected to co-operate with your body to keep its temperature at a comfortable level.

On a cold day you feel chilly. Your nervous system prods you with this information and you are expected to provide the necessary cozy comfort. You can sit by the fire or turn up the house thermostat, or you can add a warm sweater. This hugs in the body's natural warmth and prevents it from escaping into the chilly air. You can go for a brisk walk or do some other exercise. The moving muscles burn up fuel for energy and this creates extra heat to raise the temperature for the body's busy cells.

Sometimes we ignore the chilly signals and sometimes they are too slight to notice. Then the body takes over and tries to warm itself automatically. It orders the small vessels in the skin to shrink. This prevents the natural warmth of the blood from escaping into the air. Naturally, your body cannot move near the fire or don a sweater without your consent. But it can do a bit of automatic exercising—and it does.

Shivering Creates Heat

The nerves order the muscles to shiver and shake. This exercise burns up fuel and this gives off heat. Sometimes the warmth created by the exercise of shivering is enough to enable the body to carry on its work in comfort. However, if shivering is not enough, the body has another trick left.

Nobody likes the feeling of shivering and shaking with cold. Most of us tend to avoid such unpleasant sensations and when they happen we do something to put things right. On a cold day, your body gives you a shivering prod for assistance. When you do something to make yourself comfortable, you provide the extra warmth that its busy cells need to keep performing their miraculous operations.

The body's thermostat also tries to adjust its temperature when things get too warm. On a hot day, special cells in the skin are ordered to ooze dewy drops of perspiration. As a liquid evaporates, it steals heat from objects around it and therefore they become cooler. As liquid perspiration dries in the cool air, it cools the skin and lowers the temperature of the body.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Amy Onnen, age 12, of Newton, Iowa, for her question:

How did the name for Europe originate?

Australia is the only continent smaller than Europe, but Europe is the cradle of civilization and the birthplace of recorded human history. Its name dates back to early Mediterranean people who worshiped various superhuman beings as gods and goddesses. According to a legend of ancient Greece, Europa was the fair daughter of a Phoenician king named Agenor.

The lovely girl attracted the roving eye of Zeus, king of the Greek gods. One day Zeus changed himself into a white bull. He swam ashore where Europa and her friends were playing and joined in their games. They decked him with flowers and Europa, silly girl, rode on the back of the handsome white bull. Suddenly he jumped into the sea and swam off with her to Crete—and the continent of Europe was named to commemorate this legend of Europa.

Old Timers Seek Spirit of Youth At Coming Dance

Bustles, bonnets, top hats and cravats will be worn at a Centennial Old Timers dance to be held in Victoria Ballroom Friday, Dec. 2.

The Old Timers will recapture the spirit of their youth in the dancing of polkas, two-steps, waltzes and minuets played by the Pioneers' Orchestra.

The event is sponsored by Greater Victoria Centennial Society and all senior citizens, 65 and up, are welcome. Free tickets can be obtained from the Centennial Office, 14 Centennial Square, or from the Silver Threads Centre, 4 Centennial Square.

BRIDGE RESULTS

East-west: 1. Margaret and Jack McAvoy; 2. Denise and Fraser McColl; Velma Acres and Hilda Price; 4. Duncan Smith and Ken Magee.

YOUR HEALTH

Don't Be Alarmed If Hand Is Numb

By DR. W. C. ALVAREZ

Sometimes a person past 50 or 60 will be anxious because occasionally he wakes in the morning with a hand so numb and almost paralyzed that for a minute or two he is almost certain he has suffered a stroke. When, in a few more minutes, the hand is perfectly normal again, he can be sure that what happened was that he lay on his arm in such a way as to shut off most of the blood supply.

Alvarez

My impression is that this sort of thing is much more likely to happen to someone who has taken a sleeping-pill. This makes him sleep so soundly that he does not quickly wake when the weight of his body bears down heavily on an arm. If he hadn't taken the sleeping-medicine, he would probably have sensed discomfort, and would have waked — before his arm became numb and paralyzed.

Many people are distressed by their brittle fingernails, which keep breaking and then catching on their clothes. I wish I knew the cure, because I have the trouble. I suspect it is "one of those things" which come with age.

Many people have tried gelatin, but it did not work, and I do not know why it should. Calcium could be taken, but often calcium (lime salt) refuses to go into some part of the body, and to stay there — as the doctor wants it to do. Unfortunately, we doctors have no treatment for many of the little nuisances.

* * *

A number of people have asked if they need flu shots this winter. I cannot get up any enthusiasm about them, because so many different viruses can produce what looks like an influenza, and one cannot expect anyone to make a vaccine that will protect against all of them.

Another difficulty with influenza viruses is that they can suddenly change from time to time. Able drug houses are struggling with the problem, but I doubt if they feel that the problem is solved. There is no harm in taking the vaccine, and if the person should happen to get the type of flu that is produced by a virus from which the vaccine is made, the person should be helped.

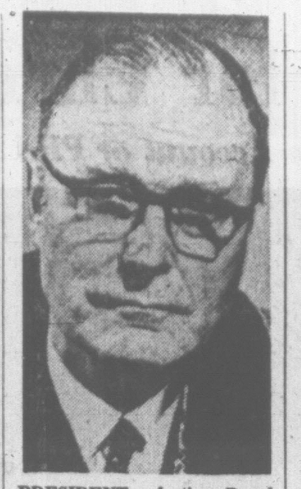
HOOVER ON STAND?

WASHINGTON (WP) — Attorneys for Robert G. (Bobby) Baker served notice in federal court last week they will attempt to summon J. Edgar Hoover to testify about the eavesdropping practices of the FBI.

The appearance of Hoover in the witness box would be unprecedented and is expected to be resisted strongly by the justice department.

Baker, under indictment for grand larceny, income tax evasion, conspiracy and fraud, is attempting at a pre-trial hearing to suppress government evidence on grounds that it was illegally obtained with electronic eavesdropping devices. If this and other legal manoeuvres fail, he will go to trial on Jan. 9.



PRESIDENT of the Royal College of Surgeons of England, Professor Hedley Atkins, will lecture on the treatment of breast cancer at a post-graduate course in cancer to be held this week in the Christmas Seal Auditorium in Vancouver.

WILSON REASSURES MPs

Phone Tapping Alarms Britons

LONDON — Prime Minister Harold Wilson has assured members of the House of Commons that there had been no tapping of their telephone calls since his Labor government came to power in 1964.

His answer, which left the clear implication that the previous Tory government had tapped the calls of MPs, was not contradicted by Tory spokesmen in the House.

It had been rumored that during the Profuma affair the government eavesdeopped on the phone conversations of members of Parliament. More recently, several MPs said they were certain that police were monitoring their calls.

INTERVENED

So serious was the concern that the prime minister took the unusual step of replying personally to questions directed to Home Secretary Roy Jenkins, whose office has the power to authorize wire-taps in cases involving security or serious crimes

The prime minister remarked that many Britons were under the delusion that their calls were being intercepted. He added that he himself had suffered from the same delusion "at one time."

Two Labor MPs who insist they are under no such delusion about official snooping are leftwingers Peter Jackson a sociologist, and David Ensor, a journalist. Both appeared on BBC television and complained of tapping.

Jackson said he was associated with the peace movement, and that he helped arrange some phoney demonstrations by telephone as a test. "When we arrived at the demonstration site," he said. "we found the police were there."

A rigthwing Tory, Sir Tufton Beamish, also joined in complaints, along with left-wing Laborite Russell Kerr.

The spirited exchange in Parliament served to underscore the very relaxed — by American standards — British attitude to telephone tapping. It is not a criminal offence, for example, for any private person to intercept calls.

Wilson acknowledged the existence of such "private enterprise" snooping and told a questioner he would consider making the tapping of private calls by unauthorized persons an offence.

REVIEWED IN 1957

The problem of tapping was last reviewed officially in 1957 by a committee of privy councillors who recommended that no figures be released on the number of interceptions authorized by the Home Office.

But the report said that there had been an average of about 200 tappings in each of the four preceeding years. It recommended that Home Office subject to monthly review all warrants for tapping authorized in cases of security and serious crime.

What Wilson did was to add a fresh proviso to existing policy — that members of Parliament should be immune from electronic snooping.

Privacy Protection To Be Sought by MLA

REVELSTOKE (CP) — Alex Macdonald, deputy leader of the provincial New Democratic Party, said Saturday night he plans to introduce a bill at the next session of the legislature to protect personal privacy.

Mr. Macdonald told an NDP meeting here that his bill would include safeguards against electronic snooping and against the invasion of privacy by reporters and photographers.

"We have to balance the individual's right to be let alone with the public's right to know," he said.

"Freedom of the press must not include invasions of privacy by camera, radio transmitter, tape recorder or closed - circuit television."

Mr. Macdonald said that if people are not protected against electronic surveillance, they will become like vegetables, afraid to voice their thoughts even to their friends.

He said the only law in B.C. now on the subject is the Peace Act, passed more than 600 years ago in England, against "eavesdropping."

"Our ancestors considered this should be a crime, but we have not even banned telephone wire tapping in this province."

SWISS MEN VETO VOTE FOR WOMEN

ZURICH, Switzerland (AFP) —Voters of Zurich rejected by 107,775 to 93,372 votes Sunday a proposal to grant women the right to vote and be elected to public office.

Women have the right to vote in only four of Switzerland's 22 cantons, or states. In three of these—Geneva, Vaud and Neufchatel—they can vote only on local issues. In the canton of Basile, they have ful political rights.

Bus Falls Off Cliff

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) —A bus plunged off a 200-foot cliff and into a river Friday night about 30 miles north of here, police said Saturday. Police said 35 Africans were killed and 30 others injured.

What's The Rush?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fifty-one fellows from Philadelphia went to the New York world's fair the other day. It doesn't matter that the fair closed a year ago.

This group just got around recently to demonstrating at Philadelphia City Hall against the war of 1812. In a real show of alacrity, these guys celebrated Christmas 1965 three months ago.

They are members of the procrastinators' Club. "Later" is their motto.

"This is wonderful," Les Waas said, viewing the almost deserted world's fair grounds. "No waiting lines."

Three manufactures, long-ago exhibitors at the fair, showed up. One representative distributed old writing pens. Several newsmen were there, too. A few photographers never got around to taking pictures of the club. Members appeared to like that.

OVER BILINGUALISM, FINANCES

Quebec Liberals in an Uproar

By CY FOX

KIERANS
. . . president

LESAGE
. . . approves compromise

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Liberal party, rocked by internal dissension in recent months, has opted for a compromising course on two crucial questions affecting its future.

But the party's annual convention, where the decisions were made with little outward fuss during the weekend, exploded into uproar over a pair of other issues—one generated by the internal feuding, the secong involving bilingualism.

Eric Kierans, reform-minded ex-cabinet minister, won election as president of the Quebec Liberal Federation.

As federation secretary and treasurer, the convention chose two men who had labelled as too extreme some of Mr. Kierans' proposals for making the Liberal organization more democratic.

The convention approved a compromise plan for injecting more democracy into the party's general leadership—especially as it concerns finances.

But the Kierans' proposal dealing with management of the electoral fund was watered-down—with Mr. Kierans' approval—in the compromise plan presented by Leader Jean Lesage.

SAYS IT'S VICTORY

The new federation president, a bilingual Montrealer whose mother tongue is English, said Sunday night his slate won a big victory in that "90 per cent" of its original reform plan was included in the Lesage compromise.

Dr. Lapierre was quoted as saying in a radio interview that Mr. Levesque was no asset to the party and probably would leave it.

The doctor also was quoted as calling Mr. Kierans a Levesque "puppet" in the weekend interview.

The convention demanded that he apologize for the remarks and the apology finally was forthcoming.

Sunday also saw uproar following the passing and subsequent rejection on a recount of a resolution calling for English-language translation facilities at future Liberal meetings.

BILINGUALISM CROPS UP

The bilingualism issue cropped up several times at the convention, each time sending mostly youthful French-speaking delegates into impassioned criticisms of the "injustices" heaped on French-language residents in other Canadian provinces.

"Separatist" was how one embittered English - speaking delegate described the anti-translation protests.

"If this goes on, there'll be more split in the party than there are now," warned another.

Voted in as new federation secretary was Bernard Pinard, a roads minister in the Lesage cabinet, who defeated Marc Briere.

Jean Morin won re-election as federation treasurer, defeating the pro - Kierans Philippe Casgrain and a candidate who won little support, Real Rousseau.

Richard Lord of Montreal was chosen as English - language vice-president — believed the highest federation post ever won by a Negro.

Mr. Kierans defeated Jean Tetreault for the presidency. The winner had warned the party that thorough-going reorganization is needed following the June 5 defeat of the Liberal government by the party now in power, the Union Nationale.

ELECTION POSSIBLE

A new provincial election might come next spring, the new president said. The Liberals now have 50 seats in the provincial assembly, against 56 for Premier Daniel Johnson's Union Nationale. There are two independent MLAs.

Kr. Lesage, in a Sunday night speech officially ending the Liberal meeting, bombarded the present government with criticism for its "do-nothing" attitude.

Mr. Kierans, who joined other Liberals in reaffirming faith in Mr. Lesage's leadership, urged the party to follow a "progressive" line in future.

The organizational reforms passed Sunday involve establishment of a new "superior council," to give representation in party leadership to a broad spectrum of party officials..

Mr. Kierans and others, including Mr. Levesque, had voiced opposition to the idea of secret electoral "slush funds." The more moderate party elements had emphasized what they called the need to avoid excessive publicity about election fund donations—for fear of losing contributions.

The Lesage compromise establishes a finance committee and the leader is to make a twice-yearly report to the executive committee about collections and payments involving the general party fund.

Blake in E. Berlin?

LONDON (UPI)—Soviet master spy George Blake, whose daring prison escape last month embarrassed British security and led to demands for a government inquiry, was reported today to have reached asylum in East Berlin.

PROFESSOR of anthropology at New York State University, Birmingham, Dr. Allan Coult has urged his colleagues to use hallucinatory drugs for a better inuedstanding of cultures. He made his remarks in an address to the American Anthropological Association's annual meeting in Pittsburgh.

TV Strike Averted

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Federation of Radio and Television Artists Sunday night reached a tentative contract settlement with the four major television and radio networks, averting a threatened nation-wide strike.

B.C. Indians Form Organization To Back Compensation Demand

VANCOUVER (CP) — Representatives of 30,000 British Columbia Indians formed a new organization Sunday to demand government compensation for what spokesmen describe as treaty lands and titles seized illegally over several generations.

Guy Williams, chairman of a group of tribal representatives which formed the new Confederation of Native Indians of B.C., said the new group represents a major step in the battle for Indian rights.

"We can now go to the government with a representative organization and a representative voice," he said.

"We want to exercise our democratic rights, made possible by the fact we are citizens of Canada—both historically and politically. By acceeding to our desires and demands, the government will really be recognizing these rights and extending to us the privileges of first class citizens.

"Our first job is to further the unity of Indians and to convince the government the Indian people are serious in their desire to be compensated for the lands and all related matters," said Mr. Williams.

He said the 30,000 Indians represented at the meeting are about 80 per cent of all B.C. Indians.

5,000 HONOR BUILDERS OF PROVINCE IN MIGHTY CHORUS OF THANKSGIVING

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

In a glorious blend of color and sound, Victorians gave thanks Sunday night for 100 years of history and progress in British Columbia.

Nearly 5,000 men, women and children joined in the Proclamation Day service and pageant in the Memorial Arena marking the centenary of the union of the colonies of Vancouver Island and the mainland.

Their voices, swelled by an inter-church choir of 700 and backed by an augmented Salvation Army band, were raised in a mighty chorus of thanksgiving.

It was probably the largest and most impressive inter-church service in Victoria's history; rich in color and pageantry and in every sense a credit to directors Allan Purdy and Christine MacNab and the Greater Victoria Centennial Society.

Trumpet Fanfare

The whole ceremony moved with pinpoint precision.

As the lights were lowered, a fanfare of trumpets announced the start of the ceremonies and a stately procession, led by a color party of Rover Scouts, moved down the centre of the arena.

Hundreds of Girl Guides, Boy Scouts and Venture Scouts, bearing lighted torches, formed a guard of honor through which the procession passed.

First came the ethnic groups in colorful native costume; the clergy of most Victoria churches; deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace, chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee; Coun. A. R. Mebs, Greater Victoria Centennial Committee, and many other dignitaries.

Lord Mayor

Prominent among them was the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Robert Bellinger, in his ceremonial robe of black and gold, chain of office and black tricorn hat.

With him were three attendants in picturesque array — the city marshal, the macebearer and the swordbearer.

After the dignitaries had taken their seats on a platform at the north end of the arena, two solitary figures emerged from the shadows and moved slowly up the centre aisle.

They stopped halfway and a spotlight from the balconies picked out Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hunt, proudly dressed in vivid ceremonial costume to represent the native Indians of British Columbia.

"This was their land before the white man came," said a voice from the surrounding darkness. "Now we are all united under one flag, the inheritors of a proud tradition."

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt advanced to the platform and took their seats with the others. In front of them were three trumpeters of the Royal Canadian Navy and three Rover Scouts bearing the national flag of Canada, the Union Jack and British Columbia's own flag.

Men and women of all ages packed the tiered seats on three sides of the arena, while those at the north end were filled with the combined choirs of city churches in their white surplices and gowns of russet, blue, black and crimson.

Directly in front of the choirs was an augmented Salvation Army Band, conducted by Larry Rowett, which led the singing of the processional hymn, Praise to the Lord, The Almighty, the King of Creation.

After the singing of O Canada, Rev. Dr. S. J. Parsons, president of Greater Victoria Council of Churches offered prayers of invocation and general thanksgiving, and called for one minute's silence in memory of the late Mayor Alfred Toone.

Bishop Denys Rankilor of the Reformed Episcopal Church of Our Lord, led a responsive reading from the scriptures, and Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes gave the address.

"We recall the devoted struggles of those who pioneered this western land," he said, "and we acknowledge with gratitude the strength of the foundations they so heroically laid."

Mr. Pearkes said the past 100 years had brought "almost unbelievable changes," far beyond the wildest dreams of the pioneers.

"We are a privileged people, for all about us are the evidences that we live in a land superbly endowed by the providence of God."

Mr. Pearkes said it was significant that the Lord Mayor of London had flown out to represent the people of Britain at the culmination of British Columbia's Centennial Year.

"We extend to him our heartfelt good wishes and thanks for this splendid gesture."

The Lord Mayor rose and, removing his tricorn hat, moved to the front of the platform to read the scripture lesson from Deuteronomy VIII. He read it slowly and expressively in a strong clear voice.

'Splendid Province'

The sermon was given by Anglican Archbishop Harold Sexton, who sat on the platform beside Roman Catholic Bishop Remi De Roo.

"God's goodness has given to us a splendid province," the archbishop said. "It is a province dowered with immense resources of pastoral, agricultural and mineral wealth; a land of sublime mountains, glorious lakes and noble forests, all part of the glorious handiwork of God."

"It is our privilege to live in one of the most beautiful countries in the whole world."

Because of their good fortune, the archbishop said, British Columbians have great responsibilities. In the words of the scriptures: "To whomsoever much is given, of him much shall be required."

Need Hardy Spirit

"We still need the hardy spirit of the men and women who laid the foundations of this province; their courage, their self-reliance, their contempt for difficulty.

"It is the character of ordinary men and women which determines the character of a nation. We need to realize the value of heroic endeavor in our public and private lives, and we must develop a spirit of responsibility to all our brethren."

The archbishop said the word "duty" is just as important as the word "rights."

"Frequently those who are constantly claiming their rights seem to have little regard for their duties. If we attach more importance to luxury, entertainment and soft living than to our duties, we cannot expect to leave behind us a record of achievement comparable with that of the sturdy pioneers of 100 years ago."

The service reached its musical climax with the singing of Cym Rhondda and the Hallelujah Chorus by the massed choirs conducted by Frank Tupman, with Eric Boothroyd at the organ.

The benediction at the close of the service was given by Bishop Remi De Roo. In a prayer of commemoration, he said.

"We remember before Thee, O Lord, all those who have gone before us as pioneers and builders of this province; men and women of every race and faith."

The huge audience, with choirs and band, then joined in a massive rendering of God Save the Queen and the recessional hymn From Ocean to Ocean, during which clergy and dignitaries left the arena.

Among them were Chancellor J. B. Clearihue of the University of Victoria; Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton representing the judiciary; B.C. Public Works Minister W. N. Chant; Acting Mayor Cecil Parrott of Victoria; Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich; Reeve Ray Bryant of Esquimalt, and Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay.

A descriptive narration during the service was read by Richard Litt and Michael Meiklejohn from a script by Prof. R. H. Roy of the University of Victoria.

HUNDREDS inspected Ss. Beaver, re-created pioneer steam vessel of the Pacific Coast, in the Inner Harbor, Sunday afternoon. The Beaver was making farewell appearance in British Columbia's Centennial celebrations before going into HMC Dockyard for the winter. Queen Mother Among First Five Awarded New Dogwood Order

A provincial award of merit, The Order of the Dogwood, was created by the British Columbia cabinet Saturday.

Premier Bennett announced the award at Langley and named the first five recipients—persons who have made a special contribution to the Provincial Centenary.

They are Queen Mother Elizabeth, Sir Robert Bellinger, Lord Mayor of London; former lieutenant-governor (1955-60) Frank Ross, his predecessor Clarence Wallace and Viscount Amory, who officiated at the opening of centennial celebrations last February.

The award, which can't be given to serving members of the government, includes a gold medal and an illuminated certificate. The medal carries a dogwood design and on the reverse, the provincial coat of arms. The dogwood is B.C.'s floral emblem.

Actual wording of the cabinet order states it is to be conferred "upon a person only who by virtue of his undoubted and meritorious service to the province of B.C., or by virtue of his unusually significant association with the province, shall have been recommended for the honor."

Mr. Ross and Sir Robert were present at an annual Douglas Day dinner at Langley to receive the honor. The banquet capped celebrations of the union of the colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia 100 years ago.

Sir Robert said he was deeply touched, adding, "This is an award I shall cherish for all time."

BEAVER HOLED

Saturday's festivities on the mainland were highlighted by docking of the navy-built replica of Ss. Beaver, the pioneer steam ship of the north Pacific, at New Westminster.

The paddle wheeler was holed in docking, by a protruding gangway. However only the wooden shell built around the steel-hulled ship was pierced and well above the water line.

Premier Bennett, Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes and Sir Robert greeted the arrival. New Westminster-born actor Raymond Burr was landed to read the proclamation of union.

A sabre was used to cut a 400-pound birthday cake and portions of the cake were distributed. Later, at Fort Langley, Sir Robert opened a $55,000 museum of farm machinery, Langley's centennial project.

YOUNG DOGWOOD TREE is planted in the precinct lawns of Christ Church Cathedral to mark proclamation of union between Vancouver Island and the Mainland. Planting ceremony was performed by Mrs. Brian Gingell, wife of the People's Warden, in the presence of Dean Brian Whitlow (behind) and members of the congregation.

'SO SORRY' ABOUT 200 EMPTY SEATS

In spite of the great demand for tickets, there were more than 200 empty seats at the centennial service in the Memorial Arena Sunday night.

"We were very distressed by this," said Jerry Gosley, co-ordinator of Greater Victoria Centennial Society. "We distributed 5,035 tickets—the full capacity of the Arena — but more than 200 were returned just before the service began.

"We are extremely sorry this happened."

GIANT white chrysanthemum formed over Clover Point Sunday night as Victoria's Centennial celebrations ended in a blaze of fireworks. The Dallas Road waterfront was jammed with cars as thousands of men, women, and children enjoyed the sparkling patterns of light. Many went directly to the waterfront from Centennial service in Memorial Arena. Thousands watched from gardens and windows.

Saanich Hunter Dies In Up-Island Mishap

Man Found Pinned Under Small Boat

By TERRY IZZARD

Fred Cochrane's love of hunting ended in his death over the weekend.

The 49-year-old Saanich man was found pinned under his overturned outboard boat at lonely Quinsam Lake, near Campbell River, Saturday.

Nearby was the home-built camper he'd left home in last Monday for a hunting holiday.

Inside the camper, waiting faithfully for his master's return, was Mr. Cochrane's pet dog Gigi.

Gigi's lively condition indicated Mr. Cochrane had been away no more than 24 hours.

TWO CHILDREN

The father of two said goodbye to his wife Phyllis on the doorstep of their home, 3983 Holland, with the promise he'd be back Saturday evening.

Instead of his familiar footstep, it was a Saanich policeman who walked up the driveway Saturday to say a hunter, answering her husband's description, had been found by four hunters close to the shores of the lake.

HEART ATTACK?

Mrs. Cochrane has asked for an autopsy to determine whether her husband died of a heart attack.

"He would never tip a boat," she said.

"He was raised in Saanich and knew every piece of terrain and everything there was to know about hunting and boating."

Mr. Cochrane, who worked in the paint department of Yarrows Ltd., returned only last Monday after taking his daughter Beverley, 19, on a hunting trip by the same lake.

Then he loaded up and set out again the same evening.

At the time of his death, Mr. Cochrane was believed to be heading across the lake to hunt deer.

TACKLE IN CAMPER

The fishing tackle he had taken with him was found in the camper.

Weeds on the propeller of his boat indicated he'd been trying to clear the prop when he died.

In addition to his wife and daughter, he leaves a 20-year-old son Michael and sister Mrs Helen Loat of Victoria.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Meanwhile, Duncan RCMP and friends were searching dense bush around Glenora today for missing hunter Brian Young.

The 18-year-old Duncan youth was parted from friend John Hankins Sunday and had failed to turn up by dark.

When early morning searches by friends failed to detect him, police, armed with loud hailers, went into the area.

Another hunter, Stephen Berkes, of 1521 Mortimer, Saanich, limped out of the woods near Sooke today after struggling half the night to free his foot which was trapped between two rocks.

The 42-year-old greenhouse man was treated for a sprained ankle.

He was carrying a deer out of the bush late Sunday when his foot wedged between the rocks.

When darkness fell he was still stuck and it wasn't until late into the night he managed to free himself, and, leaving behind the deer, hopped towards the road.

He was found shortly before noon struggling down Eves logging road by Sooke RCMP.

FOUR FOUND

At Chemainus, four hunters who had been missing overnight Sunday were found this morning making their way along the road home.

The four, Hank Walters and his son Peter, of Chemainus, Hans Bruehler of Crofton and Hors Lehmann of Nanaimo, said they became lost Sunday night and slept the night in the woods near Copper Canyon west of Chemainus.

A Victoria hunter who disappeared in the Glenora area Saturday night was found Sunday.

Brian McMillan had been out with friends Jack Jackson and Tom Hosie, all crew members of Esquimalt based HMCS Mackenzie, when he got lost in the dark.

Thieves Hit Businesses Over Weekend

A spate of break-ins to business offices in the city and Saanich plagued police over the weekend.

Little of value has been reported missing.

Thieves took $14.65 from a cash box and cigarettes and coins from two dispensing machines after forcing a fire escape door at the Pro Patria branch of the Royal Canadian Legion, 625 Courtney, overnight Saturday.

A rear window at Butler Tire Ltd., 616 Gorge, was smashed overnight and $5.16 is missing from an office.

Nothing is reported missing in another overnight break-in at Victoria Foundries Ltd., 622 Pembroke, where a window was found broken this morning.

A pop machine was forced open and coins taken when Trans-Canada Texaco, at Trans-Canada Highway and Burnside, was entered through a side window Saturday night.

Nothing was apparently taken from another service station at 3415 Douglas.

CHEQUES STOLEN

Police are still investigating a burglary at Patterson Construction Ltd., 2824 Quesnel, reported Saturday morning. A cheque-writing machine and 117 cheques were stolen after thieves entered through a bathroom window.

An electic typewriter was stolen at the same time from the adjacent offices of Camosun Electric Co. Ltd.

Roy Reeves, 900 Richmond, told police Saturday that $125 in tools had been stolen from his garage the previous afternoon.

$25,000 Push Needed By Appeal

As Greater Victoria's United Appeal goes into its fourth week of overtime campaign officials are optimistic this year's objective will be reached before the week is out.

To date the appeal has received $426,032 or 94.6 per cent of the campaign goal of $452,000.

The residential campaign and the canvass of federal and provincial civil servants have gone over the top.

But $25,000 is still urgently needed.

FEEL PINCH

If the campaign falls short as it did last year, the pinch will be felt throughout the community. For the appeal goal is not plucked out of thin air. It is the considered estimate by a committee of leading businessmen of the absolute minimum needed if the Community Chest's 21-member agencies are to continue providing vital services.

Anything less and the community is short-changing itself.

Student Faces Action After Admitting Kick

A youth responsible for kicking a storekeeper's wife near Victoria Senior Secondary School a few weeks ago has been identified and will be punished by school authorities.

Duncan Lorimer, school principal, said today the culprit is not the person who was first named by the storekeeper, Lim Quan, Stanley and Begbie.

Mr. Lorimer said he considers the episode to be a serious offence.

School authorities traced the boy, despite the misleading initial identification, and he has admitted the offence.

Meanwhile, Mr. Quan has again opened his store during the school lunch hour. He had closed it to students because of hooliganism.

Mr. Lorimer said all students will be reminded that they are required to be of good behavior, even off the school grounds.

Three Boys Admit False Alarm Spree

Three young boys have admitted to a series of false fire alarms in recent weeks.

City police stopped the youngsters on the street Saturday afternoon after another false alarm had been turned in at a call box at Queens and Quadra.

Ask The Times

Q. I freeze milk to take on camping and hunting trips but it always seems flat in taste when thawed. Is there any way to prevent this? P.A.M.

A. A local dairyman suggests you blow air bubbles through it as it thaws.

Q. When will the Pan-American Games be held in Winnipeg? Where have they been held before? How many athletes, etc., are expected? J.M.

A. The Games begin July 22, 1967, and end Aug. 7. This will be the first time they have been held in Canada in their 20-year history. They have been held before in Buenos Aires, Mexico City, Chicago and Sao Paulo.

Attendance figures are not available, but the Winnipeg Free Press says "it will be the largest sporting event ever on the North American continent."

A WOMAN'S VIEWPOINT

By Pat Dufour

An American aeronautical engineer and his wife, Arthur and Dee Eisele, treated themselves to a motoring holiday in Canada three years ago. Last stop was to be an overnight stay at the Empress Hotel. This stay lengthened into two weeks and resulted in the Eiseles returning to Victoria late this summer, this time for keeps!

What "sold" them on our city? Says Dee Eisele, "It is one of the few places left where the old and tried values count. Children have respect for their parents and teachers and people still have time to treat each other with courtesy."

The Eiseles have two children, seven-year-old Gretchen, who's now a student at Norfolk House, and Geoffrey, six, presently attending St. Christopher's School. Their mother admits that she and her husband considered living in Switzerland because of the excellent schools in that country . . . but Victoria "won out" because of its beauty and the friendliness of its citizens.

Arthur Eisele is now retired, although he still has an interest in the business which has seen the Eiseles gravitating between the cities of Acapulco, Mexico, and Newport, Calif., for the past few years.

Her 'D-Day' Scheduled for Today

It's just as well Arthur has more time on his hands. He's now free to help Dee with the hundred and one details that a new business demands. For the first time since their marriage, Dee has decided to get back into the business world, with "D-Day" set for today.

One glance at Dee is sufficient to tell you what products she plans to sell. In essence, they're charm and confidence. This blonde, blue-eyed mother has both in abundance. But, what is more important, Dee Eisele has the training which is needed to teach teen-agers, their mothers . . . and grandmothers . . . how to lead a life that's enriched with the assurance that comes only when you know that you look your best.

She plans to open her own charm and modelling school in Victoria, utilizing the know-how she's accumulated during her years as a top-flight Powers' model in New York, Paris and Austria. This won't be Dee's first experience of counselling and teaching; she's done both for the Patricia Stevens School of Modelling and Self-Improvement in Chicago and has been manager of that company's branch in San Francisco.

Shyness Started It All

Dee Eisele quotes shyness as the reason she ended up choosing modelling as a career. Sound crazy? Not when she explains in more detail.

"I was born and brought up in Chicago, spending all my school years at a convent in a small Illinois town. After leading such a sheltered, disciplined life, I grew up with a fear of being self-conscious. So, I told my parents, I wanted to take training in a modelling school to help me overcome this shyness.

"When I first told them, they flipped . . . you'd have thought that I was announcing my decision to enter burlesque! But they reconsidered and sent me to the Barbizon School of Modelling in New York."

Days after her graduation, Dee Eisele had her first position as a Powers' model and soon found herself working for Saks, Fifth Avenue; Hattie Carnegie, and others.

Naturally, Dee Eisele is excited about her re-entry into the business world and feels that Victoria women are ready for a school like hers where they'll learn visual poise, figure coordination (basic ballet and fencing helping to achieve this), styling and wardrobe, makeup, self-confidence and, of course, modelling.

When we chatted together last week she was busy arranging the last details in her downtown school which will open its doors for both day and evening students.

Has Other Plans In Mind

"I like to do some designing so, later, I hope to open a boutique where women can get the clothes which they feel will round out their personalities. Also, I'd love to eventually open a place on one of the beautiful islands around this coast where women could go for two weeks or so and enjoy a full-time beauty course."

Dee Eisele refutes any idea that Victoria women are "tweedy." "From what I've seen, women here are very fashion-conscious and have a good sense of clothes."

Why, then, does she feel that our city needs a school like hers?

"Because very few people are born with an outgoing personality. This comes with confidence and the knowledge that you look your best. Personality is a woman's greatest asset."

When Victoria's newest "personality doctor" "hung up her shingle" this morning, Dee Eisele realized one ambition at least, that of really belonging to the city that she and her husband fell in love with three years ago.

PART OF THE NEW LOOK

TORONTO (CP)—The secretary of the near future will have to know how to program her typewriter's memory bank to do her typing for her and how to set up the doodle pads and information for a meeting held by phonavision.

John Mulholland, a personnel adviser, told the National Secretaries' Association that typing and shorthand may still be necessary, but only as elementary tools.

"Ten years from now when your employer wants to send a letter, he will dictate it into a dictawriter which will type it for him."

He said an electronic typewriter with a memory bank is already on the market.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Lowman

Old Man Winter is here to stay for a while. Many of my readers will experience severe weather of at least some snow or icy winds while others will cope with only mild changes in temperature.

For all women this is the time to moisturize the complexion just as you winterize the car. One of the main factors in aging is the drying out of the skin. This is due to the fact that the natural oils lessen as a woman grows older but weathering also plays an important part, whether it be from hot sunlight or cold winds.

During winter months the humidity is likely to be very low much of the time. This, plus blustery winds, will speed up the drying process unless special measures are used to combat it. These would be more extensive than those employed during the warm weather. Here are a few suggestions.

If you haven't used a moisturizer why not protect your complexion with one during this season? Wear it under your makeup all day long. Many bases have built-in moisturizers.

Unless your complexion is oily switch to a cleansing cream and use soap and water only once or twice a week on your face and neck. Be sure to find time for a lubricating cream to soak into these areas for an hour, if possible, if you do not want to leave it on all night. If you can't do better, at least let a lubricant sink into the skin while you soak in the tub.

If you haven't been accustomed to using an eye cream do so during the zippy months. Remember, too, that colored glasses are essential in winter as well as in summer. The glare from snow is great.

By all means use a bath oil in your tubs! Many older persons have a real problem with dry skin during the winter. However, all women profit by the use of a bath oil during winter months.

Remember the friction spots, the heels and toes and elbows. Massage a softening body lotion in well before going to sleep at night. These preventative measures are most effective.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Your Outer Coating," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Urges Canadian Support Of Mekong Development

Canada has a responsibility to help close the gap between the rich and poor countries of the world.

This was the point emphasized by Dr. W. R. Derrick Sewell when he spoke to the University Women's Club of Victoria when it met in the faculty lounge on the Gordon Head campus of the University of Victoria. A noted authority on the study of river potentials, Dr. Sewell stressed the need for Canada to increase her aid to southeast Asia and, in particular, to take part in the development of the Mekong River.

The Uvic professor of economics and geography told his audience that the river was 2,625 miles in length with only a few hundred miles being navigable and possessing no bridges or dams.

"In this vast undeveloped region," Dr. Sewell said, "power alone can be the means of fostering the processing of forest and food products, of building electro-chemical industry, as well as instigating the production of much-needed nitrogenous fertilizers."

Describing the river as "a giant asleep," Dr. Sewell said it had a minimum flow five times as great as that of the Fraser, draining territories in China, Burma, Thailand, Laos and Viet Nam.

The speaker, who is co-author with Gilbert White on a book on the Mekong River, was introduced by Miss Muriel Gould and thanked by Mrs. V. W. Smith.

Mrs. R. A. Fraser presided over the meeting. Mrs. Smith announced the formation of a new investment study group that would meet today.

Mrs. J. W. McCammon introduced new members Mrs. J. H. Baker, Mrs. R. Burg, Miss J. A. Forsyth, Mrs. R. G. Kyle, Miss P. R. Scott, Mrs. G. R. Wright and Mrs. G. Inglis.

Program of Slides

The Naomi Unit of the Esquimalt United Church Women are presenting a program of slides, "South of Two Borders", Friday evening. The colored slides of Mexico will be shown by Sam Marling.

The event begins at 8 p.m. in the Christian Education Building, Lyall Street and Constance Avenue. Refreshments will be served and there will be a stall of home baking.

Murphy-Hearsey Vows Exchanged

WED IN DUNCAN SERVICE

A wedding of interest to many Victorians took place recently in St. John's Anglican Church, Duncan, when Jacqueline Mary Hearsey became the bride of Mr. Wayne Lockhart Murphy of that city.

Rev. G. A. Kerr officiated at the ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hearsey, Duncan, and the son of Mr. W. Murphy, Scotch Village, N.S., and the late Mrs. Phoebe Murphy.

The church was decorated with pink and white carnations for the ceremony. Organist R. Howard played "The Old Rugged Cross," a favorite family hymn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an exquisite floor-length gown. The bodice was styled with a scalloped sabrina neckline and elbow-length sleeves. The slim skirt was accented by a detachable train which extended back from a bridal bow at the waistline. She carried a bouquet of deep pink roses, and her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, "something borrowed" from her sister, Mrs. P. Taylor.

The bride's trio of attendants dressed alike in floor-length gowns of silk peau d'ange in pink tones, styled with re-embroidered flowers encircling the empire bodices. Back interest was floating panels. Headpieces were pink whimsies and they carried bouquets of pink and white carnations and roses.

Mrs. N. Genn was matron of honor and bridesmaids were the bride's nieces, the Misses Mary-Lynn Hearsey and Linda Taylor.

Rex Jones was best man and ushering the guests were Allen Phelps and Ray Wenz.

At the reception following in the Tzouhalem Hotel, a pink and white wedding cake, flanked with the attendants' bouquets, centred the head table. Len Hearsey proposed the toast to his sister, and Art Stephenson played for dancing.

For travelling on honeymoon, the new Mrs. Murphy chose a blue toned suit accented with a white collar and black accessories. Completing her outfit was a mink stole.

The couple will make their home in Duncan.

Guests travelling from Victora for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Milton Skulbrund, Miss Pat Russell and Mr. and Mrs. R. Pomerleau. Other out-of-town guests included Mrs. I. Skelly and Mrs. B. Green of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Inar Aston, Mr. and Mrs. R. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. F. Daly and Mr. and Mrs. R. Barnes of Youbou.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Gan—almost all Chinatown helped celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary. (Robin Clarke.)

Chinatown Turns Out To Fete Local Couple

By HUMPHRY DAVY

There were celebrations in Chinatown Sunday, the like of which few members of the Chinese community has seen before.

But it wasn't to commemorate some ancient saint or some historical event, but to honor one of Chinatown's most respected community leaders and his wife.

The occasion was the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Gan.

Wedding anniversaries are normally family affairs, but Sunday's event took the form of a festival involving practically the whole of the Chinese community.

More than 500 guests sat down simultaneously at three restaurants for an anniversary banquet, where Chinese clubs and societies showered the couple with gifts and scrolls of honor.

Messages of congratulations were also received from Queen Elizabeth, Lieutenant Governor G. R. Pearkes, Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson and Premier W. A. C Bennett.

For Lee Gan the occasion marked the climax of an active life.

The 78-year old businessman has held the presidencies of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association for six years, the Chinese Freemasons for nine years, the King Chow Society for 10 years and the Lee Society for 10 years.

Born in Sun Wai, Kwang Tung, China, in 1888, he came to Canada in 1912 at the age of 24. He married Nee Yuen in 1906.

He started business in Victoria as a fish peddler, later becoming a part owner of Don Mee restaurant, a large piggery and a sawmill.

He has two sons, Kwon Lee and David Lee of Victoria, a daughter Mrs. Jean Chan in China, 13 grandchildren and 7 great-grandchildren.

For Chinatown, he is one of the last few remaining senior citizens of the old school — a follower of the ancient traditions of old China.

BOYD-LITSTER VOWS

Couple Married in City To Live at Prince Rupert

Following a honeymoon trip up-Island, Mr. and Mrs. David Omer Boyd will travel to Prince Rupert, where they will make their home.

The bride, the former Patricia Margaret Litster, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Robert Litster, 4291 Quadra Street, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Omer Boyd of Kamloops.

Rev. E. Laura Butler officiated at the Friday evening ceremony in Metropolitan United Church, which was decorated with gold, yellow and bronze chrysanthemums for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown which she made herself of off-white brocade. A satin sash and bow en tone circled the empire waistline and satin trim accented the lily point sleeves. The floor-length gown was styled on A-lines and the button fasteners were "something old" from Mrs. J. Groves. Her three-tier veil misted softly to elbow-length from a headpiece of satin roses and petals, made by Mrs. L. Woods. Bronze and yellow chrysanthemums were in her cascade bouquet.

Miss Marie Litster was maid of honor for her sister in a floor-length gown of bronze and gold brocade, similar to the bride's. A deep gold satin bow accented the empire waistline. Her satin rose headpiece, edged with net, was made by Mrs. Woods.

The groom's brother, Larry Boyd was best man. Ushering the guests to pews marked with white doilies, net and chrysanthemums, was Rodger Smith.

The bride's mother made the tiered wedding cake which centred the head table at the reception following in Chez Marcel. The floral decorations were from Mrs. R. W. Marsh. Gordon Litster proposed the toast to his niece.

The bride donned an olive green wool walking suit, highlighted with a mink collar, for travelling on honeymoon. Black accessories and a pink rose corsage completed the outfit.

Of Personal Interest

OFF TO OTTAWA

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will leave by plane, Tuesday, for Ottawa, where he will attend the annual dominon council meeting of the Royal Canadian Legion, taking place in the capital city this week. His Honor will return home on Saturday.

Partridges and Pears

Drawing on the carol, "The Twelve Days of Christmas," for inspiration, members of the women's committee to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria have chosen gilded partridges and pear trees as focal points of the decor for the group's annual Poinsettia Ball to be held at the gallery. Individual tables at which guests will be seated for the midnight supper of hot and cold dishes will be centred with poinsettias and a partridge perched on a miniature pear tree. Colorful green and red partridges, sparkling with glitter, will hang from the ceilings. To add to the holiday atmosphere decorated Christmas trees will enhance various corners of the gallery.

Because of the unusual demand for tickets, the ball will be held on two evenings, Friday, Dec. 9, and the following evening. Saturday's tickets are already reserved. On both occasions the guests will don tuxedos and formal gowns and dance to the music of Len Acres' Orchestra. The committee has made arrangements for 210 guests each evening. General convener is Mrs. F. H. Hawkins and in charge of decorations is Mrs. Robert Stark. Tickets for the Friday evening ball may still be obtained by phoning Mrs. Hawkins at 386-1525 or Mrs. C. H. Miller at 382-6781.

Honored at Reception

Mr. Robert Mason was honored at a reception held in the Deal Street home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Corbett on Sunday. Mr. Mason, who has now retired from the Victoria Press Limited after serving 54 years in the press room, was presented with a 50-year pin. He also received a suitcase from the International Printers, Pressmen and Assistants' Union and a cheque from the Victoria Press Social Club. Mrs. Mason was presented with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and heather.

Those invited included Mr. and Mrs. A. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. R. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. D. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. R. Kullman, Mr. and Mrs. M. Uhl, Mr. and Mrs. T. Smithers, Mr. and Mrs. D. Griffiths, Mr. and Mrs. E. Eckdahl, Mr. and Mrs. W. Falconer, Mr. and Mrs. A. Peacock, Mr. and Mrs. A. Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. H. Waldner, Mr. and Mrs. G. Davis, Miss C. Humphreys, Mr. D. McIlldoon, Mr. T. Nute, Mr. A. Blaney, Mr. J. Fuller, Mr. D. Beulah, Mr. R. Westgate and Mr. D. Smith.

Announcement

The engagement is announced between Alexander Gordon Elkins, son of Cmdr. J. H. G. Bovey and Mrs. Bovey, 8243 Alec Road, Saanichton, and Angela Mary, younger daughter of Mrs. J. D. Bolton, Droitwich, Worcestershire, England, and the late Mr. Bolton. The wedding will take place on Saturday, December 10 at 3 p.m. in St. George's Cathedral in Kingston, Ont.

Club Party

Members of Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club and their guests gathered in the clubhouse Saturday for a dance. Light refreshments were served and music was provided by Irving Lozier's orchestra.

Mother Here

Travelling from Kamloops to attend the Friday evening wedding of Miss Patricia Litster and Mr. David Boyd were the groom's mother, Mrs. O. Boyd, and Miss Dixie Boyd. Other out-of-town guests were Miss Silvia Caulien, McBride, B.C.; Mrs. Linda Orom and Mr. Peter Cullen of Prince Rupert; Mrs. P. A. Wickward, Seattle, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. G. Litster of Chemainus; Mr. and Mrs. Guns of Bamfield; Mrs. R. Kathrens, Calgary, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Amas of Saratoga Beach.

Tofino Trip

Spending their honeymoon trip visiting in Tofino are Mr. and Mrs. Trygve Arnet. The couple was married on October 29 in St. Saviour's Church, Victoria. The bride is the former Mrs. Joyce Bartoszcwica, Victoria, and the groom is a member of one of Tofino's pioneer families. Travelling from the up-Island town to attend the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Arnet, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Arnet, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Arnet, Mrs. Harold Sloman, Mrs. Bjarne Arnet and Mr. C. W. Nicholson. The newlyweds will be making their home in Victoria.

Fireside Dinner

Covers were laid for 60 Saturday evening at the Uplands Golf Club for a fireside dinner. Dinner "teed off" at 7 p.m. Poached salmon with oyster sauce, roast turkey and mince pie starred the menu. Informal dancing followed.

Women's Guilds Raise $1,215 for Church Work

ST. ANDREW'S BAZAAR IS JAMMED

Rush hour on Douglas Street would look fairly empty compared to St. Andrew's Kirk Hall, Saturday.

Hundreds of guests crowded the hall, all eager to see and buy despite the threat of rain. No one was disappointed — there were all sorts of wonderful items offered at the annual bazaar of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Women's Guild groups.

Just as soon as Mrs. Daryl Elford introduced Mrs. R. Cherneff, who pronounced the affair officially opened, there was a general stampede to the tea area. No one minded having to queue for tea — a plateful of delicious breads and the indescribably delicious Scottish pancakes was well worth the waiting.

Mrs. P.S. Watt, Mrs. W. White and the Oak Bay Group were in charge of the tea and the church's Canadian Girls in Training acted as serviteurs.

The huge variety of Christmas candles, all hand-made by guild members, proved too irresistible to pass by for many pre-season shoppers. Available in all shapes and sizes (there was even one resembling a Christmas tree), these were sold by Mrs. Walter Laing. She and her committee also sold items of jewelry.

There were articles for "moms" of any age at the knitting booth, convened by Mrs. R. H. Green and the Beacon Hill Group. The tiny outfits for troll dolls and teen-age dolls were just as popular with the younger set as the exquisitely fashioned layette outfits were with the older mothers.

Many a wise housewife snapped up the colorful knitted sweaters, mittens and socks as a safeguard against chilly winter days.

Small Scottish pancakes, which have a delicious flavor distinctively all their own, were a star attraction at the home baking stall, convened by Mrs. J. Howard and the South Fairfield Group. These and another specialty, home-made breads of all types, were quickly bought up until soon there was nothing left of the booth but a tablecloth and a few crumbs.

All sorts of intriguing little items for Christmas were featured at the novelty stall, convened by Mrs. C. Hemstreet and the James Bay Group. Little knitted Santa Claus heads as door-knob covers and attractive organdy trees were just two of the many delightful articles at this booth, which also offered jams, jellies and preserves.

A 'bookworm's' paradise was the stall managed by John Watt and the Young Adults Group. Magazines, paper-backs and hard-bound books were all to be found there, as were garden produce and flowers.

The Boy Scouts and Cubs of the church sold light bulbs, supervised by Mr. J. Jackson, and the CGIT and Mrs. B. K. White were in charge of a booth selling chocolates.

Managing the other stalls were Mrs. O. Jenkinson and Lake Hill Group, aprons; Mrs. E. Berryman and Royal Oak Group, superfluities; Mrs. N. Arnold and Kirk Hall Group, Centennial plates, Christmas cards and novelties.

Convener and president Mrs. J. A. McArthur and Mrs. J. W. L. McLean greeted the guests at the affair, which realized $1,215.

TEEN QUEEN

A 15-year-old Mount Douglas Senior Secondary School student earned herself the crown and title of Teen Queen, Saturday. In a fashion show and contest held in Holyrood House, Terri Scott was judged the best of 11 finalists, competing in the semi-annual contest of The Bay's charm school. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Scott, 1508 Derby Road.

When she graduates, Terri hopes to "do something in the field of psychology because my father is interested in it." Mr. Scott is a commercial fisherman.

The 10 other finalists are Judi Arnold, Brenda Aylward, Kathy Brynjolfsonk Elinor Carefoot, Lee Grierson, Marthanne Hull, Colleen Lunde, Gail Neaves, Solveig Sargent and Janet Sutherland.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Midnight Raiders— A Hint to Snack By

By Penny Saver

Do you have any "nocturnal snack-snitchers" in your house? A nocturnal snack-snitcher is a pest who sneaks downstairs in the middle of the night to raid the refrigerator. You know the type—I'm one of them.

Generally I wake up the whole house while fixing a late snack. I forget to take a light and fall down the stairs, or I trip over the kitchen table. But I've found something to help. It's a candle—with a difference!

Battery-operated, these handy little items, fashioned like little candles, won't turn on until you lift them from the table. Then they give you a light that is bright enough to see your way, without disturbing anyone. Mom will find it a great help looking in on sleeping tots. It's ideal, too, for the youngster who likes to get up for a drink of water. Price is $1.30.

I've discovered several items which bring back a flood of memories about my younger days.

Do you remember the friendly old enameled coffee pot that used to bubble merrily away on Grandma's stove? I certainly do.

Now these come in a hostess set, pots and mugs of enamelled metal. They are perfect for the butterfingers like me because they will not break. These are gaily colored with floral patterns and price of the mugs is 79 cents each. The pot is $1.30.

To complete the set, you can even buy the old-fashioned wide ewer, which would be ideal for those large flower arrangements. This is $1.09.

By the way, if you're already on the lookout for stocking stuffers for hubby or Dad, here's an intriguing item. Made for a games room, these are battery-operated monkeys, about eight or nine inches high. Put a pair of dice into the cup they carry, turn 'em on, and the little charmers shake the cubes and toss them onto the table.

It's a sure way to end "cheating" calls!

This "toy" for the grown-ups is priced at $3.98 and it's a sure party conversation piece.

FOR BRIDE SHERRYNE LEONARD

RING IS 'SOMETHING OLD'

Her great-grandmother's wedding ring fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Sherryne Edna Leonard when she became the bride of Wolfred Daniel Tonman Hartlen, Friday evening.

The ring and a drop pearl pendant were the only jewelry accents to the bride's floor-length gown of white silk crepe. Dainty lace appliques highlighted the gown and a border of lace trimmed the hemline of the sheath skirt. The empire-line bodice was fashioned with a round neckline and lace sleeves ending in lily points. Her tiered veil misted softly from a coronet of pearls and rhinestones and she carried Talisman roses in her cascade bouquet.

Arrangements of chrysanthemums in bronze, gold and white tones decorated Belmont United Church when Rev. Murray Henderson heard marriage vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Leonard, 4491 Majestic Drive, and the son of Mrs. Wolfred G. Hartlen, 1866 Oak Bay Avenue, and the late Mr. Hartlen.

Dina Noble sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony, and "You'll Never Walk Alone" and "True Love" as the couple signed the register. Mrs. E. Twigley was organist.

The bride's trio of attendants wore matching empire-line gowns of gold peau de soie, topped with toning jackets. Their headpieces were self-fabric bandeaux and they carried colonial bouquets of bronze, gold and white chrysanthemums. Maid of honor was Miss Phillippa DeCou and bridesmaids were the Misses Gail Boothroyd and Barbara Hearle. Best man was Hugh Parry and ushering the guests were Gary Ralph and Robert Lenaghan.

The bronze, gold and white color theme of the wedding was continued in the floral arrangements at the reception following in the Executive House banquet room. The head table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, topped with miniature figures of a bride and groom. William Boothroyd proposed the toast to the bride.

The new Mrs. Hartlen donned a two-piece camel-hair suit for travelling on honeymoon. She chose alligator and burnt-orange accessories and a corsage of burnt-orange chrysanthemums to complement the ensemble.

The newlyweds will make their home in Toronto.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Feed Kicking Husband Hay

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

ABBY: Last week a friend and his wife came over to visit us. My husband was discussing sports with the man, and I was helping the wife with some stitches she was having difficulty crocheting. Out of the wide blue sky my husband got up out of his chair, walked over to where I was sitting, and kicked me! I was so shocked my dentures nearly fell out. I was too stunned to say anything, and of course, our guests didn't know what to say or think, so they pretended they didn't see anything. Later on, when our guests left, I asked my husband what his idea was in kicking me. He said, "You were sitting badly, your dress was hiked up over your knees." For crying out loud, is this any way for a husband to act when there are guests around?

KICKED IN K.C.

DEAR KICKED: Certainly not. Nor is it any way for a husband to behave when there are NO guest around. He needs to be taught a lesson. Serve him hay. It's a fitting diet for the kind of animal who doesn't speak—but kicks.

DEAR ABBY: Someone signed WORRIED wrote expressing concern because her birth certificate carried her mother's maiden name. She assumed that her mother had had her before she was married.

Abby, in most provinces (and perhaps in all of them, for all I know) this is the way all birth certificates are made out. Only the mother's MAIDEN name appears on the child's birth certificate. Never her married name. A very humane practice if you ask me.

M. D. A.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday mom had 50 cents on her dresser, and this morning it was gone. We have a large family and no one will own up, so my father has placed all us kids on restriction until the guilty party confesses. We can't use the phone, radio or TV, and we've lost all our privileges for a whole month. I considered saying I took the 50 cents to get the other innocent ones off restriction, but that would include the guilty one, too, so maybe that's silly. I think I know who took the money, and I think my parents know, too, but they are waiting for her to own up to it. Do you think this is fair? What should I do?

UNHAPPY

DEAR UNHAPPY: If your parents know who the guilty party is, but are punishing all of you, they are being very unjust. Don't claim guilt you don't deserve. You innocent ones should go to your parents and declare your innocence once more. By this time the guilty party should 'fess up. Good luck.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "GINNY": If you are wise, that "certain something" you'll look for in a prospective husband will be "something certain."

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Postscripts from a Petticoat Lawyer" will be the topic of Mrs. Foster Isherwood, barrister and solicitor, when she speaks to the Women's Canadian Club, Wednesday in the Empress Hotel.

Mrs. Isherwood, a graduate of the University of British Columbia, is in private practice with her husband in Victoria.

The meeting begins at 2:30 p.m.

AFTER-GAME PARTY PLEASERS

Score With These Pizza Treats

Win, lose, or tie, no matter the score, football games — or any sport — always call for post-game food feasts. Of course, a victory celebration adds to the fun of the occasion, but even if your team does not parade off the field victorious, good food will brighten the spirits.

For the next post-game party, or any festive occasion, serve a highly simplified version of the tremendously popular pizza — Pigskin Pizza Pups. These can be prepared ahead of time, refrigerated and ready to go into the oven. In fact, only eight minutes' oven time at 400 degrees F. is all that is required. Go alongs are Egg Halfbacks, really devilled eggs and olives fashioned in the spirit of the occasion. In the spirit of the occasion, too, are the edible goal posts, celery and carrot sticks. For the beverage, pick the most popular one of all, hot chocolate — this time with chocolate footballs afloat.

No one is the loser when an after-the-game or after the party features heartwarming foods. For the next crowd of sport enthusiasts, plan to serve Pigskin Pizza Pups, Egg Halfbacks, and edible goal posts — celery and carrot sticks. This food, along with cups of hot chocolate, will brighten the spirits of even the most disconsolate team booster.

PIGSKIN PIZZA PUPS

One-quarter teaspoon minced dried garlic, 1 (2½ oz.) can mushroom pieces or slices, drained, 1 (8 oz.) can pizza sauce, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley flakes, ¼ teaspoon crushed oregano, 8 weiners, 4 sliced weiner buns, 8 (1 oz.) oblong slices Mozzarella cheese.

Combine garlic, drained mushrooms, pizza sauce, parsley and oregano. Place bun halves on a shallow baking pan with cut sides up. Cut weiners in half, lengthwise, placing the flat cut surface down onto each bun. Place 3 tablespoons sauce over each weiner. Cut cheese slices in half, lengthwise. Place a strip of cheese over sauce. To serve: Heat in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 8 minutes, or until cheese is soft.

Yield: 8 Pigskin Pizza Pups.

EGG HALFBACKS

Eight hard-cooked eggs, ½ teaspoon salt, 1¼ teaspoon dry mustard, ⅛ teaspoon cayenne, 3 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing, 4 teaspoons vinegar, 8 olives, green and black.

Carefully remove shells from eggs. Slice off enough from one end of each egg to make a flat base for it to stand on. Slice off top third of eggs and carefully remove yolks, leaving the whites whole. Mash yolks with a fork; blend in salt, mustard, cayenne, mayonnaise and vinegar. Fill egg whites with yolk mixture, mounding it up on top of each egg. Outline a football helmet on each olive by forcing some of remaining yolk mixture through a pastry tube. Insert a toothpick in the bottom of each olive and place one on top of each egg.

Yield: 8 Egg Halfbacks.

The Golden Door is open!

Not a beauty salon . . . more than a "charm school" . . . The Golden Door can open up an exciting new world for every woman . . . a world of beauty and grace; of charm and confidence; of new interests and opportunities.

Dee Eisele, director of The Golden Door, is convinced there are no homely women . . . only women who have not yet learned how to make the most of their good points. She believes that every woman can be . . . should be beautiful in her own distinctive way. With this in mind, Dee has programed a series of courses in visual poise, wardrobe styling, make-up and hair care, figure co-ordination, voice modulation and drama, ballet and fencing . . . intensely interesting courses designed to help every woman develop into into a more attractive, self-assured, well-groomed and charming individual.

The Golden Door is open . . . and, for you, a world of new beauty lies beyond the threshold.

Dee Eisele is uniquely qualified to hold the keys to The Golden Door. A professional model, she has taught and counselled at the Patricia Stevens School of Modelling and Self-Improvement in Chicago, later becoming manager of the branch in San Francisco. Her career as a high fashion model includes modelling for Saks Fifth Avenue, Bonwit Teller, Hattie Carnegie in New York; Jacques Fath in Paris; Lanz of Austria in Vienna.

8 CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all those people who were ever so kind to me during the serious illness of my late husband Henry (Harry) Richardson. To the doctors and nurses of 4th floor West of Royal Jubilee Hospital and Mount St. Mary's, where he got such wonderful care. Also to the anonymous donor to the Cancer Fund, whose name I do not have, a great big thank you.—Mrs. Doris Richardson.

The family of the late Mrs. Bessie Spencer wish to thank all friends for their kind messages of sympathy.

9 IN MEMORIAM

MAGGS — I loving memory of my dear husband, George O. Maggs, who passed away November 21st, 1964.

Oh happy hours we once enjoyed
How sweet their memory still
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—From his loving wife, Olive.

ENKE—On November 21, 1961, Marion, wife of Max Enke, mother of Ruth and Stephen.

21 MALE HELP WANTED

INFORMATION AND RELOCATION OFFICER
Urban Renewal Scheme
CITY OF VICTORIA

Salary: $9,276 per annum.

The City of Victoria, in collaboration with the Federal and Provincial Governments, is about to undertake an Urban Renewal Scheme which will require the acquisition of approximately 160 houses on 30 acres of land.

Applications are invited for the position of Information and Relocation Officer, who will be responsible to the Municipal Manager. The position will be temporary with an estimated term of employment of eighteen months.

The Information and Relocation Officer's office will be located within the urban land scheme, and the Officer will be required to give advice at times convenient to the residents within the project area, which will include evening and Saturday work. The duties of the Information and Relocation Officer will include:

1. Advice to persons living in the area and who will be affected by the plan.
2. Assistance in relocation of residences.
3. Assistance to property owners with their negotiations for the sale of their properties to the city.

Qualifications: Familiarity with property acquisition procedures and preferably with the requirements of the Renewal Provisions of Parts III and VI of the National Housing Act. Experience in meeting members of the public and establishing effective personal contact. Familiarity with Local Government procedures would be an advantage.

Applications, in writing, stating age, experience, qualifications, telephone number and earliest date services available, will be received by the Personnel Director, City Hall, Centennial Square, Victoria, B.C., as soon as possible.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Fred Karpin's new book, "Psychological Strategy in Bridge," includes examples of strategic bids made in the early days of contract.

Today's hand is from the Culbertson's-Lenz match and illustrates a bid invented by Oswald Jacoby in 1931 and used successfully in that match. This particular bid known as the preemptive jump overcall is standard expert practice today. In 1931 Jacoby was about the only person who used it, although other experts followed along shortly thereafter. We still recommend the bid but not with quite so weak a hand as Jacoby held then.

Opening lead—♠ 6

The purpose of the preemptive weak jump overcall is to deprive your opponents of bidding space. It also is likely to excite them and cause them to misbid. The danger of the bid comes from being doubled and in which case your opponents could have made had they played the hand.

The two heart bid excited Mrs. Culbertson sitting North. She jumped to three spades. Ely Culbertson, South, bid four diamonds. From then on the bidding continued to six diamonds. Ely's four and five no-trump bids were normal. This match was played before anyone had invented an artificial four no-trump convention.

Mrs. Culbertson might well have stopped at five notrump but she knew Ely had a good hand and could not visualize that most of his strength was in hearts.

The slam would have made except for the fact that Jacoby came up with the lead of the six of spades. He hoped to discourage a spade finesse but it turned out that Lenz held the ace. Lenz returned a spade for the setting trick. With any other suit led Culbertson would have made all the tricks.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

BITS 'N' PIECES: ABC-TV, which could never really be taken seriously in the news field when such as NBC-TV and CBS-TV devoted so much time to it, plans to change all this by expanding its daily evening newscasts from 15 minutes to half an hour Jan. 9. To give them a little more meat, Howard K. Smith will present regular commentary much like Eric Sevareid does now for CBS-TV.

Stephen

The great classical guitarist Andres Segovia may appear as a major participant in a "Telephone Hour" concerning Spanish culture. It would be aired in the spring . . . Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, the fully-animated musical Christmas story of the shiny-beaked buck, will be presented for the third consecutive year as a color special on NBC-TV Dec. 4.

★ ★ ★

"Run, Buddy, Run" has become the only new season series cancelled twice. CBS-TV had given the hilarious comedy a hope for life when it rose in the last ratings. But the network finally made up its mind and guillotined it for good last week. It's too bad because the show was one of the brighter comedy specials of the season.

There should be some recognition for Bruce Gordon, who played the syndicate leader Mr. D. in the series. Though he was supposed to be a menacing figure in a sophisticated underworld setup, his interpretation of the role gave it the levity required to make "Buddy" a good series even though CBS-TV couldn't see it.

★ ★ ★

Andy Williams will host the Golden Globe Awards on NBC-TV next February. The awards are presented annually by the Hollywood Foreign Press Association for excellence in the fields of motion pictures and television . . . Joe Friday will be demoted when the new "Dragnet" series hits on NBC Jan. 5. Star Jack Webb had Friday promoted to lieutenant when the series went off the air in 1959.

According to Webb, Friday will become a sergeant again because they "are the guys who do the questioning and the leg work and that's what I want Friday to be doing, so there goes his promotion" . . . CTV has a driving safety special up its sleeve for showing Dec. 15 just days before the Christmas and New Year festivities.

For the special, ten of Canada's top racing and rally drivers will be put through a series of driving tests designed to examine their general driving ability, vision, reaction, depth of perception and judgment. Their blood alcohol content will be gradually raised to .08 per cent to show their gradual impaired ability as a warning to viewers across the country.

"EXCELLENT VLA"

Sheltered by sentinal evergreens, the long low modern home seems almost to have grown from the deep rich soil. Here you give the wide open freedom of the country (keep a horse on the 1.99 acres if you like) combined with the advantages of residential zoning. In this cosy living room an almost wall-to wall window lets you enjoy the changing seasons in snug comfort. The big electric kitchen (plumbed and wired) has spacious dining area designed to catch the winter sunshine. Three bedrooms and 4-pce bath complete a home thats just right for gracious, carefree living. Full price $19,500. BEV McARTHUR, EV 5-6741 anytime.

"SO BEAUTIFUL"

Winter or summer, the architectual purity of this gracious modern home in its choice setting commands admiration; but inside its breathtaking! Wide windows create lighting magic to enhance softly toned walls and gleaming hardwood floors! The spacious living room with open fireplace invites festive gatherings and the big recreation room with lighted bar seconds the motion. The kitchen is just right for "festive fixens" and THREE wonderful bedrooms (with a FOURTH ready to go) make this the ideal home for the family that loves fine things. Beautifully landscaped. Blenkinsop-Cedar Hill. Full price $18,750. BEV. McARTHUR, EV 5-6741 anytime.

"VLA — ALERT!"

Beyond a shadow of a doubt, this is the most beautiful, de luxe 2 bedroom modern bungalow ever to crown a CLOSE-IN .64 acre of deep arable soil! Just two years ago the finest of everything went into this dream home, including luxurious wall-to-wall carpet, 4 pce. vanity bath and sunshine clean automatic heat. The "L" shaped living room (the dining area is large and semi separate) enjoys an unusual view and the beautiful kitchen has a delightful nook area. But the best is yet to come! The price includes, electric range, refrigerator, washer and dryer — all in perfect condition! This is a MUST SEE! Full price $17,500. BEV. McARTHUR at 385-6741 anytime.

"BANANA BELT"

Even the trees burst into bloom a little earlier in lovely FAIRFIELD and his unusual family home enjoys excellent location. There is a feeling of luxurious warmth in the deep pile carpet of the entrance hall and easy stairs to the upper floor with its' 3 bedrooms and bath. The cosy living room features a white wood burning fireplace flanked by cabinets and the spacious kitchen is electric. The sparkling full basement seems almost like a 'lower main' with its gleaming walls, EXTRA BEDROOMS, fully enclosed furnace and extra plumbing. A real steal at $15,500 on easy terms. BEV. McARTHUR, at EV 5-6741 anytime.

"SNUG AND COSY"

Every room in this immaculate bungalow has individuality and charm, even the 4-pce. bath with its' pretty vanity and unique shutters. In the living room its' wall to wall bookcases, in the 2 bedrooms, wall-to-wall carpet, in the electric kitchen a many-windowed nook and in the furnace room a horizontal oilomatic for perimeter heating. See it, it's a honey! Full price $9,875. BEV. McARTHUR EV 5-6741 anytime.

UNIVERSITY AREA

Snuggled in a choice east-side setting in a prime residential area, this charming home has EYE APPEAL, HEART APPEAL and PRICE APPEAL. Like new, this three bedroom, TWO BATHROOM, semi-colonial has a bright sunny kitchen with built-in hood and fan; built-in dish washer says good-bye to dish pan hands; generous counter space and cabinets and an easy-care floor combine to make this a mother's delight. Well-located dining room is perfect for holiday gatherings and it does open onto a covered sun deck. Spacious living room with fireplace is friendly and cozy. Gleaming parquet floors throughout occasionally need a wisk of a dust mop. Full high basement is ideal for a cold weather play yard. Think carefully, but fast. Just $4,000 down is all you need: and it is much more than you expect for $22,500.

OAK TREES

If you're wondering if this home is up in that nice area high above Cook St., on one of those winding quiet streets where all the trees are, and the view is lovely, you're RIGHT! This white (painted last year) Cape Cod will steal your heart. Built in 1950 and kept in excellent repair. Enter thru the Dutch door to a cozy living room with wall to wall, fireplace and view windows. The dining room is off the living area and adjacent to a compact kitchen. A short hall has 4-pce bath off, and leads to 2 good bedrooms. The upstairs has been developed and contains one finished bedroom plus one extra small one partly completed. Garage and workshop are attached and the heating is OOM package unit. The lot is large, and has numerous trees, shrubs and flowers. This is a clear title home, the owner wants to travel therefore a substantial down payment is required to financing to be arranged. The price is $17,950, and I'll give you a drive-by, but you'll have trouble restraining yourself from getting out and having a look. Don't wait.

LANGFORD

Fifteen houses in this area, presently occupied by tenants, now being offered for sale. These are nearly all three-bedroom houses. Several are only a year or two old. None have basements, but most have Oil-o-Matic heating, plumbing for automatic washers and wiring for electric range and dryer, paved driveways, carports.
Taxes are low! (In most cases only $25-$60 a year to the owner.) Best of all, only $1,000 down and the balance like rent. No mortgages to raise or commissions to pay. All financing arranged for you. Only one payment to make. These are certainly not mansions, but good comfortable family homes, particularly suited to a young family starting out. Most prices range from $10,400-$12,400. Some older houses are even less.
We will be happy to arrange to show you these houses by appointment.
If you wish to drive past them first we will mail you a list showing the addresses and prices. (Please do not disturb the tenants.) Simply call 478-4446 or 478-4116 and leave your name and address. No one will call on you unless requested.

Rites Held For Pioneer Arctic Hand

Funeral services were held in Victoria Friday for an Arctic explorer and fur trader whose name has been given a lake in the Northwest Territories.

Gustine D. De Staffany of 3322 Rolston Crescent died Wednesday in St. Joseph's Hospital after a short illness.

The 73-year-old pioneer requested his ashes be scattered somewhere over the barren Western Arctic he knew and loved so well.

Many mineral finds were recorded in his name during the years he spent exploring and claim-staking in the Territories.

He founded De Staffany Tantalum Mines Ltd. on Great Slave Lake and also helped to found the Seattle Fur Exchange.

One of his most harrowing experiences occurred two years ago on a claim-staking trip when he had the plane that was to fly him out of the bush go instead to an Eskimo village 100 miles away and fly a seriously ill child to hospital in Edmonton

STRANDED MONTH

The weather closed in and Mr. De Staffany was stranded for a month in January blizzards facing temperatures of 60 degrees below with scanty food and equipment.

In recognition of his pioneer exploration a lake in the Northwest Territories now bears his name.

Funeral services were conducted at McCall Bros. Friday by Rev. Brian Cowan.

Mr. De Staffany is survived by the widow, Miriam; three daughters, Tanta at home, Eleanor in Honolulu and Mrs. Romona Jones of Washington; three brothers, James and Iren of Montana and Lyman of Washington; and two sisters, Florence De Staffany and Mrs. Katherine Barnhill of Washington.

One Fingerprint Leads to Arrest Of Store Burglar

A single fingerprint has led to the conviction of an Edmonton youth who broke into a downtown ladies' clothing store two weeks ago.

John David Edwards, 20, pleaded guilty in central court today to the break-in and had his case remanded to Nov. 29 for sentence.

Detective Angus Stewart said Edwards admitted to taking 36 cardigan sweaters, 15 pullover sweaters, 64 scarves and a wig after smashing a rear window at the Piccadilly Shoppe, 1017 Government.

He hid the goods, worth $991, in an abandoned elevator shaft at his nearby hotel where police found them, court was told.

Man Fined $75 For Smashing Car Windshield

A man who tore a picket from a fence Sunday and then used it to smash a car windshield was fined a total of $75 in central court today.

Gordon Morrell, 22, of Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, pleaded guilty to public mischief which caused over $50 damage and to wilful damage under $50.

He said today he could not account for his actions in damaging the fence and car of a Balmoral Road resident who was a stranger to him. But he admitted he had been drinking at a party before the incident.

He was fined $50 on the first charge, $25 on the second and ordered to pay for the $134 damage to the car.

TO SPEED PAT BAY WORK

Slow-Motion Parades Urged by Tisdalle

A series of slow-motion parades to tie up traffic on the Patricia Bay Highway would soon force Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi to build a four-lane highway.

Saanich MLA John Tisdalle, Social Credit, says that Greater Victoria municipalities, having failed to spark action via normal channels, must now take drastic action if they are to get the type of highway they want.

In a letter to the Mayor of Victoria Mr. Tisdalle states that he is tired of the "painfully slow progress" being made on the highway from Swartz Bay to the city.

"I am in full agreement with you that a four-lane highway is a must now," he wrote." At present that highway looks like it was built from the left-overs of the beautiful four-laners in the interior.

"Something must be done about this setback in progress.

"Maybe we could best emphasize the matter by organizing slow-motion parades that would tie up traffic. Simple requests in writing and in editorials have failed. Something drastic must be done."

In the sharply-critical letter on his government's policy Mr. Tisdalle comments scathingly on the Social Credit decision to stop work on the provincial museum and archives.

"No wonder we have stopped building the museum," the letter states. "This (the Pat Bay Highway) already looks like one."

In pledging his support for further municipal demands for action on the highway, Mr. Tisdalle is also critical of the inability of the municipalities to agree on the route the highway should take.

"Some of the delays and frustrations have been because of the area disagreement as to location," he said.

He also noted that the "rather go slow haste of the traffic survey, which I believe has still not received solid approval from all effected councils . . . gives the minister the opportunity to play a game of 'tick-tack-toe' where should it go."

Mr. Tisdalle states in his letter that for several years he has conducted a running battle with the premier and the minister of highways trying to convince them that the Pat Bay Highway was an urgent need.

Following sustained pressure "the premier and the minister agreed to spend $4 million in a year on the program. The start was made in 1965. After a few miles of painfully slow construction it came to a dismal end this year with less than a quarter of the money spent."

Mr. Tisdalle's letter to the mayor was written in answer to a protest in October by the late Mayor A. W. Toone who urged Mr. Gaglardi to review his decision to temporarily halt work on the highway program.

Mr. Gaglardi made his slowdown announcement after Premier Bennett appealed for a policy of restraint in all spending.

Since then Mr. Gaglardi has indicated that work on the highway may continue — but on an annual budget basis.

HOME GARDEN

Berries Tangle At Fence

By JACK BEASTALL

For those home gardeners who would like to add a few berries to the fruit garden this fall, here are some notes gathered from experience.

Jack

Berries, whether cane or bramble, undoubtedly produce better fruit and are more easily handled when planted well away from fences and buildings.

Planted along a back fence or in a corner by a shed or garage, they soon become the wildest of tangles.

When the same plants are grown along each side of the main garden path, or as dividers between the flower and vegetable section, something compels us to keep them neat and orderly both for appearance and for convenience when working nearby.

More to the point is the case with which this can be done because we have free access to both sides of the plants and we can keep extending roots and tiplayers under control as we cultivate the adjacent soil.

All the berry crops require quantities of water when the fruits are swelling, something they never seem to receive when located at the outer edge of the property.

TOO MANY PLANTS

Most of us start with too many plants and therefore plant them too closely.

Berries thrive well under good culture, making strong, vigorous growth and bearing prodigious crops so that a few plants well grown will produce more fruits and better fruits than many plants crowded and poorly grown.

Logans, boysens, youngs and any of the hybrid brambles should be set 10 feet apart. Blackberries need 15 feet. Raspberries and related cane fruits should not be closer than three feet while some require five feet.

IT'S GOOF PROOF

'Instant Party' Just the Thing To Liven Holiday

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Tom Butler is front man for a well-known public relations firm in Vancouver.

Which means that when his agency has something new to offer he gets the call to help put it across.

Naturally, one of the first things he does is gather in the various news media and give them what he terms "a break."

This "break" can take any form that Tom, his firm and their clients happen to dream up.

For instance, a year-and-a-half ago it was a trip to the Peace River Dam to introduce a modern coach service being inaugurated for the 1965 holiday season.

Last sping it was a tour of northern British Columbia to mark the start of the Kelsy Bay-Prince Rupert ferry run.

You can imagine then that if Mr. Butler telephones from Vancouver and suggests you drop in at the Empress Hotel on a certain day at a certain hour, you know something's up and that very likely another "break" is coming.

* * *

This time it has nothing to do with new coaches or ferries. It was the unveiling of a much smaller bundle, cram full of personality and dynamite.

Ready-to-serve "goof proof" cocktails, not less. All done up in "revolutionary" packages that hold four different varieties in columnar champagne-green glass bottles (to protect the ingrendients from strong sunlight) topped off with attractive white plastic caps.

That funny sounding phrase "goof proof" isn't a gimmick, the producers say. It means security in absolute quality of produce, consistency (the same measure, the same cocktail every time) and convenience (just measure, stir, or shake vigorously with ice to cool, pour and sip.)

Samplings were offered along with canapes and hors d'ouevres. And immediately we had the over-all picture of how easy it would be, with these pre-mixes, to produce an "instant" party during the crowded hours of the December holiday season.

While we sipped and sampled someone suggested that cocktails are traditionally American. And this started a good-natured argument.

The idea came from Bordeaux, France, said one of our hosts, where a mixed drink that was popular at the beginning of the 19th century was called coquetel.

* * *

Another said that cocktails were served in early colonial days, in a tavern on the Hudson River outside New York. Still another was sure cocktails gained wide recognition only after the Civil War in the United States ended, just about 100 years ago.

Tom Butler wanted to wager that history would show a great forward stride was made in Canada in this year of 1966 when all the fuss and bother was taken out of serving drinks with the new line he was unveiling.

Then, to please his feminine guests, he explained "the makings" of the quick and easy canapes and hors d'ouevres we were eating.

Modern as today is the way he described them. And, dash it all, he was right!

So, in case you wish to try an "instant" party with these pre-mixed drinks (you'll find them at the provincial government "specialty" store) I think you should also have the "nibblings" that go with them.

* * *

The fish-ka-bob: On long cocktail picks, string shrimp, pieces of ripe olive, cocktail onions, smoked baby oysters, tiny wedges of lemon or pickles (you can use your imagination here). To serve, stud a grapefruit with the fish-ka-bobs and place as the centre of the canape tray or beside potato chips and a favorite dip.

The flying saucer: Spread round crackers with mustard butter and add a slice of flavorful smoked sausage or cheese from a round snack package. Top the meat canapes with a cocktail onion and a stuffed olive, speared with a fancy cocktail pick, and top the cheese canapes with a ripe olive and a small shrimp. Then put the flying saucers into orbit on a large sandwich tray.

Note — to make mustard butter, cream two tablespoons of butter with two teaspoons of prepared mustard. Chill thoroughly before using.

Long-Term Gov't Worker Dies at 84

Herbert Webster, a former secretary of the Union Club and long-term employee of the B.C. Public Works Department, died in a private hospital Thursday night at the age of 84.

Born in England, Mr. Webster came to Victoria in 1916 and worked for the Public Works Department until his retirement in 1945. He was secretary of the Union Club for several years after that.

During the First World War, Mr. Webster served overseas with the 40th Gordon Highlanders.

He is survived by the widow, Rachelle, at 1670 Fort Street, and a sister Mrs. Emma Hemingway in Yorkshire, England.

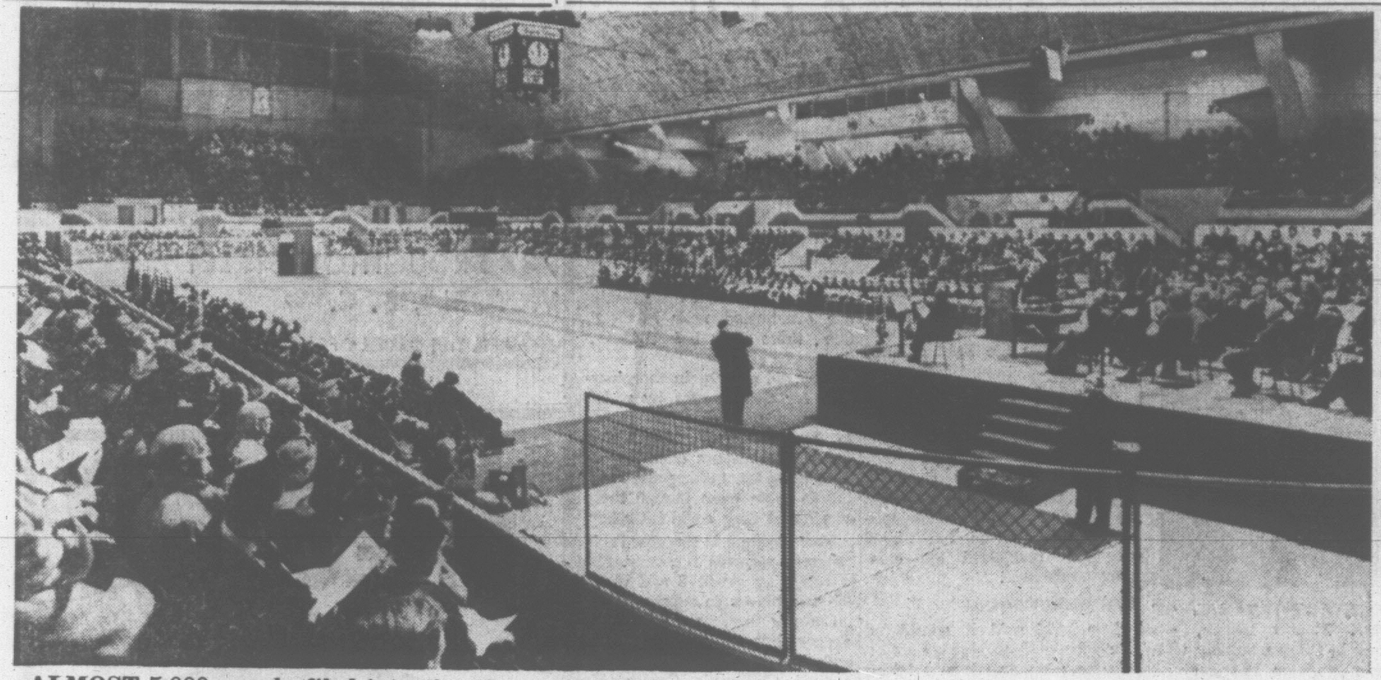
MONTREAL (CP)—Resumed talks between Air Canada and the International Association of Machinists, aimed at settling a strike that grounded the airline a week ago, broke up shortly before noon today to give both sides a chance to re-examine their positions.

Ease Up Curbs on Economy Ottawa Advised by Experts



ALMOST 5,000 people filed into the Memorial Arena Sunday night for an interdenominational service marking the 100th anniversary of the joining of Vancouver Island with the mainland. With representation from all major segments of the community, Lt.-Governor Georges Pearkes and the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Robert Bellinger, shared the honors in the celebration climax organized by the Greater Victoria Centennial Society. Dock Strike Injunction Verdict Held

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice Kirke Smith today reserved judgment until later today on an application by the B.C. Maritime Employees' Association to halt picketing of British Columbia ports by striking longshore foremen.

The foremen set up picket lines Thursday, demanding certification of their local 514 of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union as a bargaining unit.

Longshoremen refused to cross the picket lines and work was halted on the waterfront in ports from Vancouver to Prince Rupert.

The employers claim the foremen are considered supervisory personnel and should not be members of the union.

Mr. Justice Smith heard submissions from the employers and the striking foremen in a 90-minute session today.

BEHIND STRIKE

The employers charted the ILWU with being behind the strike in a move to get the foremen recognized officially as members.

The foremen maintained they are not represented by any union at present and have the right to withdraw their services if they see fit.

A spokesman for the employers said Sunday plans to seek an ex-parte injuncion were dropped, so that both sides might be represented.

Pickets appeared again at Ogden Point this morning and the docks continued idle.

Longshoremen refused to cross the picket lines established by foremen.

Two ships sat silently at the dockside — the Chapel River and Jagona. They are waiting to load lumber.

Victoria business agent Stan Ball said the union here is continuing to dispatch men for work in conformity with the current contract .

However, the contract provides that the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association "does not expect members of the union to pass a picket line."

(See Stories Page 3)

OTTAWA (CP)—The economy is falling slightly short of its main goals of continuous growth, rising employment and stable prices and the time is near for some easing of the restraints on investment, the Economic Council of Canada said today.

In its third annual review, the advisory body urged greater encouragement for production and productivity and said the federal government must give the lead in smoothing out swings in the important construction industry.

The council said it doubts that an incomes policy or prices and wages guidelines would work in Canada, except for a short period of time and in unusual circumstances. Canada, faced more competition than most countries in both the goods it sells abroad and what it imports.

"The Canadian economy appears to have been in a rather delicately balanced position by mid-1966 in relation to its medium- and longer-term goals and potentialities," the council said.

"In fact, the case might be made that the economy appears to have been moving, or at least threatening to move, slightly away from all of its basic economic and social goals at the same time."

The goals, set by the council in its first annual review of the economy in January, 1965, are full employment, a high rate of economic growth, reasonable stability of prices, a viable balance of international payments and an equitable distribution of rising incomes across Canada.

Unemployment Up Slightly

But the council now finds:

—Unemployment has risen slightly.

—Productivity growth has slowed.

—Demand for goods and services was sharply checked in April, May and June this year.

—Prices and costs have increased rapidly in several categories.

—There is cocncern about maintaining strength in the balance of payments.

"We have concluded that while it is by no means inconceivable that the economy could move slightly farther away from several of its goals in the near-term future, the underlying situation — both internationally and domestically—still displays indications of sufficient basic strength and balance to make it unlikely that the country faces the danger of a prolonged or major departure from the goals," said the 110,000-word report.

The council was set up by the government, with a board composed of management, labor and consumer representatives and academic economists under J. J. Deutsch as chairman, to report periodically on medium- and long-term trends and goals for the economy.

It said, in brief, that the economy this year needs some dampening down but "it is important not to resort to short-term measures which would be inappropriate for the achievement of longer-term goals."

It noted that tighter credit restrictions and cutbacks in government spending have moderated pressures towards over-expansion, but said there was a long time-lag in these policies becoming really effective.

'Timely Easing of Restraints'

"Special care must be exercised to give consideration to a timely easing of the fiscal restraints on investment—again having regard to the long lags likely to be involved between any such actions and their probable effects on investment outlays."

The council said that in addition to having to compete in the export market and to having much of its domestic economy

Italy Fails to Get Support From Canada

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Italy, with the backing of five other countries, formally presented a motion today for a committee study of the United Nations' Chinese membership issue, a motion for which it tried and failed to get Canadian support.

Reporters were quick to ask "how about Canada?" when Ambassador Piero Vinci showed them the motion at a press conference and gave the names of six co-sponsoring countries. The names did not include Canada.

"I am not entitled to reply for Canada," Vinci said. "But I want to emphasize that the Canadian government has co-operated very closely with us and we are grateful for the work they have done in helping us to reach this stage."

Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile and Trinidad and Tobago co-sponsored the resolution with Italy.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg told the assembly that the United States can vote for the proposal because it "precludes nothing and doesn't suggest the expulsion of the Nationalist Chinese."

The resolution asks the proposed committee to recommend a solution "taking into account the existing situation and the political realities of the area "

ASKS ASSISTANCE

It calls for the committee to explore and study the situation in all its aspects and recommend "an equitable and practical solution" to the 1967 assembly session. It appeals "to all governments concerned to give assistance to the committee in its search for such a solution."

Vinci said its object is to "break the deadlock" on the issue. He criticized a pending resolution to replace Nationalist China with Communist

Wilson 'Ready' To Order Break With Rhodesia

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson is reported ready today to order a complete break with the Ian Smith regime and to call for mandatory United Nations sanctions against Rhodesia.

But first he wants to consult with Commonwealth leaders through diplomatic channels to pave the way for full support on selective sanctions, informants said.

Wilson is understood likely to make his announcement on Rhodesia this week, ignoring Smith's appeals for a man-to-man talk. Wilson's aides consider this just another Smith tactic to win recognition for his illegal regime.

An indication that the British leader is ready to reach a decisive position on the crisis came during the weekend when Judith Hart, junior Commonwealth minister, cancelled a scheduled trip to Kenya because of the Rhodesian issue.

Wilson likely will hold a cabinet meeting Tuesday. One newspaper suggested his announcement will come Thursday.

REPORTED CAUTIOUS

There are reports Wilson plans to move with some caution, feeling he does not carry the country with him on Rhodesia where the minority white regime speaks with a British accent. However, he has pledged to Commonwealth leaders that he will ask for mandatory sanctions before the end of the year if his negotiations fail.

There is no indication that amid all the prolonged negotiations Smith has budged an inch from his determination to keep the country's control out of the hands of the majority 4,000,000 Negroes.

But Britain has big trade with South Africa which has repeatedly warned it will not abide any trade curbs against its friend, Rhodesia. It is therefore a question whether selective UN sanctions would be any more damaging to Rhodesia than the voluntary sanctions which Wilson once hoped would be sufficient to bring down the rebellious government.

Wilson favors caution in the exercise of UN action. He may ask initially only for a complete embargo against such Rhodesian exports as chrome, asbestos and tobacco. The Rhodesian economy also depends on oil imports and Wilson may seek to delay UN sanctions on this product until a later stage.

This delaying action could heighten black African suspicions that Wilson is only paying lip-service to the idea of eliminating the Smith regime. Zambia has already accused Britain of a sell-out to the Rhodesian whites.

'Province to Suffer' If Big Hitter Fans

Premier Bennett today warned the Cariboo voters that both they and the whole province would suffer if they defeat Attorney-General Robert Bonner next week.

"Without Bonner, I don't think our government could do as much for the Cariboo—or the province," he told a press conference this morning.

The premier, back in his office after a week's holiday under the Palm Springs sun, looked his platform-stumping best and said he intends to drive to the Cariboo Tuesday to campaign vigorously for Mr. Bonner.

The premier said he will carry his message that the attorney-general is a "key man on our team" to audiences in Quesnel Wednesday night and in Williams Lake Thursday as the Nov. 28 byelection campaign hits the home stretch.

He said his government would not crumble if Mr. Bonner was defeated but "there would be a void.

"Can you make as many runs if you haven't got your homerun hitter on the term?

"Not only would I suffer, as premier, without him but the government would suffer and the Cariboo would and so would the province."

He said there were many people in the Cariboo under the misapprehension that whoever they elect to the legislature will help shape government policy.

CAR CUTBACKS HIT WALL ST.

NEW YORK (AP) — Cutbacks in production by General Motors announced on the weekend forced prices down sharply on Wall Street today.

The Dow Jones index of blue chip industrials was off 11.24 points to 798.16 in brisk trading. (See story Page 10.)

Ultra-Nationalists Win Major Gains

BONN (AP) — Sensational gains by West Germany's new ultra-nationalist party in Sunday's Bavarian state elections increased the chances of a "grand coalition" of the Christian Democrats and Socialists to form a new national government.

Pressure mounted on the two big parties to end the 26-day-long government crisis by agreeing on a new chancellor and to agree on a revised election law that would keep the Nazi - tainted National Democratic party out of the federal parliament's lower house, the Bundestag.

The present system of proportional representation could give the National Democrats 30 or more of the 496 Bundestag seats when a general election is held if they repeat their recent success in two state elections.

In their second success at the polls in two weeks, the National Democrats became the third-strongest party in West Germany's second most populous state by winning 7.4 per cent of a record Bavarian vote and 15 seats in the legislature. They won 7.9 per cent of the vote and eight legislative seats in Hesse state Nov. 6.

CALL FOR ELECTION

As National Democrat leaders celebrated and called for a general election, Party Chairman Friedrich Thielen boasted that they "will be represented in all German parliaments."

The Bavarian results raised new fears that right-wing radicalism is rising again 20 years after the destruction of Hitler's Nazi Reich.

Food Prices to Be Pushed By Expanding Population

OTTAWA (CP)—Forces embedded deep in North America and the world are behind the rising cost of food, says the Economic Council of Canada.

It hints that the growth of world population, so far able to draw down food surpluses with little effect on prices, may soon become the most potent force of all.

Other pressures cited today in the council's third annual review: Canada's 1962 dollar devaluation; pushes exerted by North America's current economic boom; the post-war revolution in food processing and marketing.

The council says almost all of the world's cushion of wheat, coarse grains, butter and cheese stocks has disappeared since 1961. In North America, there have been other, subtle effects.

When Canadian wheat stocks were large and backing up on farms, many farmers used to turn to livestock production on a major scale. Today's big, sound markets for wheat tend to keep farmers out of the beef and dairy business.

The continent's economic health has meant individual wealth, and a long, strong effect on food demand, says the council. Shoppers want better, more highly processed foods.

Industry has drained workers from the farm and the agricultural sector has not been able to respond well to demand with higher production.

The share of the retail food cost taken by the farmer now is 40 per cent; in 1949 it was 60 per cent.

Retail food prices last year were 36 per cent above the 1949 level; farm prices were only 10 per cent higher.

The review noted, however, that since early 1965 farm prices have accounted for six to seven per cent of the rate of increase in food prices.

The effect of pegging the Canadian dollar in 1962 has been harder to measure. But the council concluded that much of the increases in prices of imports has been due to the steep decline in the foreign currency value of the dollar, which made it more expensive to buy the foreign exchange that pays for these products.

CLOTHING, SHELTER, FOOD

She Carries a Simple Message . . . HOPE

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova is an eternal messenger.

For the thousands of hungry and homeless she meets every year in the countries she visits, her message is simple — hope.

Hope in the form of barley, milk, biscuits, warm clothing and shelter given out by Unitarian Service Committee workers at overseas centres.

But her message to Canadians back home is a different one and more difficult to put across.

She tries to tell them how it feels to be hungry, to have no food or milk to give a starving child, no clothing to protect a child from winter cold.

In Victoria at the weekend to start The Times' 1966 Share with Asian Children campaign, red-haired Dr. Hitschmanova told Victorians about the work of the USC which she directs.

A world-wide relief organization with headquarters in Ottawa, the USC helps needy people regardless of creed, color, caste or nationality.

About 85 per cent of this Canadian aid goes to children — Korean orphans, hungry refugees in Hong Kong, and youngsters in Indian villages who would die without medical aid provided.

Who supports the USC?

Not the rich; more often people who have read or heard about USC work and will make the effort to contribute something in the course of their busy, comparatively easy lives.

Very often it is people for whom a dollar or two is a real sacrifice.

Through The Times Share with Asian Children fund, Victorians can contribute to the USC's work abroad, and help send Canadian goodwill to the world's needy.

Contributions may be sent to the fund in care of The Victoria Daily Times. A list of contributors will be published daily in the newspaper.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices were firm to higher in moderately active trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Oilseed prices were stimulated by a report that the United States will contribute a substantial quantity of edible oil for famine relief in India.

There was evidence of overseas support, particularly in rapeseed, but hedging sales in oilseeds were light.

There was light trade in feed grains, mostly on a domestic basis connected with feed supply. There was a report of the disposal of parcel lots of Canadian malting barley to the United Kingdom.

Indications of small export business and firm Chicago prices stimulated Winnipeg rye.

STANDARD Woolworth luncheonette design has low booths and lowered ceiling for intimate atmosphere. Victoria store will call the lunch counter the Mount Douglas Room.

Woolworth's to Open Department Store

By AB KENT
Times Business Writer

When Woolworth's open a $1 million branch in downtown Victoria Thursday the city can claim its fourth major department store.

The new premises, with new manager, represent an abrupt change from the traditional Woolworth's store here and will bid boodbye forever to the five-and-dime concept that mde Woolworth's a world-wide name.

Gone are the waist-high counters of dark, stained wood, polished by generations of little hands straining up to toys and household goods.

In their place, set on tiled and broadloomed floors amid bright fluorescent lighing and feature walls are low shelves and counters in white laminated finish, divided into 58 departments on two floors . . . street level and a lower level.

RED CARPET

A vivid red carpet leads from the main entrance on Douglas at View, where Woolworth's abandoned its home of 44 years a little more than a year ago.

The rug takes customers to a massive escalator-staircase in the centre of the main floor.

The escalator cost $95,000 and has taken more than a month to install. To the right of the staircase is the down escalator, to the left the up side.

GIFT SHOP

Main floor departments cover such things as gift shop, camera shop, Mount Douglas luncheonette, men's wear and shoe department, watches and cosmetics.

On the lower level, covering the same square footage, are the women's department, children's wear, sporting goods, music, household goods and pet shop.

The second storey above street level is closed to the public and is occupied by offices, stockrooms and commissary.

DEMOLITION

The general contract, carried out by G. H. Wheaton Ltd., included demolition of the previous two-storey building which Woolworth's opened July 15, 1922.

Prior to that the store was located in another building and had been operating 10 years.

New manager is K. J. Firth, who has worked for Woolworth's in Nova Scotia and Ontario, then spent 15 months at Woolworth's in Calgary before coming here in October

He has four divisional managers under him including assistant manager Barry Skinner, Kenneth Sweet, Douglas Laidlaw and Wayne Wright.

There will be about 175 employees, 17 of whom have had five years or more service with Woolworth's.

Those with longest service are Florence Cosman, 26 years; Hilda McLaughlin, 20; Tess Mason, 17; Margeurite McIntyre, 16; Rose Sinclair, 15; Mamie Collingridge, 14; Gladys Hawes, 13, and Grace Taylor, 10.

They will work in an area of 35,308 square feet, more than double the previous size, and will be responsible for nearly a mile of counters — 4,903 feet.

Pay Parity With U.S. Not Yet in the Cards

OTTAWA (CP)—The economic facts of life in Canada today are not consistent with a general pattern of wage parity with the United States, the Economic Council of Canada says in its third annual review.

It concedes that there are a limited number of special cases in Canada where wages can be equal to or even higher than in the United States, but added that a great deal has to be done before the Canadian economy as a whole can afford parity.

* * *

Any attempt to leapfrog essential growth needed to lift the Canadian economy to the level of the United States is bound to lead to an offsetting adjustment in domestic prices or in the balance of external payments, it says.

Nevertheless, management should not be upset if labor presents parity demands at the bargaining table. They could represent only a long-term objective.

MARKET SUMMARIES

GM Cutbacks Slug Wall St.

General Motors was sold heavily as Wall Street recorded a sharp loss late this afternoon. Other trading was fairly active.

Key stocks lost from fractions to about 2 points while high-flying glamor issues were down several points in some cases.

GM, opening late under accumulated sell orders, sold on a block of 30,400 shares and sank a point or more as the most actively traded issue. News of its production cutbacks brought it under pressures.

Some items of economic news were discouraging and doubt over the possibility of a tax increase created uncertainty.

Canadian Pacific dropped 1⅛, International Nickel ⅞ and Alcan, Hudson Bay and McIntyre Porcupine ½ in Canadians. Massey and Walker Gooderham were down ¼ and Granby mining ⅜. Dome mines gained 1¼ and Distillers Seagrams 1¼.

AT VANCOUVER the stock exchange followed the New York trend and prices dipped sharply lower in pre-noon trading today.

All sections of the board suffered with Home A and Pacific Pete falling in the industrials and Royal American dropping in the oils.

Mining losses went to Atlas, Bethlehem, Granisle, Dynasty, Highmont and Madrona.

New Imperial was a standout, however. It traded nearly 120,000 shares and reached a 1966 high of $2.24, up .41 on the morning.

Reason for its strength was favorable drill results from the company's property near Whitehorse.

Silbak Premier, which on Friday reported promising development news, was unusually active and rose .03 to .30 on 29,900 shares.

AT TORONTO the stock market continued its tumble at mid-afternoon with industrials and western oils sharing the brunt of the decline.

Issues that showed the heaviest losses were those also listed at New York.

They included Alcan off ⅝ to 28 on 58,941 shares, 52,000 of which were involved in a special size transaction and Alcan prefered 1 to 36⅛ on 50,715 shares, 50,000 of which were also involved in a special size transaction.

Distillers dropped ⅝ to 31½, Bell Telephone ½ to 45⅛ while Moore Corp. gained 1 to 86.

Western oils ran into heavy profit taking and the oil index plunged. Dome retreated 1¼ to 29, Canadian Superior 1⅛ to 26⅞ and Scurry Rainbow 1 to 19½.

New Imperial jumped 42 cents to 2.27 in speculative mines on 334,000 shares.

AT MONTREAL most sections moved lower in moderately active trading following the trend in Toronto and New York.

Among the utilities Brinco fell 15 cents to $4.25 and Bell Telephone ½ to 45¼. Quebec Natural Gas was off ⅛ at 24½.

Hawker-Siddeley dropped five cents to $4.00 and Dominion Bridge ¼ to 17. Moore Corp. was down one point at 86.

Banks were lower with Nova Scotia and Toronto-Dominion each losing ½ to 61¾ and 57¾ respectively. Imperial Commerce was down ⅛ at 68.

AT LONDON gilts declined on the stock market today. Friday's sharp rise on the treasury bill rate continued to depress gilt-edged stocks and a South African ministerial warning to Britain about Rhodesia was an unhelpful factor.

War Loan was ¾ down and losses elsewhere ranged to ⅝.

Dollar stocks were usually lower with Wall Street, although in Canadians, firm spots included Canadian Husky and Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas. Other Canadian stocks were usually easier. International Nickel, however, recouped an initial loss.

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar was up 1/64 at 92 27/64 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling was up 7/64 at $2.79 11/64.

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar down 1/16 at $1.08 3/16 in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Montreal reported near noon today. Sterling was down ¼ at $3.02.

GOVERNMENT TOLD:

'Stop Violent Housing Swing'

By KEN SMITH

OTAWA (CP)—Canada's $16,000,000,000 construction industry has a special potential for disturbing the economy and government has been a major contributor to its problems, says the third annual review of the Economic Council of Canada.

It calls for both public and private spending in the construction field to be planned over a longer term so that the violent ups and downs the industry has seen in recent years will be moderated.

More than half of all new construction in Canada falls within the public sector, either through direct government spending on new building or through its influence on housing starts, the report says.

"Given these circumstances, it would appear that a large degree of the instability in construction demand, with its accompanying price and cost distortions, could be moderated through effectively co-ordinated government programs aimed more deliberately at achieving a stable advance in new construction."

This meant that better procedures had to be developed for longer-term planning and co-ordination on government capital outlays and that the federal government had to set an example in handling both its own capital spending and its grants or its shared-cost programs with the provinces.

The report paints a rough picture of the influence construction has on the over-all economy.

PRESSURE HEAVY

After a period of strong growth develops, demand for new construction gathers momentum quickly, resulting in sharply higher wages in the industry, strong increases in prices of materials, fewer and higher bids on new projects and growing costs and prices on projects already under way.

At the same time, the rapid expansion creates bottlenecks in supplies within the economy, especially for skilled labor and materials since these cannot be increased quickly enough to meet the booming demand.

"In such a situation, with supplies unable to adjust quickly enough to meet strongly rising levels of demand, a spill-over into cost - and - price increases occurs across a broad front of labor and material resources."

Conversely, the report says, when the boom slackens the construction industry feels it significantly more than almost any other area.

Levelling-out these peaks and troughs would simplify many of the industry's problems—developing and maintaining a supply of skilled labor, wide swings in profits and waves of bankruptcies, adapting to new technologies and coping with the inefficiencies and strains of alternating boom and slack.

INDUSTRY MUST IMPROVE

But the report also warns that, to tackle the construction industry's problems effectively, it will be necessary to improve the economy's over-all performance to achieve a steadier growth in the volume of final demand.

The report lists three major reasons why construction is so dominant in the Canadian economy.

First is its size. Construction spending now accounted for 16 per cent of the gross national product—total value of all goods and services produced in Canada—compared with 11 per cent in the United States.

Second is the way the industry fluctuated from riches to rags. Residential construction since 1951 had swung from an increase of 25 per cent one year to a decrease of 17 per cent only two years later. Non-residential spending has swung from a 40-per-cent gain to a nine-per-cent drop in two years while government spending varied over 24 months from a 32-per-cent increase to a seven-per-cent decline.

Third is that government "must clearly be assigned a major contributing role as a destabilizing element in the over-all construction situation."

PUBLIC OUTLAY A FACTOR

Generally since 1950, the report says, government construction outlays "have reinforced and aggravated" the excessive demand pressures on the industry during periods of major expansion, while spending has declined during each of the three periods of recession since then, "adding to the weakness of demand in other sectors of the economy."

Given the way the construction industry booms faster than most other sectors of the economy in growth periods, it is not surprising that it experiences greater-than-average cost and price increases, the report says.

"This raises the danger that it may sometimes act, at least partially, as a pattern-setter for other industries."

The report suggests, however, that it will not do simply to dampen the industry to try to bring demand under control.

"It is not always sufficiently recognized that while business construction outlays add to the pressure of demand in the current period, they provide the means through which future sources of enlarged supply are secured.

"Thus, business investment spending, while potentially a source of instability on the demand side, is also closely linked to the growth of the economy's total supply capabilities."

Policies which limit investment altered the economy's capacity to produce in the future.

"It follows from this that it would be appropriate to press for the development of attitudes within the business community which would encourage longer-term planning of business investment outlays."

POINTS TO GOVERNMENT

After saying this, however, the report returns to its theme that governments have the power to moderate substantially the instability of the industry.

"Moreover, it is at the federal and provincial government levels that such instability has been most pronounced.

"The longer-term rise in municipal government construction has been relatively steady. These conclusions apply to new construction both by government departments and by government-owned enterprises."

Pacific Pete Profits Jump

CALGARY (CP) — Pacific Petroleums Ltd. says its net profit in the nine months ended Sept, 30 increased to $4,299,000 from $3,558,000 in the same period last year.

Company president Kelly H. Gibson said in an interim report to shareholders a 10 per cent increase in natural gas sales was a significant factor in the rise in profits.

Sales revenue increased to $45,163,000 from $39,735,000 and operating expenses to $30,408,000 from $26,311,000, the report said.

Sherritt Gordon Seeks Coin Trade

TORONTO (CP) — Sherritt Gordon Mines Ltd. has announced it is negotiating to mint coins for three foreign countries on a contract basis.

A company spokesman declined to identify the countries, but said the firm's rolling mill at Fort Saskatchewan, Alta., about 25 miles east of Edmonton, has already made more than 200 nickel medallions for sales samples.

Maple Leaf Gardens Pays Extra Dividend

TORONTO (CP) — Directors of Maple Leafe Gardens Ltd. have declared a $1-per-share extra dividend—on top of the 60-cents-a-year regular rate.

The dividend was declared at the annual meeting and was the largest in the company's 35-year history.

The extra payment of $735,000 exceeds the largest annual total dividends of the company.

Big Saving Eyed In New Gas Line

TORONTO (CP)—Building a proposed new west-east natural gas pipeline south of the Great Lakes instead of through Northern Ontario will save Canadian gas consumers $75,000,000 in 10 years, James W. Kerr, president of Trans - Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., says.

He told the Canadian Club of Toronto that if his company abandoned its plan for a new pipeline through the United States it would have "great difficulty" in competing with gas from U.S. sources in eastern Canadian markets.

"Many U.S. pipelines are extremely anxious to capture the Ontario and Quebec markets," he said.

"If we ever did lose the large market in southern Ontario where we sell 80 per cent of the gas that moves through Northern Ontario, our volume would not be large enough to justify large-diameter pipelining.

"This in turn would eliminate the economic advantages of big - inch pipelining and costs would go up. As a result prices to consumers would rise and everyone, including Northern Ontario, would lose the advantage of low-cost energy."

U.S. CONSIDERING

Plans for the proposed line south of the Great Lakes were vetoed by the federal cabinet in August but later approved after Trans-Canada promised that the existing northern Ontario line would remain the main one and that a twin line through the north would be started in 1970. The proposal now is being considered by U.S. government officials.

Mr. Kerr said building the Great Lakes line would not affect gas supplies in Northern Ontario.

It would actually result in making more gas available in the north, since supplies for southern Ontario could be carried partly south of the Great Lakes.

Consortium Rejects Oil Demand

TEHRAN (AP)—The Shah of Iran is skirmishing with the Western oil companies that produce his nation's wealth, in what financial sources say could become a major Middle Eastern crisis.

Oil officials are silent in preparation for secret negotiations due to re-open soon in London.

Iran demands that the consortium—owned 40 per cent by U.S. firms, 40 per cent by the British Petroleum Co. and 20 per cent by French and Dutch interests—increase oil exports immediately by 17½ per cent to provide funds for Iranian development—and also, it is reported, for arms purchases.

The consortium so far has refused, arguing that the world market cannot handle the extra quantity (approximately 104,000,000 barrels) of Iranian oil. Increasing Iran's exports would mean cutting oil production in neighboring Arab countries.

INVESTMENTS

Germans Fear French Less

FRANKFURT (AP) — French investment in West German industry is far less known and less feared than American investment, the Frankfurter Allgemeine reports in a study of French industry in West Germany.

The newspaper credits greater French acceptability to the fact that French companies are more publicity-shy, call less attention to themselves and try to fit into the local scene unobtrusively. It added:

"One thing is certain, however. Numerous French concerns have so far been no less successful here than their American competitors."

The paper compared the differing attitude toward American and French competition:

"If a company from the United States announces it will enter the German market or even produce its products here, a strong reaction is easy to predict. In the industry concerned over-anxious firms will be pessimistic and forecast the end of their company. Buyers will be delighted at the idea of sharper competition. Soon the trade associations and political groups will start warning about a sell-out of local industry and the danger of excessive foreign investment.

ENTER QUIETLY

"But if a French company announces it is coming into the German market—and probably this announcement wouldn't even be made because of shyness about publicity—the reaction in West Germany would not be half as strong."

The newspaper reported that American firms usually open their branches here, whether an assembly plant or only a sales office, with "fanfare and trumpets." The president of the company comes from America and all local dignitaries are invited.

"In contrast, when a French company settles here, the picture is just the opposite. Without much fuss, the company just starts to work."

The newspaper also commented, "In contrast to many of the American managers sent to Germany, the French executives usually speak fluent German. Also the tone in a French-operated enterprise is more friendly and more polite than in an American one. Perhaps this is a reason why there is no aversion to French capital in West Germany."

The newspaper estimated that French investment in West Germany amounts to a good 800,000,000 marks (about $200,000,000), or easily seven per cent of all foreign investment. American investment was given as 4,000,000,000 marks ($1,000,000,000), about 34 per cent of all foreign investment.

Jobs Needed To Prevent Recession

OTTAWA .CP) — Canada will have to find 750,000 new jobs for people entering the labor force by 1970, the third annual review of the Economic Council of Canada said today.

If the jobs aren't found, it warned, unemployment could build up rapidly — much more rapidly than in the 1950s when it rose as high as seven per cent.

The present labor picture has changed the twin employment objective outlined in the council's first review, the report says. Then the aims were to create enough new jobs to take care of emerging workers and to find other work to cut down excessive unemployment.

Now, however, with unemployment down to 3.5 per cent from 5.5 in 1963, the task of creating jobs for people entering the work force should have clear precedence over trying to reduce over-all unemployment.

In its first review, the council set an over-all target of three per cent as maximum allowable unemployment.

Despite the creation of almost 1,000,000 new jobs in the last four years, effective retraining, mobility and other manpower programs have increased in relative importance, the report says.

5,000 HONOR BUILDERS OF PROVINCE IN MIGHTY CHORUS OF THANKSGIVING

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

In a glorious blend of color and sound, Victorians gave thanks Sunday night for 100 years of history and progress in British Columbia.

Nearly 5,000 men, women and children joined in the Proclamation Day service and pageant in the Memorial Arena marking the centenary of the union of the colonies of Vancouver Island and the mainland.

Their voices, swelled by an inter-church choir of 700 and backed by an augmented Salvation Army band, were raised in a mighty chorus of thanksgiving.

It was probably the largest and most impressive inter-church service in Victoria's history; rich in color and pageantry and in every sense a credit to directors Allan Purdy and Christine MacNab and the Greater Victoria Centennial Society.

Trumpet Fanfare

The whole ceremony moved with pinpoint precision.

As the lights were lowered, a fanfare of trumpets announced the start of the ceremonies and a stately procession, led by a color party of Rover Scouts, moved down the centre of the arena.

Hundreds of Girl Guides, Boy Scouts and Venture Scouts, bearing lighted torches, formed a guard of honor through which the procession passed.

First came the ethnic groups in colorful native costume; the clergy of most Victoria churches; deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace, chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee; Coun. A. R. Mebs, Greater Victoria Centennial Committee, and many other dignitaries.

Lord Mayor

Prominent among them was the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Robert Bellinger, in his ceremonial robe of black and gold, chain of office and black tricorn hat.

With him were three attendants in picturesque array — the city marshal, the macebearer and the swordbearer.

After the dignitaries had taken their seats on a platform at the north end of the arena, two solitary figures emerged from the shadows and moved slowly up the centre aisle.

They stopped halfway and a spotlight from the balconies picked out Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hunt, proudly dressed in vivid ceremonial costume to represent the native Indians of British Columbia.

"This was their land before the white man came," said a voice from the surrounding darkness. "Now we are all united under one flag, the inheritors of a proud tradition.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt advanced to the platform and took their seats with the others. In from of them were three trumpeters of the Royal Canadian Navy and three Rover Scouts bearing the national flag of Canada, the Union Jack and British Columbia's own flag.

Men and women of all ages packed the tiered seats on three sides of the arena, while those at the north end were filled with the combined choirs of cicty churches in their white surplices and gowns of russet, blue, black and crimson.

Directly in front of the choirs was an augmented Salvation Army Band, conducted by Larry Rowett, which led the singing of the processional hymn, Praise to the Lord, The Almighty, the King of Creation.

After the singing of O Canada, Rev. Dr. S. J. Parsons, president of Greater Victoria Council of Churches offered prayers of invocation and general thanksgiving, and called for one minute's silence in memory of the late Mayor Alfred Toone.

Bishop Denys Rankilor of the Reformed Episcopal Church of Our Lord, led a responsive reading from the scriptures, and Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes gave the address.

"We recall the devoted struggles of those who pioneered this western land," he said, "and we acknowledge with gratitude the strength of the foundations they so heroically laid."

Mr. Pearkes said the past 100 years had brought "almost unbelievable changes," far beyond the wildest dreams of the pioneers.

"We are a privileged people, for all about us are the evidences that we live in a land superbly endowed by the providence of God."

Mr. Pearkes said it was significant that the Lord Mayor of London had flown out to represent the people of Britain at the culmination of British Columbia's Centennial Year.

"We extend to him our heartfelt good wishes and thanks for this splendid gesture."

The Lord Mayor rose and, removing his tricorn hat, moved to the front of the platform to read the scripture lesson from Deuteronomy VIII. He read it slowly and expressively in a strong clear voice.

'Splendid Province'

The sermon was given by Anglican Archbishop Harold Sexton, who sat on the platform beside Roman Catholic Bishop Remi De Roo.

"God's goodness has given to us a splendid province," the archbishop said. "It is a province dowered with immense resources of pastoral, agricultural and mineral wealth; a land of sublime mountains, glorious lakes and noble forests, all part of the glorious handiwork of God."

"It is our privilege to live in one of the most beautiful countries in the whole world."

Because of their good fortune, the archbishop said, British Columbians have great responsibilities. In the words of the scriptures: "To whomsoever much is given, of him much shall be required."

Need Hardy Spirit

"We still need the hardy spirit of the men and women who laid the foundations of this province; their courage, their self-reliance, their contempt for difficulty.

"It is the character of ordinary men and women which determines the character of a nation. We need to realize the value of heroic endeavor in our public and private lives, and we must develop a spirit of responsibility to all our brethren."

The archbishop said the word "duty" is just as important as the word "rights."

"Frequently those who are constantly claiming their rights seem to have little regard for their duties. If we attach more importance to luxury, entertainment and soft living than to our duties, we cannot expect to leave behind us a record of achievement comparable with that of the sturdy pioneers of 100 years ago."

The service reached its musical climax with the singing of Cym Rhondda and the Hallelujah Chorus by the massed choirs conducted by Frank Tupman, with Eric Boothroyd at the organ.

The benediction at the close of the service was given by Bishop Remi De Roo. In a prayer of commemoration, he said.

"We remember before Thee, O Lord, all those who have gone before us as pioneers and builders of this province; men and women of every race and faith."

The huge audience, with choirs and band, then joined in a massive rendering of God Save the Queen and the recessional hymn From Ocean to Ocean, during which clergy and dignitaries left the arena.

Among them were Chancellor J. B. Clearihue of the University of Victoria; Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton representing the judiciary; B.C. Pqblic Works Minister W. N. Chant; Acting Mayor Cecil Parrott of Victoria; Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich; Reeve Ray Bryant of Esquimalt and Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay.

A descriptive narration during the service was read by Richard Litt and Michael Meiklejohn from a script by Prof. R. H. Roy of the University of Victoria.

Queen Mother Among First Five Awarded New Dogwood Order

A provincial award of merit, The Order of the Dogwood, was created by the British Columbia cabinet Saturday.

Premier Bennett announced the award at Langley and named the first five recipients —persons who have made a special contribution to the Provincial Centenary.

They are Queen Mother Elizabeth, Sir Bobert Bellinger, Lord Mayor of London; former lieutenant-governor (1955-60) Frank Ross, his predecessor Clarence Wallace and Viscount Amory, who officiated at the opening of centennial celebrations last February.

The award, which can't be given to serving members of the government, includes a gold medal and an illuminated certificate. The medal carries a dogwood design and on the reverse, the provincial coat of arms. The dogwood is B.C.'s floral emblem.

Actual wording of the cabinet order states it is to be conferred "upon a person only who by virtue of his undoubted and meritorious service to the province of B.C., or by virtue of his unusually significant association with the province, shall have been recommended for the honor."

Mr. Ross and Sir Robert were present at an annual Douglas Day dinner at Langley to receive the honor. The banquet capped celebrations of the union of the colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia 100 years ago.

Sir Robert said he was deeply touched, adding, "This is an award I shall cherish for all time."

BEAVER HOLED

Saturday's festivities on the mainland were highlighted by docking of the navy-built replica of Ss. Beaver, the pioneer steam ship of the north Pacific, at New Westminster.

The paddle wheeler was holed in docking, by a protruding gangway. However only the wooden shell built around the steel-hulled ship was pierced and well above the water line.

Premier Bennett, Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes and Sir Robert greeted the arrival. New Westminster-born actor Raymond Burr was landed to read the proclamation of union.

A sabre was used to cut a 400-pound birthday cake and portions of the cake were distributed. Later, at Fort Langley, Sir Robert opened a $55,000 museum of farm machinery, Langley's centennial project.

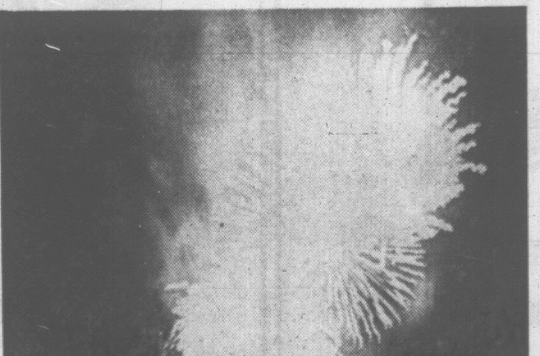
YOUNG DOGWOOD TREE is planted in the precinct lawns of Christ Church Cathedral to mark proclamation of union between Vancouver Island and the Mainland. Planting ceremony was performed by Mrs. Brian Gingell, wife of the People's Warden, in the presence of Dean Brian Whitlow (behind) and members of the congregation.

'SO SORRY ABOUT 200 EMPTY SEATS

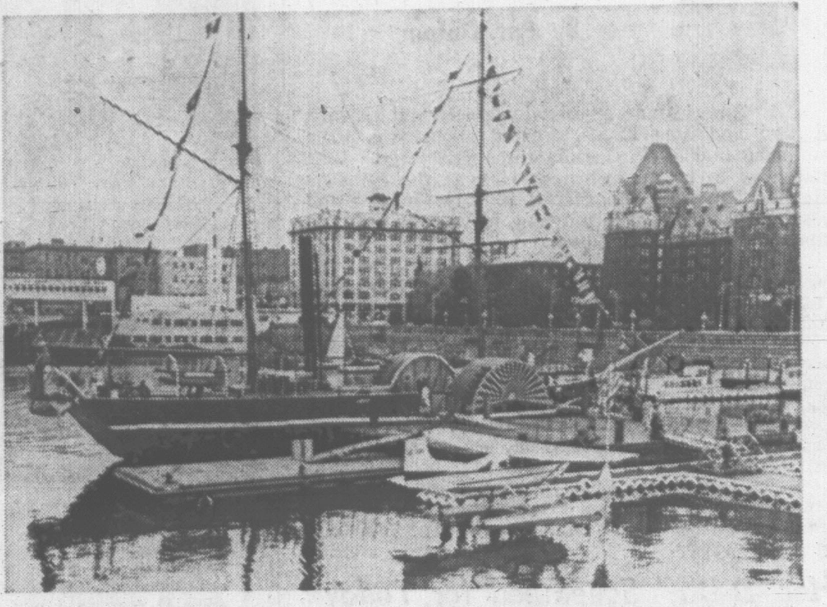
In spite of the great demand for tickets, there were more than 200 empty seats at the centennial service in the Memorial Arena Sunday night.

"We were very distressed by this," said Jerry Gosley, co-ordinator of Greater Victoria Centennial Society. "We distributed 5,035 tickets—the full capacity of the Arena — but more than 200 were returned just before the service began.

"We are extremely sorry this happened."



GIANT white chrysanthemum formed over Clover Point Sunday night as Victoria's Centennial celebrations ended in a blaze of fireworks. The Dallas Road waterfront was jammed with cars as thousands of men, women and children enjoyed the sparkling patterns of light. Many went directly to the waterrfont from Centennial service in Memorial Arena. Thousands watched from gardens and windows.



HUNDREDS inspected Ss. Beaver, re-created pioneer steam vessel of the Pacific Coast, in the Inner Harbor, Sunday afternoon. The Beaver was making farewell appearance in British Columbia's Centennial celebrations before going into HMC Dockyard for the winter. Light seaplane in foreground forms effective contrast between old and new.

Saanich Hunter Dies In Up-Island Mishap

Man Found Pinned Under Small Boat

By TERRY IZZARD

Fred Cochrane's love of hunting ended in his death over the weekend.

The 49-year-old Saanich man was found pinned under his overturned outboard boat at lonely Quinsam Lake, near Campbell River, Saturday.

Nearby was the home-built camper he'd left home in last Monday for a hunting holiday.

Inside the camper, waiting faithfully for his master's return, was Mr. Cochrane's pet dog Gigi.

Gigi's lively condition indicated Mr. Cochrane had been away no more than 24 hours.

TWO CHILDREN

The father of two said goodbye to his wife Phyllis on the doorstep of their home, 3983 Holland, with the promise he'd be back Saturday evening.

Instead of his familiar footstep, it was a Saanich policeman who walked up the driveway Saturday to say a hunter, answering her husband's description, had been found by four hunters close to the shores of the lake.

HEART ATTACK?

Mrs. Cochrane has asked for an autopsy to determine whether her husband died of a heart attack.

"He would never tip a boat," she said.

"He was raised in Saanich and knew every piece of terrain and everything there was to know about hunting and boating."

Mr. Cochrane, who worked in the paint department of Yarrows Ltd., returned only last Monday after taking his daughter Beverley, 19, on a hunting trip by the same lake.

Then he loaded up and set out again the same evening.

At the time of his death, Mr. Cochrane was believed to be heading across the lake to hunt deer.

TACKLE IN CAMPER

The fishing tackle he had taken with him was found in the camper.

Weeds on the propeller of his boat indicated he'd been trying to clear the prop when he died.

In addition to his wife and daughter, he leaves a 20-year-old son Michael and sister Mrs Helen Loat of Victoria.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Meanwhile, Duncan RCMP and friends were searching dense bush around Glenora today for missing hunter Brian Young.

The 18-year-old Duncan youth was parted from friend John Hankins Sunday and had failed to turn up by dark.

When early morning searches by friends failed to detect him, police, armed with loud hailers, went into the area.

Another hunter, Stephen Berkes, of 1521 Mortimer, Saanich, limped out of the woods near Sooke today after struggling half the night to free his foot which was trapped between two rocks

The 42-year-old greenhouse man was treated for a sprained ankle.

He was carrying a deer out of the bush late Sunday when his foot wedged between the rocks.

When darkness fell he was still stuck and it wasn't until late into the night he managed to free himself, and, leaving behind the deer, hopped towards the road.

He was found shortly before noon struggling down Eves logging road by Sooke RCMP.

FOUR FOUND

At Chemainus, four hunters who had been missing overnight Sunday were found this morning making their way along the road home.

The four, Hank Walters and his son Peter, of Chemainus, Hans Bruehler of Crofton and Hors Lehmann of Nanaimo, said they became lost Sunday night and slept the night in the woods near Copper Canyon west of Chemainus.

A Victoria hunter who disappeared in the Glenora area Saturday night was found Sunday.

Brian McMillan had been out with friends Jack Jackson and Tom Hosie, all crew members of Esquimalt based HMCS Mackenzie, when he got lost in the dark.

Thieves Hit Businesses Over Weekend

A spate of break-ins to business offices in the city and Saanich plagued police over the weekend.

Little of value has been reported missing.

Thieves took $14.65 from a cash box and cigarettes and coins from two dispensing machines after forcing a fire escape door at the Pro Patria branch of the Royal Canadian Legion, 625 Courtney, overnight Saturday.

A rear window at Butler Tire Ltd., 616 Gorge, was smashed overnight and $5.16 is missing from an office.

Nothing is reported missing in another overnight break-in at Victoria Foundries Ltd., 622 Pembroke, where a window was found broken this morning.

A pop machine was forced open and coins taken when Trans-Canada Texaco, at Trans-Canada Highway and Burnside, was entered through a side window Saturday night.

Nothing was apparently taken from another service station at 3415 Douglas.

CHEQUES STOLEN

Police are still investigating a burglary at Patterson Construction Ltd., 2824 Quesnel, reported Saturday morning. A cheque-writing machine and 117 cheques were stolen after thieves entered through a bathroom window.

An electic typewriter was stolen at the same time from the adjacent offices of Camosun Electric Co. Ltd.

Roy Reeves, 900 Richmond, told police Saturday that $125 in tools had been stolen from his garage the previous afternoon.

$25,000 Push Needed By Appeal

As Greater Victoria's United Appeal goes into its fourth week of overtime campaign officials are optimistic this year's objective will be reached before the week is out.

To date the appeal has received $426,032 or 94.6 per cent of the campaign goal of $452,000.

The residential campaign and the canvass of federal and provincial civil servants have gone over the top.

But $25,000 is still urgently needed

FEEL PINCH

If the campaign falls short as it did last year, the pinch will be felt throughout the community. For the appeal goal is not plucked out of thin air. It is the considered estimate by a committee of leading businessmen of the absolute minimum needed if the Community Chest's 21-member agencies are to continue providing vital services.

Anything less and the community is short-changing itself.

Three Boys Admit False Alarm Spree

Three young boys have admitted to a series of false fire alarms in recent weeks.

City police stopped the youngsters on the street Saturday afternoon after another false alarm had been turned in at a call box at Queens and Quadra.

Ask The Times

Q. I freeze milk to take on camping and hunting trips but it always seems flat in taste when thawed. Is there any way to prevent this? P.A.M.

A. A local dairyman suggests you blow air bubbles through it as it thaws.

Q. When will the Pan-American Games be held in Winnipeg? Where have they been held before? How many athletes, etc., are expected? J.M.

A. The Games begin July 22, 1967, and end Aug. 7. This will be the first time they have been held in Canada in their 20-year history. They have been held before in Buenos Aires, Mexico City, Chicago and Sao Paulo.

Attendance figures are not available, but the Winnipeg Free Press says "it will be the largest sporting event ever on the North American continent."

Student Faces Action After Admitting Kick

A youth responsible for kicking a storekeeper's wife near Victoria Senior Secondary School a few weeks ago has been identified and will be punished by school authorities.

Duncan Lorimer, school principal, said today the culprit is not the person who was first named by the storekeeper, Lim Quan, Stanley and Begbie.

Mr. Lorimer said he considers the episode to be a serious offence.

School authorities traced the boy, despite the misleading initial identification, and he has admitted the offence.

Meanwhile, Mr. Quan has again opened his store during the school lunch hour. He had closed it to students because of hooliganism.

Mr. Lorimer said all students will be reminded that they are required to be of good behavior, even off the school grounds.

Injunction Halts Dock Picketing

BULLETIN

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice Kirke Smith today granted an injunction sought by the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association to halt picketing of British Columbia ports by striking longshore foremen.

There was no immediate reaction from the longshoremen, and no indication of when work would resume on the waterfront.

Mr. Justice Smith said in handing down his judgment that to suggest the picketing took place without the knowledge or acquiescence of the Longshoremen's union "is to strain the bonds of credulity."

The foremen set up picket lines Thursday, demanding certification of their local 514 of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union as a bargaining unit.

Longshoremen refused to cross the picket lines and work was halted on the waterfront in ports from Vancouver to Prince Rupert.

The employers claim the foremen are considered supervisory personnel and should not be members of the union.

Mr. Justice Smith heard submissions from the employers and the striking foremen in a 90-minute session today.

BEHIND STRIKE

The employers charted the ILWU with being behind the strike in a move to get the foremen recognized officially as members.

The foremen maintained they are not represented by any union at present and have the right to withdraw their services if they see fit.

A spokesman for the employers said Sunday plans to seek an ex-parte injunction were dropped, so that both sides might be represented.

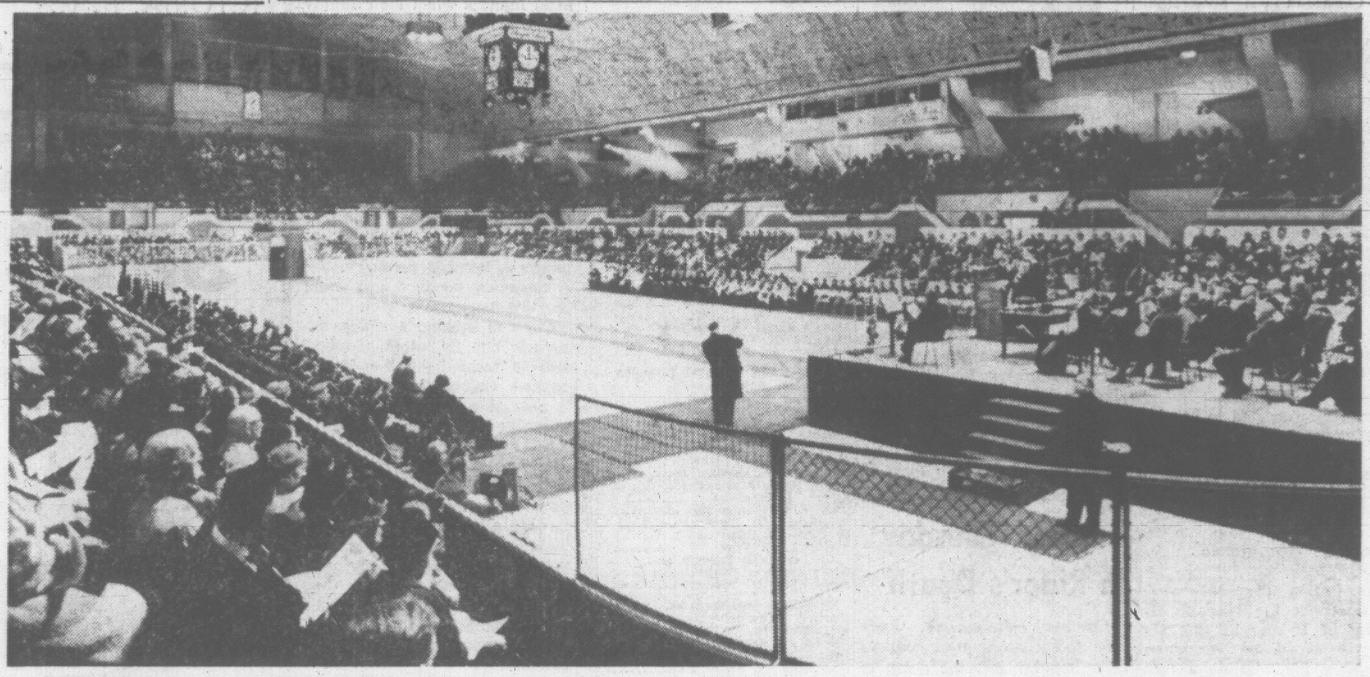
Pickets appeared again at Ogden Point this morning and the docks continued idle.

Longshoremen refused to cross the picket lines established by foremen.

Two ships sat silently at the dockside — the Chapel River and Jagona. They are waiting to load lumber.

Victoria business agent Stan Ball said the union here is continuing to dispatch men for work in conformity with the current contract.

However, the contract provides that the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association "does not expect members of the union to pass a picket line."



ALMOST 5,000 people filed into the Memorial Arena Sunday night for an interdenominational service marking the 100th anniversary of the joining of Vancouver Island with the mainland. With representation from all major segments of the community, Lt.-Governor Georges Pearkes and the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Robert Bellinger, shared the honors in the celebration climax organized by the Greater Victoria Centennial Society. Italy Fails to Get Support From Canada

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Italy, with the backing of five other countries, formally presented a motion today for a committee study of the United Nations' Chinese membership issue, a motion for which it tried and failed to get Canadian support.

Reporters were quick to ask "how about Canada?" when Ambassador Piero Vinci showed them the motion at a press conference and gave the names of six co-sponsoring countries. The names did not include Canada.

"I am not entitled to reply for Canada," Vinci said. "But I want to emphasize that the Canadian government has co-operated very closely with us and we are grateful for the work they have done in helping us to reach this stage."

Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile and Trinidad and Tobago co-sponsored the resolution with Italy.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg told the assembly that the United States can vote for the proposal because it "precludes nothing and doesn't suggest the expulsion of the Nationalist Chinese."

The resolution asks the proposed committee to recommend a solution "taking into account the existing situation and the political realities of the area."

ASKS ASSISTANCE

It calls for the committee to explore and study the situation in all its aspects and recommend "an equitable and practical solution" to the 1967 assembly session. It appeals "to all governments concerned to give assistance to the committee in its search for such a solution."

Vinci said its object is to "break the deadlock" on the issue. He criticized a pending resolution to replace Nationalist China with Communist

Wilson 'Ready' To Order Break With Rhodesia

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson is reported ready today to order a complete break with the Ian Smith regime and to call for mandatory United Nations sanctions against Rhodesia.

But first he wants to consult with Commonwealth leaders through diplomatic channels to pave the way for full support on selective sanctions, informants said.

Wilson is understood likely to make his announcement on Rhodesia this week, ignoring Smith's appeals for a man-to-man talk. Wilson's aides consider this just another Smith tactic to win recognition for his illegal regime.

An indication that the British leader is ready to reach a decisive position on the crisis came during the weekend when Judith Hart, junior Commonwealth minister, cancelled a scheduled trip to Kenya because of the Rhodesian issue.

Wilson likely will hold a cabinet meeting Tuesday. One newspaper suggested his announcement will come Thursday.

REPORTED CAUTIOUS

There are reports Wilson plans to move with some caution, feeling he does not carry the country with him on Rhodesia where the minority white regime speaks with a British accent. However, he has pledged to Commonwealth leaders that he will ask for mandatory sanctions before the end of the year if his negotiations fail.

There is no indication that amid all the prolonged negotiations Smith has budged an inch from his determination to keep the country's control out of the hands of the majority 4,000,000 Negroes.

But Britain has big trade with South Africa which has repeatedly warned it will not abide any trade curbs against its friend, Rhodesia. It is therefore a question whether selective UN sanctions would be any more damaging to Rhodesia than the voluntary sanctions which Wilson once hoped would be sufficient to bring down the rebellious government.

Wilson favors caution in the exercise of UN action. He may ask initially only for a complete embargo against such Rhodesian exports as chrome, asbestos and tobacco. The Rhodesian economy also depends on oil imports and Wilson may seek to delay UN sanctions on this product until a later stage.

This delaying action could heighten black African suspicions that Wilson is only paying lip-service to the idea of eliminating the Smith regime. Zambia has already accused Britain of a sell-out to the Rhodesian whites.

SHE BRINGS HOPE

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova is an eternal messenger.

For the thousands of hungry and homeless she meets every year in the countries she visits, her message is simple — hope.

Hope in the form of barley, milk, biscuits, warm clothing and shelter given out by Unitarian Service Committee workers at overseas centres.

But her message to Canadians back home is a different one and more difficult to put across.

She tries to tell them how it feels to be hungry, to have no food or milk to give a starving child, no clothing to protect a child from winter cold.

In Victoria at the weekend to start The Times' 1966 Share with Asian Children campaign, red-haired Dr. Hitschmanova told Victorians about the work of the USC which she directs.

A world-wide relief organization with headquarters in Ottawa, the USC helps needy people regardless of creed, color, caste or nationality.

Ultra-Nationalists Win Major Gains

BONN (AP). — Sensational gains by West Germany's new ultra-nationalist party in Sunday's Bavarian state elections increased the chances of a "grand coalition" of the Christian Democrats and Socialists to form a new national government.

Pressure mounted on the two big parties to end the 26-day-long government crisis by agreeing on a new chancellor and to agree on a revised election law that would keep the Nazi - tainted National Democratic party out of the federal parliament's lower house, the Bundestag.

The present system of proportional representation could give the National Democrats 30 or more of the 496 Bundestag seats when a general election is held if they repeat their recent success in two state elections.

In their second success at the polls in two weeks, the National Democrats became the third-strongest party in West Germany's second most populous state by winning 7.4 per cent of a record Bavarian vote and 15 seats in the legislature. They won 7.9 per cent of the vote and eight legislative seats in Hesse state Nov. 6.

CALL FOR ELECTION

As National Democrat leaders celebrated and called for a general election, Party Chairman Friedrich Thielen boasted that they "will be represented in all German parliaments."

The Bavarian results raised new fears that right-wing radicalism is rising again 20 years after the destruction of Hitler's Nazi Reich.

Economic Body Asks Stability

OTTAWA (CP)—The economy is falling slightly short of its main goals of continuous growth, rising employment and stable prices and the time is near for some easing of the restraints on investment, the Economic Council of Canada said today.

In its third annual review, the advisory body urged greater encouragement for production and productivity and said the federal government must give the lead in smoothing out swings in the important construction industry.

The council said it doubts that an incomes policy or prices and wages guidelines would work in Canada, except for a short period of time and in unusual circumstances. Canada, faced more competition than most countries in both the goods it sells abroad and what it imports.

"The Canadian economy appears to have been in a rather delicately balanced position by mid-1966 in relation to its medium- and longer-term goals and potentialities," the council said.

"In fact, the case might be made that the economy appears to have been moving, or at least threatening to move, slightly away from all of its basic economic and social goals at the same time."

The goals, set by the council in its first annual review of the economy in January, 1965, are full employment, a high rate of economic growth, reasonable stability of prices, a viable balance of international payments and an equitable distribution of rising incomes across Canada.

Unemployment Up Slightly

But the council now finds:

—Unemployment has risen slightly.

—Productivity growth has slowed.

—Demand for goods and services was sharply checked in April, May and June this year.

—Prices and costs have increased rapidly in several categories.

—There is concern about maintaining strength in the balance of payments.

"We have concluded that while it is by no means inconceivable that the economy could move slightly farther away from several of its goals in the near-term future, the underlying situation — both internationally and domestically—still displays indications of sufficient basic strength and balance to make it unlikely that the country faces the danger of a prolonged or major departure from the goals," said the 110,000-word report.

The council was set up by the government, with a board composed of management, labor and consumer representatives and academic economists under J. J. Deutsch as chairman, to report periodically on medium- and long-term trends and goals for the economy.

It said, in brief, that the economy this year needs some dampening down but "it is important not to resort to short-term measures which would be inappropriate for the achievement of longer-term goals."

It noted that tighter credit restrictions and cutbacks in government spending have moderated pressures towards over-expansion, but said there was a long time-lag in these policies becoming really effective.

'Timely Easing of Restraints'

"Special care must be exercised to give consideration to a timely easing of the fiscal restraints on investment—again having regard to the long lags likely to be involved between any such actions and th[illegible]able effects on investment outlays."

The council said that in addition to having to compete in the export market and to having much of its domestic economy

Population Boom Ups Food Prices

OTTAWA (CP)—Forces embedded deep in North America and the world are behind the rising cost of food, says the Economic Council of Canada.

It hints that the growth of world population, so far able to draw down food surpluses with little effect on prices, may soon become the most potent force of all.

Other pressures cited today in the council's third annual review: Canada's 1962 dollar devaluation; pushes exerted by North America's current economic boom; the post-war revolution in food processing and marketing.

The council says almost all of the world's cushion of wheat, coarse grains, butter and cheese stocks has disappeared since 1961. In North America, there have been other, subtle effects.

When Canadian wheat stocks were large and backing up on farms, many farmers used to turn to livestock production on a major scale. Today's big, sound markets for wheat tend to keep farmers out of the beef and dairy business.

The continent's economic health has meant individual wealth, and a long, strong effect on food demand, says the council. Shoppers want better, more highly processed foods.

Industry has drained workers from the farm and the agricultural sector has not been able to respond well to demand with higher production.

The share of the retail food cost taken by the farmer now is 40 per cent; in 1949 it was 60 per cent.

Retail food prices last year were 36 per cent above the 1949 level; farm prices were only 10 per cent higher.

The review noted, however, that since early 1965 farm prices have accounted for six to seven per cent of the rate of increase in food prices.

The effect of pegging the Canadian dollar in 1962 has been harder to measure. But the council concluded that much of the increases in prices of imports has been due to the steep decline in the foreign currency value of the dollar, which made it more expensive to buy the foreign exchange that pays for these products.

CAR CUTBACKS HIT WALL ST.

NEW YORK (AP) — Cutbacks in production by General Motors announced on the weekend forced prices down sharply on Wall Street today.

The Dow Jones index of blue chip industrials was off 11.24 points to 798.16 in brisk trading. (See story Page 10.)

Dockers Strike

ROME (AP)—A 24-hour strike of longshoremen started early today in all Italian ports. The strike was called by Communist and non-Communist unions to demand increased wages. Trade unions ordered affiliates to unload only merchandise headed for Italian regions affected by the recent disastrous floods.

'Province to Suffer' If Big Hitter Fans

Premier Bennett today warned the Cariboo voters that both they and the whole province would suffer if they defeat Attorney-General Robert Bonner next week.

"Without Bonner, I don't think our government could do as much for the Cariboo—or the province," he told a press conference this morning.

The premier, back in his office after a week's holiday under the Palm Springs sun, looked his platform-stumping best and said he intends to drive to the Cariboo Tuesday to campaign vigorously for Mr. Bonner.

The premier said he will carry his message that the attorney-general is a "key man on our team" to audiences in Quesnel Wednesday night and in Williams Lake Thursday as the Nov. 28 byelection campaign hits the home stretch.

He said his government would not crumble if Mr. Bonner was defeated but "there would be a void.

"Can you make as many runs if you haven't got your homerun hitter on the team?

"Not only would I suffer, as premier, without him but the government would suffer and the Cariboo would and so would the province."

He said there were many people in the Cariboo under the misapprehension that whoever they elect to the legislature will help shape government policy.

Quick Action On Swim Pool

Open by Early Summer of '67 After Easy Passage at Polls

The joint Centennial committee of Colwood, Langford and Metchosin districts will meet next Monday to draw up a firm timetable for construction of a swimming pool.

The $200,000 Olympic-sized pool was approved by area voters Saturday.

A spokesman said today the committee also will discuss "in general terms" future plans for a recreational complex "in view of the overwhelming vote in favor of the pool."

Tenders for the pool and building will be called by late February.

It will be open by early summer next year.

In an unprecedented turnout, 1,553 residents of Colwood, Metchosin, Langford, Happy Valley and Glen Lake voted in favor of the Centennial project. Only 457 votes against.

By approving the 25-metre pool property-owners were, besides adding one and one-third mills to their 1968 rates, indicating a community spirit not shown before.

'Sleeping Giant Has Awakened'

"A sleeping giant has awakened," said project committee chairman John Williams.

"I want to take this opportunity of serving notice on the rest of Greater Victoria they are going to be hearing a lot more from us in the future."

Pointing out the total population of the area is twice the combined population of Central Saanich, North Saanich and Sidney, Mr. Williams said people "finally found something worth voting for."

He hinted that with such strong support in favor of the initial development of the 18½ acre Colwood race track property, voters might ask for further development "possibly an ice surface" before too long.

During the three and one-half weeks of public meetings held to promote the pool Mr. Williams and fellow committeemen also discussed plans for a full recreational complex on the site.

Preliminary drawings for a skating rink, curling rink, senior citizens' centre, bowling alley, rifle range, picnic area, and games courts have already been made.

"There will be something for everyone," said Mr. Williams.

Other phases of the complex would also be put to a vote.

In Saturday's voting, turnout was heavy from the moment the polls opened at 8 a.m.

Extra polls had to be furnished at Langford and Colwood by mid-afternoon.

More than twice as many voted Saturday as voted on the hospitals question last December.

The building will have an entrance foyer and meeting room, permanent spectator accommodation for 150 and bleachers for large crowds.

The regional board has set a maximum cost for its construction at $250,000.

Admission to the pool will be "in line with other municipal pools," or 25 cents for children, 35 cents for students and 50 cents for adults.

It will be administered by a local commission.

A second facility on the property, which formerly belonged to the Department of National Defence, will soon be ready.

At no cost to the municipality, the South Van Isle Lions Club will set up a Tom Thumb Village where children will learn traffic-safety in scaled-down cars.

It is expected the village will be completed before the pool.

. . . ECONOMY

affected by the cost of imports, Canada's economy is influenced by generally rising prices and interest rates around the world, coupled with food shortages.

Productivity—output per person employed—was the key to rising living standards, and while Canada had moved into the front ranks of industrially advanced nations since 1963, the growth of productivity had lagged with the result that other countries were catching up.

In almost all but two important segments of industry—construction and the services—Canada was exposed to international influences. In construction, there have been wide swings from year to year. The council said this was mainly due to lack of long-range planning by the federal government.

MORE

This year's slump in house and apartment construction could have serious consequences. The labor force was growing more rapidly than expected and the rate of family formation was high. Potentially there was a housing shortage of sufficient proportions to cause major rent increases.

"In the absence of an early upturn in new residential construction, a severe housing shortage could emerge very quickly in Canada, and rent increases could become a powerful new factor accentuating the rising in living costs and in wage demands."

Payments Balance Deficit Wider

The council noted that Canada's current account balance-of-payments deficit had widened from about $500,000,000 in 1963 to $1,000,000,000, or more this year. This might widen further in the next few years. It will be necessary to maintain an adequate new inflow of foreign capital to cover the deficit.

"Prices and costs have, on the whole, been advancing slightly more rapidly in Canada than the United States over the past two or three years," the council said. But these must be kept in perspective.

Some recent jumps in prices and wage rates merely represented catching up on a time lag. This was typical behavior in any free economy after a long upsurge. It might continue.

"In the light of this experience it would appear to be inevitable that further significant increases in many lagging prices and costs are likely to continue in Canada in the near-term future regardless of basic economic conditions."

The annual fall meeting of provincial treasurers with the federal finance minister should be the starting point for public discussion of economic trends and possible budget measures in the spring. The council proposed to make its reports available earlier each fall. Budget background papers and finance department economic outlooks should be made public at the same time.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

The storm off the Washington coast gave extensive cloudiness and showers to B.C. today. It will move eastward across Washington later today with clearing skies and colder temperatures expected in its wake. The Arctic air is moving southward through the central interior and is giving widespread snow to the Cariboo and the Prince George areas. This cold air will spread across the southern interior Tuesday accompanied by snow and lowering temperatures.

House Debate Urged On Finance Firm

OTTAWA (CP)—A proposal was made today that the Commons hold an emergency debate on the financial troubles of Prudential Finance Corporation Ltd., of Toronto.

Colin Cameron (Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) said the Prudential troubles are the third financial crisis, if not collapse, in recent times of a major financial institution.

Domestic and international confidence would be seriously affected if the federal Parliament did not take steps to bring such corporations under control.

Prudential, a large sales finance and loan company, appears to have a deficit of about $3,500,000, the Metropolitan Trust Co. said Sunday.

Metropolitan, acting as trustees for the debenture and note-holders, said in a statement Saturday the claims of the 8,000 Prudential Finance note-holders will be frozen and the company's affairs placed under control of Clarkson Co., trustees and receivers.

Metropolitan said Prudential Finance assets now are about $23,500,000 and its liabilities $27,000,000.

In a letter to note-holders, Clarkson Co. said no payment will be made to Prudential Finance creditors without approval of Clarkson or of a creditors' committee that is to be formed.

China in the UN and suggested that, in the interest of universality and self-determination, both should be here.

A Canadian UN spokesman said the Italian motion does not go far enough and bolder steps are needed at this stage.

MARTIN TO SPEAK

External Affairs Minister Martin is tentatively scheduled to speak in the China debate Wednesday. He had been listed to speak this morning but plans were changed at the last moment.

Canada is understood to want something more specific than the Italian motion

Canada is reported to be aiming at some formula that would seat representatives of both Communist China and the Nationalist Chinese in the UN, with China's permanent security council seat going to the Communist government in Peking.

The Italian proposal would not sidetrack the vote on the seating of Peking at this session. It would be considered only after the vote on a resolution sponsored by Albania, Cambodia and nine other Communist and non-aligned countries to expel Nationalist China and seat Communist China.

SECRETARY-GENERAL OF NATO, Manlio Brosia, conferred in Ottawa Sunday with Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin in preparation for the alliance's mid-December mid-December ministerial meeting in Paris.

Youths Get Jail Terms

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five youths charged with unlawful assembly in connection with Halloween night rioting at a shopping centre in suburban North Vancouver were given jail terms and stiff fines today by Magistrate Harold Mahon.

The magistrate ordered the five, all from North Vancouver, to spend 15 days in jail and fined them $350 each.

In handing down the sentences, the North Vancouver magistrate told Bruce Waite, 19; Allan Langlois, 19; David Schaffer, 21; John Grant Thacker, 18, and Terry Green, 20, he never wants to see them in his courtroom again.

The charges arose from Halloween riots in which several stores and other buildings were damage. Police controlled the crowd with fire hoses.

Inquest Tuesday In Rider's Death

Coroner Edmond St. Jorre said today an inquest will be held Tuesday into the death of a 17-year-old Saanich boy last Thursday night.

William Terry Bailey, 938 Lyall St., died in hospital five hours after his motorcycle was in collision with a bus at the Trans-Canada Highway and Tillicum.

The inquest will be at Sands Mortuary Ltd., 1803 Quadra, and will start at 7:30 p.m.

Speller, Todd File Papers

Two more candidates have filed nomination papers for council seats in the Dec. 12 municipal elections in Saanich.

They are Lionel Speller, 3628 Saanich, a former Saanich police commissioner and a chauffeur at Veterans' Hospital, and Coun. Harold Todd, 1402 Andrews, a letter carrier.

Two others—Douglas Brown and Raymond Hayes—filed nomination papers earlier.

Children Catch Up On Life

Two Victoria children are beginning to catch up on life after being in a deep coma for two months following a near-fatal auto accident last December.

Suzanne, 14, and Christopher, 11, children of Wing-Commander and Mrs. J. R. Baker, 3034 Westdowne, suffered severe head injuries when their family car overturned near Medford, Ore., three days before Christmas.

They did not regain consciousness for two months by which time they had been transferred to hospital in Victoria. Mrs. Baker spent hours each day at their bedsides, talking and reading to them even though there was doubt they could hear her.

Now Suzanne is showing rapid progress towards recovery. She is repeating grade 8 and walks the two blocks to school.

Chris is making a slower recovery but he attends school and is treated at the Handicapped Children's Centre. He is now able to ride his bicycle unassisted.

The youngsters are using sports as therapy to restore coordination. Suzanne spends some time throwing a basketball through a hoop and Chris, whose walk is still slow, takes on other youngsters in slot car racing.

Both practise golf in their back yard and have resumed swimming. Suzanne was a prize-winning swimmer before the accident.

REBEL LAWYER HUNTED AFTER TOGO UPRISING

LOME, Togo (UPI)—A coup attempt by dissident soldiers was crushed today by President Nicolas Grunitzky with the backing of most of Togo's small army.

The alleged leader of the revolt, a young lawyer identified only as Kutuklu, was being sought.

There was no report of casualties in the short-lived attempt to topple Grunitzky, who came to power in January, 1963, after an army-led revolt.

MARKET SUMMARIES

GM Cutbacks Slug Wall St.

General Motors was sold heavily as Wall Street recorded a sharp loss late this afternoon. Other trading was fairly active.

Key stocks lost from fractions to about 2 points while high-flying glamor issues were down several points in some cases.

GM, opening late under accumulated sell orders, sold on a block of 30,400 shares and sank a point or more as the most actively traded issue. News of its production cutbacks brought it under pressures.

Some items of economic news were discouraging and doubt over the possibility of a tax increase created uncertainty.

Canadian Pacific dropped 1⅛, International Nickel ⅞ and Alcan, Hudson Bay and McIntyre Porcupine ½ in Canadians. Massey and Walker Gooderham were down ¼ and Granby mining ⅜. Dome mines gained 1¼ and Distillers Seagrams 1¼.

AT VANCOUVER the stock exchange followed the New York trend and prices dipped sharply lower in pre-noon trading today.

All sections of the board suffered with Home A and Pacific Pete falling in the industrials and Royal American dropping in the oils.

Mining losses went to Atlas, Bethlehem, Granisle, Dynasty, Highmont and Madrona.

New Imperial was a standout, however. It traded nearly 120,000 shares and reached a 1966 high of $2.24, up .41 on the morning.

Reason for its strength was favorable drill results from the company's property near Whitehorse.

Silbak Premier, which on Friday reported promising development news, was unusually active and rose .03 to .30 on 29,900 shares.

AT TORONTO the stock market continued its tumble at mid-afternoon with industrials and western oils sharing the brunt of the decline.

Issues that showed the heaviest losses were those also listed at New York.

They included Alcan off ⅝ to 28 on 58,941 shares, 52,000 of which were involved in a special size transaction and Alcan prefered 1 to 36⅛ on 50,715 shares, 50,000 of which were also involved in a special size transaction.

Distillers dropped ⅝ to 31½, Bell Telephone ½ to 45⅛ while Moore Corp. gained 1 to 86.

Western oils ran into heavy profit taking and the oil index plunged. Dome retreated 1¼ to 29, Canadian Superior 1⅛ to 26⅞ and Scurry Rainbow 1 to 19½.

New Imperial jumped 42 cents to 2.27 in speculative mines on 334,000 shares.

AT MONTREAL most sections moved lower in moderately active trading following the trend in Toronto and New York.

Among the utilities Brinco fell 15 cents to $4.25 and Bell Telephone ½ to 45¼. Quebec Natural Gas was off ⅛ at 24½.

Hawker-Siddeley dropped five cents to $4.00 and Dominion Bridge ¼ to 17. Moore Corp. was down one point at 86.

Banks were lower with Nova Scotia and Toronto-Dominion each losing ½ to 61⅜ and 57⅜ respectively. Imperial Commerce was down ⅛ at 68.

AT LONDON gilts declined on the stock market today. Friday's sharp rise on the treasury bill rate continued to depress gilt-edged stocks and a South African ministerial warning to Britain about Rhodesia was an unhelpful factor.

War Loan was ¾ down and losses elsewhere ranged to ⅝.

Dollar stocks were usually lower with Wall Street, although in Canadians, firm spots included Canadian Husky and Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas. Other Canadian stocks were usually easier. International Nickel, however, recouped an initial loss.

$ EXCHANGE

VICTORIA—Banks buying cheques at 7¾ premium, notes 7¾ premium and buying silver at 5¾. Selling cheques at 8⅝ premium, notes 8¾ premium.

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar was up 1/64 at 92 27/64 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling was up 7/64 at $2.79 11/64.

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar down 1/16 at $1.08 3/16 in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Montreal reported near noon today. Sterling was down ⅛ at $3.02.

Woolworth's to Open Department Store

By AB KENT
Times Business Writer

When Woolworth's open a $1 million branch in downtown Victoria Thursday the city can claim its fourth major department store.

The new premises, with new manager, represent an abrupt change from the traditional Woolworth's store here and will bid boodbye forever to the five-and-dime concept that mde Woolworth's a world-wide name.

Gone are the waist-high counters of dark, stained wood, polished by generations of little hands straining up to toys and household goods.

In their place, set on tiled and broadloomed floors amid bright fluorescent lighing and feature walls are low shelves and counters in white laminated finish, divided into 58 departments on two floors . . . street level and a lower level.

RED CARPET

A vivid red carpet leads from the main entrance on Douglas at View, where Woolworth's abandoned its home of 44 years a little more than a year ago.

The rug takes customers to a massive escalator-staircase in the centre of the main floor.

The escalator cost $95,000 and has taken more than a month to install. To the right of the staircase is the down escalator, to the left the up side.

GIFT SHOP

Main floor departments cover such things as gift shop, camera shop, Mount Douglas luncheonette, men's wear and shoe department, watches and cosmetics.

On the lower level, covering the same square footage, are the women's department, children's wear, sporting goods, music, household goods and pet shop.

The second storey above street level is closed to the public and is occupied by offices, stockrooms and commissary.

DEMOLITION

The general contract, carried out by G. H. Wheaton Ltd., included demolition of the previous two-storey building which Woolworth's opened July 15, 1922.

Prior to that the store was located in another building and had been operating 10 years.

New manager is K. J. Firth, who has worked for Woolworth's in Nova Scotia and Ontario, then spent 15 months at Woolworth's in Calgary before coming here in October.

He has four divisional managers under him including assistant manager Barry Skinner, Kenneth Sweet, Douglas Laidlaw and Wayne Wright.

There will be about 175 employees, 17 of whom have had five years or more service with Woolworth's.

Those with longest service are Florence Cosman, 26 years; Hilda McLaughlin, 20; Tess Mason, 17; Margeurite McIntyre, 16; Rose Sinclair, 15; Mamie Collingridge, 14; Gladys Hawes, 13, and Grace Taylor, 10.

They will work in an area of 35,308 square feet, more than double the previous size, and will be responsible for nearly a mile of counters — 4,903 feet.

Pay Parity With U.S. Not Yet in the Cards

OTTAWA (CP)—The economic facts of life in Canada today are not consistent with a general pattern of wage parity with the United States, the Economic Council of Canada says in its third annual review.

It concedes that there are a limited number of special cases in Canada where wages can be equal to or even higher than in the United States, but added that a great deal has to be done before the Canadian economy as a whole can afford parity.

* * *

Any attempt to leapfrog essential growth needed to lift the Canadian economy to the level of the United States is bound to lead to an offsetting adjustment in domestic prices or in the balance of external payments, it says.

Nevertheless, management should not be upset if labor presents parity demands at the bargaining table. They could represent only a long-term objective.

WORK HARD
MONEY?

Well, now it should work hard for you! This means keeping it fully invested all the time at a good yield, and preferably with good security. Few opportunities can give you the high yield and the sound security of Victoria Mortgage Debentures. Our prospectus clearly shows why. One-year debentures pay 7% quarterly; 5-year, 7½%.
